LONDON, Jan. 20 [Thursday]—(AP).—In thrusts to free Leningrad entirely from its 2½ year siege, the Red army yesterday smashed ahead 12 miles on a 25 mile front southwest of the city and in a flanking drive 100 miles to the south cut 19 miles across three strategic railways, Moscow announced today.

The second drive, a 31 mile breakthru in the German lines north and west of Lake Ilmen, threatened to let the Russians in behind the Nazis who face Leningrad. It already had outflanked the important city of Novgorod on the north and south.

Report 20,000 Killed.

The push immediately before Leningrad, however, was the day's signal victory. There, the Russian war report said, 20,000 Germans have been slaughtered since Saturday.

[A Moscow broadcast said Russian warships of the Baltic fleet shelled German positions on the Leningrad front to help open the new offensive.]

In addition, said the official bulletin and an order of the day by Premier Marshal Stalin, in that five day offensive soviet troops have:

Captured the heavily fortified towns of Krasnoye Selo and Ropsha; retaken Peterhof, summer home of the czars; seized more than 1,000 Germans, smashed seven Nazi divisions, and taken many of the 16-inch guns with which the Nazis have shelled Leningrad.

Rail Lines Cut.

In the second thrust, on the Volkhov river front north of Novgorod, the Russians announced they had cut the main Leningrad-Novgorod rail line, a secondary route to the east, and both the highway and railway between Novgorod and Shimsk, southwest of Lake Ilmen. The Russians said they had "forced" the upper neck of Lake Ilmen.

Still farther south, 300 miles below Leningrad in the area north of Novosokolniki, the Russians announced the capture of several populated places.

The 1st Ukrainian army increased its threat to Rovno in old Poland by capturing Goscha, 20 miles east of Rovno and 10 miles inside the former frontier.

GERMAN WAR BULLETIN.

Wednesday's German war report as broadcast by Berlin said:

"At the Nikopol bridgehead and northwest of Kirovograd [Dnieper bend], comparatively weak soviet attacks were without success. In counter-attacks, one brief dent resulting from the previous day's fighting was sealed off.

"In the Zhashkov and Pogrebische region [south central front], as well as southwest of Novograd Volynski [west of Kiev], several enemy attacks were frustrated. West of Rechitsa [west of Gomel], heavy fighting continues with unabated violence.

"Northwest and north of Nevel, the soviets resumed their attacks. They were repelled. A breach was cleaned up after bitter fighting in a counter-attack.

"North of Lake Ilmen [near Novgorod], south of Leningrad and south of Oranienbaum, the soviets continued their attempts to break thru with growing intensity. They were repelled or held in bitter fighting."

Allied Planes Sink 3 Ships in Rabaul Raid

FIGHTERS SKETCHED.

ADVANCED HDQ., New Guinea, Jan. 20 [Thursday]—(AP).—Thru more than 100 Japanese planes and a heavy curtain of anti-aircraft fire, torpedo and dive bombers pounced on 12 Japanese merchant ships at Rabaul Monday, hitting eight, sinking three, and probably sinking two others, which were left burning.

During the raid, announced today by Gen. MacArthur's headquarters, at least 18 and probably 33 enemy interceptors were downed. The loss of 12 raiders was acknowledged.

The bombers, flying from Solomons bases, found eight ships anchored on the west side of Simpson harbor and four more in Keravia bay. Three Japanese destroyers were circling the bay.

Use Guns on Barges.

Barges set up at the mouth of the bay with anti-aircraft guns were used after the manner the Germans use "flak" ships in the English channel. The Japanese sent up more interceptors than they had done in other recent raids.

Today's Japanese air losses raised the total to 152, with 42 more probables, as announced in bulletins this month. Allied losses were 32 planes. The sinkings raised to 11 the number of merchantmen sunk or probably sunk there so far in January.

Gen. MacArthur's spokesman said the presence of such a large Japanese fighter force is a good reminder "that we can't be lulled into the false sense of security that the Jap is deteriorating. The loss of 12 of our planes, most of them fighters, also is a reminder that the skill of the Japanese pilot is not diminishing."

Repulse Jap Attack.

On the western end of New Britain, the marines, who captured Hill 660 last Friday, thwarted an enemy counter-attack to get it back. The Japanese counter-attacked, but had to retire, leaving 126 dead on the field.

In the Solomons, where American forces invaded Bougainville last Nov. 1 at Empress Augusta bay, a new ground expansion was announced.

BOMB CAROLINE ISLE

PEARL HARBOR, T. H., Jan. 19 (AP).—Navy bombers struck deep into Japan's Pacific island empire Monday in an attack on an enemy air base on Kusaie Island in the Carolines, 700 miles east of the vital naval base of Truk, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

It was the first attack on Kusaie, 700 miles west of the new American bases in the Gilbert Islands, from which the raid presumably originated. It was made in daylight by navy search planes, the announcement said.

Shore installations were bombed and all planes returned. Apparently there was no interception over the target area.

Kusaie is 2,850 miles from Pearl Harbor and 330 miles southeast of

CLAIM ROOSEVELT HAS 236 CONVENTION VOTES IN THE BAG

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19 (AP).—The first Democratic national convention delegates will not be selected for nearly two months, but a checkup today showed preliminary steps have been taken to pledge 236 of the 1,176 delegates to a fourth term for President Roosevelt. A majority, or 589 votes, will be required to nominate.

As plans were laid for Saturday's meeting of the party's national committee to name a new chairman and select a convention time and place, Roosevelt forces claimed delegates from the following states would be pledged to a fourth term:

Wisconsin, with its 26 convention votes; Illinois, with 58; New Hampshire, 10; Pennsylvania, 72; Nebraska, 12; California, 52, and Vermont, six.

REFUSE TO LET DYING FIREMAN HAVE PENICILLIN

Hope for recovery of Andrew Barclay, 42 years old, a fire department battalion chief, dimmed yesterday when a request for penicillin to treat the rare ailment from which he is suffering was rejected, his physicians said.

The request was made by Dr. Karl A. Meyer, Cook county medical superintendent, and his brother, Dr. Charles Meyer, to Dr. Chester S. Keefer of the Evans Memorial hospital at Boston. Dr. Keefer is in charge of federal release and distribution of the drug. The rejection was made on the ground that no bacteriological diagnosis was established.

Barclay's sickness was diagnosed as pyelephlebitis of the liver, in which pus forming blood clots occur in the circulatory system of the liver. It is nearly 100 per cent fatal, Dr. Charles Meyer said, and is extremely rare.

The disease is caused chiefly by members of the staphylococcus family, an organism that has succumbed almost magically to penicillin treatment in its many other manifestations. Dr. Meyer said that to his knowledge it has never been administered in pyelephlebitis of the liver. Barclay resides at 1855 South Central Park avenue.

Yangtze Mines Sink 2 Jap Warships, China Reports

New York, Jan. 19 (AP).—The Chungking radio said in a dispatch recorded by United States government monitors tonight that two Japanese warships "hit exploding mines and sank off Hsiakiangkow near Tungliu" on the Yangtze river Jan. 4.

Heiress Nancy 'Broke'; Places Goods on Sale

NASSAU, Bahamas, Jan. 19 (AP).—Nancy Oakes de Marigny, inheritor of a full share of her father's gold mine millions, offered her household furnishings for sale at auction today and declined to pay a few cents on postage-due letters because the Bahamas government has tied up her funds.

"I can't afford it," she said at the postoffice, where Christmas greetings were held for approximately 36 cents postage shortage.

Mrs. De Marigny came here from Havana, Cuba, where she accompanied her husband, Alfred de Marigny, who was ordered to leave the Bahamas following his acquittal of a charge of murdering Nancy's father, Harry Oakes.

Seeks Part of Millions.

She sought to have some part of the $2,000,000 to $4,000,000 bequeathed to her by her father released by the exchange control committee so she could transfer it to Cuba for medical and living expenses. She suffers from a jaw infection resulting from a near fatal attack of typhoid fever while on a Mexican honeymoon.

"I saw a member of the finance control committee yesterday," she reported, biting her lip. "He wasn't very encouraging, but I still have hope. I'm quite ill, and a necessary operation is long overdue and has become urgent."

Allowance Held Up.

Mrs. De Marigny, who spent a small fortune in behalf of her husband during his fight for life before a jury, is pleading singlehandedly for use of some part of her fortune. Oakes directed in his will that she receive a minimum of $1,000 monthly, but even this amount is entangled in exchange regulations. Now 19 years old, her fortune is being held in trust until she reaches the age of 30.

Nancy has arranged about 400 articles in her home to be auctioned during the next three days, a job that raised blisters on her hands. She is staying with the Baron and Baroness Georg af Trolle who have announced they will return to Sweden by way of Haiti, and who are selling some furniture at Nancy's auction.

Reads Chart That Isn't; Make Army He Doesn't

Clarksburg, W. Va., Jan. 19 (AP).—The prospective inductee sang out the letters on the eye chart. The examiner, noting the candidate's thick lensed glasses, removed the chart. Again the letters were reeled off. "You'd better buy yourself a dog and cane to avoid getting run over," said the examiner. "Rejected."

AIR MAIL OFTEN PUT OFF TO GIVE TRAVELERS ROOM

If your air mail letters have been delayed or have arrived by train instead of plane you can blame it on the fact that mail has no priority for air travel, postoffice officials said yesterday.

If a ferry pilot shows up and there isn't room on the plane for him, then a sack of mail goes off to create space. The sack then waits for another plane or goes by train, it was explained. Military equipment and people with air travel priorities get the first chance at plane space.

Several of the air lines now are running cargo ships to carry air mail. The planes can load up with 5,000 to 6,000 pounds of mail for the run between New York and San Francisco or Chicago and the east and west coasts. Officials said that air mail service had not been disrupted much despite the heavy demand for space by air travelers.

'Monk' Enters Doghouse After He Bites an M. P.

Monk, a hulking St. Bernard attached to the military police headquarters at 2442 Warren boulevard, won a place in the guardhouse yesterday by biting Pvt. James Loisel, 29 years old, who was also attached to the headquarters. Loisel told army physicians who examined him that Monk had seized him by the elbow as he was moving cases into the basement. The physicians ordered Monk to be taken to the city dog pound today for observation.

CHICAGO REGION LEADING NATION IN WAR OUTPUT

Warned of Hazards of No. 1 Area.

BY CHARLES CHEADLE.

The Chicago metropolitan area has been made the nation's greatest war production center, and is scheduled to send more materials and supplies to the fighting fronts in the final stages of the war than any other community in the United States, THE TRIBUNE learned last night.

Chicago plants and workers, it was revealed, now are producing nearly 6 per cent of the dollar volume of war supplies—more than any other area—and will be called upon to turn out an even greater share by early summer. Every other area in the country has reached or passed its production peak, it was learned, but Chicago's maximum is six months or a year ahead.

Produce 5 Billions Yearly.

As of Dec. 31, 1943, Chicago was producing war materials at the rate of 5 billion dollars a year, a giant's share of the 80 billion dollar national rate. Procurement agencies, which purchase all supplies of war, are pouring new contracts into the area faster than into any other. The buying agencies include the army, navy, maritime commission, army air forces, and others.

Hints of the load the city's war plants will be asked to assume are expected to be given by Paul V. McNutt, national director of the war man power commission, in a speech here tonight before the Executives' club in Hotel Sherman. His talk, according to sources close to him in Washington, is expected to be a warning to employers here that their man power must be better utilized. It was said he will insist that Chicago district manufacturers must get more out of their plants and workers, and employ still more help, if they want to escape the strictest controls the WMC can impose.

Expected to Explain Changes.

It was not believed McNutt will reveal the date on which Chicago will be placed in a No. 1, or critical, labor shortage classification, but that he will point out what manufacturers face when the change is made from the current No. 2 to No. 1 status.

WMC and WPB officials both said the government long has declared Chicago has not made the most of its labor supply. It has never been under strict threat of invasion, they said, and because of its complex industrial setup required a longer conversion period.

They said, however, that because of its diversified industry and its high proportion of skilled workers, it must be given an increasing part in war production. Thirty-five per cent of the country's radio-radar industry is concentrated here now, and its plane and aircraft parts plants are making flying equipment which will continue in production up to the end of the war.

Naval authorities, it was revealed,

TORSO MURDERER STRIKES IN BERLIN DURING BOMBING

MADRID, Spain, Jan. 19 (AP).—A Berlin war time horror, a torso murderer who apparently strikes during bombing raids, was disclosed today by a police appeal in German newspapers for aid in discovering two missing heads. Workers cleaning up bomb debris have found in different houses the torsos of a woman of about 30 and a girl about 8.

Two days earlier a customs guard at the Swiss frontier found their arms and legs in a suitcase aboard the Berlin-Basel express. The gruesome work apparently was done by some one with a knowledge of surgery, said the German accounts.

Without disclosing how the conclusion was reached, the police placed the time of the crimes as during a British bombing raid Nov. 24.

House Passes Muster-out Pay of $300

BY LAURENCE BURD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—A bill providing maximum discharge payments of $300 for service men and women, including those already honorably mustered out, was unanimously approved, 387-0, by the house today. Total cost of the program is estimated at 3½ billion dollars.

The measure fixing discharge pay at $300 for those released after 60 days or more service, and $100 for those with less than 60 days, now goes to the senate, which last month voted a more liberal bill setting the pay range at $200 to $500. If the senate refuses to concur in the house bill, both measures will be referred to a conference committee.

The house decisively defeated proposals by some members to raise the muster payments above the $300 figure, and voted down other amendments to incorporate veterans' unemployment compensation in the bill.

Bonus to Come Up Later.

Proponents of the house bill argued that any substantial increase over the $300 figure would, in effect, amount to adjusted compensation, or a bonus, and contended this question should be considered at a later date.

Payments under the bill would go to men and women in all branches of the military service discharged, except for dishonorable dismissals, since Dec. 7, 1941. Eligibles include captains and all lower ranks in the army, and comparable ranks in other services.

Excluded are an estimated 400,000 veterans 38 or over who have been discharged at their own request to take private jobs.

Also excluded are former members of the women's army auxiliary corps who did not continue service when the former WAACs were incorporated into the regular army as the WACs last fall. Members of the old WAACs discharged for disability reasons would get the pay, however.

Put in Three Payments.

Eligibles would receive $100 at the time of discharge, and those entitled to $300 would get the remainder in two $100 monthly installments. Members estimated the bill may ultimately affect 15 million or more service personnel, including about one million already discharged.

In the event of death after discharge, but before the full payment has been made, the sums would be paid to the spouse, children, or parents, in that order.

Veterans of the last war received $60 mustering out pay on discharge. In 1925 congress voted them a bonus, based on a dollar a day for each day of domestic service and $1.25 a day for overseas. This bonus, originally scheduled for payment in 1945, was paid half in 1929 and half in 1932. The $60 already paid was deducted from the bonus total.

ASSASSIN LIES IN WAIT, FIRES ON TWO IN ROOM

'Gunwoman' in Fur Coat Escapes.

Mrs. Adele Born Williams, wealthy wife of Frank Starr Williams, an attache of the state department in Washington and a former commercial attache in Tokio, was shot in the head and gravely wounded last night in her eighth floor suite in the Drake hotel. Mrs. Williams said she was shot by "a middle aged grey haired woman, wearing a black Persian lamb coat."

Mrs. Patricia Goodbody of the Churchill hotel, 1255 North State street, one of Mrs. Williams' two daughters, also was a target of the gunwoman. Mrs. Goodbody managed to squirm out of harm's way as two shots were fired at her. The assailant, whom the daughter described as "well dressed," escaped during the resultant confusion that upset the usual decorum of the lake front drive hotel.

Member of Old Chicago Family.

Mrs. Williams, who is 54 years old, is a member of an old Chicago family. As the former Miss Adele Swabaker, niece of the late Joseph Rosenfeld, vice president of the Sunny Brook Distilling company, she first was married to Edgar R. Born, now chairman of M. Born & Co., wholesale clothiers. She divorced him, charging cruelty, on Oct. 20, 1936—their 25th wedding anniversary. Less than a month later, on Nov. 16, 1936, she became the wife of Williams, then commercial attache at the American embassy in Tokio.

The Borns had two daughters, Elizabeth and Patricia, the latter the wife of Lewis J. Goodbody of Dublin, Ireland, now a foreign exchange broker in Bombay, India.

Mystery Lacks Even a Motive.

The nature of the shooting gave police a case made mysterious by the apparent lack of motive. Equally mysterious was one unexplained fact—the gunwoman apparently had a key to Mrs. Williams' rooms, and was waiting when Mrs. Williams entered her apartment.

The shooting of Mrs. Williams occurred about 6:30 p. m. A clear version of the affair was not obtained by police for several hours. The only eye-witness was the daughter, Mrs. Goodbody, 28 years old, attractive and prematurely gray. Everything happened so swiftly, she said, that her brain was in a whirl.

"My mother, who lives in Washington, D. C., had been visiting my sister and me," Mrs. Goodbody told Lt. John Quinn and Assistant State's Atty. Irving Pope. "Mother and I had been to the hairdresser. When we got to her room in the hotel she tried the key and exclaimed: 'That's strange, the door is open! I'm sure I locked it when I went out.'"

Assailant Behind Door.

"We went in and thought nothing more about it. We sat around for about 20 minutes, then I went into the bathroom. While there, I noticed a movement behind the door, and I called out: 'Mother, is there anybody else in the apartment?'

"Before she could answer, a woman I never had seen before stepped from behind the door. She was wearing a black Persian lamb coat and red flowers in her hat or hair, or a red scarf around her neck; I can't remember which. She had a gun in her hand. I was petrified.

"The woman pointed the gun straight at me. Instinctively, I ducked. She fired. She fired twice, I believe. Then she went out into the room where my mother was sitting in a chair, and fired two more shots."

Disappears from View.

That was the last glimpse Mrs. Goodbody says she had of the gunwoman. After a moment Mrs. Goodbody ran into the hall, screaming for help. The woman was nowhere to be seen. A man, apparently a hotel guest, was standing in the corridor.

"I screamed to the man, 'For God's sake, come here,' but he didn't move. Then I saw a hotel employe and called to him. He came over."

The identity of the man was not learned, but the employe is Walter

Shawke. He was the first outsider to enter the Williams apartment.

Screaming for help, Mrs. Goodbody ran into the apartment of Edgar J. Smith, across the way.

"My mother has been shot," she announced. Then, according to Smith, who is connected with the Peacock Jewelry company, Mrs. Goodbody picked up the phone in his apartment and telephoned her father, Mr. Born.

Mrs. Goodbody, as the principal witness, was questioned by Supervising Capt. John Ryan and other police until 12:30 o'clock this morning, then sent home in company of a detective to protect her from possible harm.

Hand Powder Burned.

Capt. Ryan said that tiny gunpowder burns were noticeable on the index finger of Mrs. Goodbody's left hand. She admitted they were burns, saying: "The shot at me was fired so close, I thought I was shot."

The next most important witness appeared to be Shawke. At first he told police and reporters that he saw a gray haired woman walking hurriedly down the corridor after the shooting. He intimated she might have fled down the fire escape or stairway. The fire escape was ruled out because the strong wind outside the hotel was so severe as to have stopped even a husky man.

Questioning of other hotel employes, particularly elevator operators, disclosed that no woman answering the Shawke's description of the gray haired woman had left the hotel at that particular time.

Later in the night, Shawke changed his story to say that he had not actually seen the woman. It must have been the power of suggestion that made him give his first story, he said.

"When I went into Mrs. Williams' apartment," said Shawke, "she told me a woman in a black fur coat, wearing something red in her hair, had shot her."

Ordered to Hospital.

The hotel office was notified of the shooting and Dr. Thomas J. Coogan hurried to attend Mrs. Williams. He ordered her to St. Luke's hospital, where an X-ray showed the bullet had gone thru the right side of her head, fractured her skull, and become imbedded in the back of her head. Her condition is grave, he said. Dr. Eric Oldberg, brain specialist, was called in.

Next to enter Mrs. Williams' apartment were her ex-husband, Born, and Thomas Rosenberg, a lawyer and family friend. They arrived 10 minutes before police.

Detectives, examining Mrs. Williams' room, accounted for four bullets. All were fired from a .38 caliber gun. One was found in the bathroom wall and another in a closet door, which was seared by powder burns. A third bullet went thru the window on the Oak street side of the hotel. The fourth struck Mrs. Williams. Two empty shells were found on the floor, but no trace of the gun.

Fifteen detectives, aided by Drake hotel employes, searched Mrs. Williams' room, the areaways under her apartment window, and sections of the eighth floor corridor for a gun, but without success.

The absence of a weapon seemingly ruled out a suicide theory, weakened further by the report of Dr. Coogan that no powder burns were near the area of the wound.

Assailant Middle Aged.

Mrs. Williams was able to give police a brief account of the shooting before lapsing into a coma. She and her daughter agreed that the gunwoman was about middle aged and wore a black Persian lamb coat. Their combined statements indicated that she was 45 to 50 years of age, 5 feet 5 inches tall, and weighed 13[illegible] pounds. Both agreed she had gray hair.

"I never saw her before," said the wounded woman as she was placed in an ambulance. "I can't understand it at all. She just came out shooting, without a word."

Police said there were a number of baffling features. For a time they were plagued over the presence of a black fur coat in Mrs. Williams' apartment, which at first they assumed to have been abandoned by the gunwoman. This was cleared up when the coat was identified as belonging to Mrs. Williams. Another puzzle concerned the unlocked door. Mrs. Williams' key still was in the lock when police arrived.

Kin Know of No Enemies.

All members of Mrs. Williams' family—her husband, her former husband, and her two daughters—insisted no one would have wanted to harm her.

"She had no enemies, I am sure," said Born, who lives at the Churchill. "I hope police will solve the shooting. Mrs. Williams and I, in spite of our divorce, have maintained friendly relations and have seen each other on her visits to Chicago."

Their other daughter, Elizabeth, was equally positive that Mrs. Williams has no enemies. Elizabeth formerly was the wife of Albert M. Stein, son of the late Samuel Stein, garter manufacturer. She divorced him in 1935 and later married and divorced Jerry Bernstein, an advertising man, resuming her maiden name of Born.

Mrs. Williams' husband, when notified at his residence in the Fairfax hotel in Washington, took a plane for Chicago. Mrs. Williams left Washington for a Chicago visit two weeks ago, he said.

"I have no idea as to why this happened," said Mr. Williams just before boarding his plane. "I have only the vaguest information as to what happened."

Husband Interned with Grew.

Mr. Williams was commercial attache in the Tokio embassy from 1933 to 1941, when, at the outbreak of war between Japan and the United States, he was interned with Ambassador Joseph Grew. He later was repatriated with Grew and other diplomatic officials to the United States. Since then he has been assigned in Washington.

Records show that he formerly was married to Mabel Macher, but show no disposition of that marriage. He hesitated to comment on it.

Williams and his present wife met in 1935, when the then Mrs. Born and her daughter, Patricia, were on a world cruise. The same trip also meant romance for the daughter, for on that cruise she met her future husband, Goodbody. She and Goodbody were married the same year. She lived with him in the orient until June, 1943, when, because of the war, she returned to the United States. She lives in New York, Washington, and in Chicago. While here she makes her home with her father at the Churchill.

Children's Custody Battle Ended

Paul Butler and Ex-Wife Settle Feud Over Children

The prolonged fight between Paul Butler, sportsman and president of Butler Paper company, and his divorced wife, Mrs. Marjorie Stresenreuter Mathias, over custody of their three minor children, ended in a friendly settlement yesterday before Judge Joseph Sabath of Superior court.

From now on, according to the agreement, their differences are not to be aired in court, but are to be settled in private; and all the bitter words which have passed between them since last September are to be forgotten.

Also, it appears, Mrs. Mathias will get back her monthly payments of $625.

Confirmed in Chambers.

The settlement was arranged before Judge Sabath by Butler's lawyer, Robert E. Cantwell Jr., and Mrs. Mathias' lawyer, Perry Ten Hoor. The pact later was confirmed in the judge's chambers by the entire, tho divided family—Butler, Mrs. Mathias, Paul Butler Jr., 17 years old; Frank O. Butler II., 15, and Marporie, 13.

The Butlers were divorced in 1933. Since then Mrs. Mathias, a beauty of the younger set, has married three times. Her present husband is Albert Mathias, a naval lieutenant stationed in Florida. Custody of the Butlers' three children was divided by the divorce decree, each parent to have them six months a year, with the stipulation that the children were not to be removed from the family home in Hinsdale.

Mother Cited In "Kidnaping."

Last Sept. 17, Mrs. Mathias "kidnaped" Marjorie and took her to Florida. Butler had the mother cited for contempt and won a court order stopping the $625 a month support. Then he sued for sole custody of the three children after Mrs. Mathias had brought a similar suit in Florida.

On Jan. 10 the case reached a climax when the two sons, testifying in favor of their father, accused their mother of being unfit, and told of her alleged romances with other men. Mrs. Mathias hastened back to Chicago, with Marjorie, to deny the charges. Then began the conferences, which lasted three days.

It was agreed that the testimony of the boys would be stricken; that all orders, including the contempt and voiding of the $625 support, be vacated; that Mrs. Mathias' suit in Florida be dismissed, and that Marjorie remain in Illinois with her father.

PAPERS SERVED ON DORIS DUKE IN MATE'S SUIT

Reno, Nev., Jan. 19 (AP).—Doris Duke, heiress to the Duke tobacco millions, accepted service late today of an order requiring her to answer a petition which seeks to test the validity of her Nevada divorce from James H. R. Cromwell.

Cromwell, former United States minister to Canada, has a divorce suit of his own pending in New Jersey and is attempting to prove her Nevada decree null and void.

Miss Duke accepted service in the office of her Reno attorney, William Woodburn, from Bruce Thompson, Reno attorney acting as process server. Neither Miss Duke nor Woodburn would say whether she would return to New Jersey. She has until Feb. 11 to answer the petition.

YARDS GROUP VOTES FOR NEW QUARTERS; COMPLAINS TO F. D. R.

The executive committee of the Back of the Yards Neighborhood council, which has been denied the use of facilities in Davis Square park in its project to give noon meals to school children, last night voted to establish headquarters at 4600 South Ashland avenue and handle its meal project thru several schools in the district.

Joseph Meegan, former park employe who resigned in the dispute with the park district, was named full time paid executive secretary of the council and the strategy committee, of which Saul Alinsky is chairman, was directed to continue the fight for the council's rights. The committee also sent a letter to President Roosevelt in which Mayor Kelly and Robert J. Dunham, president of the park district, were assailed. The letter said in part:

"Mr. Dunham arbitrarily saw fit to eject the council and its food project from this public park. . . . Subsequently the mayor violated his agreement with us so that the food project had to be closed. . . ."

PRESS WIRELESS WINS FIGHT FOR WAR ZONE NEWS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—A victory for Press Wireless, Inc., in its fight for the right to transmit press dispatches from war zones was announced today by the federal communications commission in a ruling making the company eligible to compete with other radio telegraph carriers in all classes of message traffic.

The FCC did not give Press Wireless authority to communicate with any particular foreign point, the commission said. However, it indicated the commission's willingness to receive any application from Press Wireless to establish service in competition with such companies as Mackay radio and Radio Corporation of America, principal commercial radio telegraph companies.

Attorneys for Press Wireless described the FCC action as a "tremendous victory." They said that Joseph Pierson, Wilmette, Ill., Press Wireless president, was satisfied with the ruling.

Admits Need for Service.

In its announcement today, the FCC said:

"We believe that altho primarily equipped to handle press traffic, Press Wireless is by virtue of past experience and present facilities equipped to handle commercial traffic on a limited scale.

"Consideration also should be given to the fact that the United States press should not be foreclosed from the advantages of service by Press Wireless to and from points where press communications may constitute the preponderance of the total traffic.

"Therefore, in view of the above considerations, we shall regard Press Wireless as eligible for consideration in the authorization of circuits to points where the 'one-carrier' policy [of the joint chiefs of staff] may apply, so long as such policy is applicable."

Long Opposed by Fly.

Press Wireless previously had been blocked by the FCC in its efforts to establish stations in the Mediterranean war zone for the transmission of war news to American newspapers, press associations, and radio stations. The commission had granted the applications of other companies and ruled against Press Wireless because the latter was not licensed to handle commercial traffic and the allied joint chiefs of staff had ruled that only one carrier could be authorized to communicate from each point in the war zone.

Subsequently, Press Wireless sought leave to amend its application with the FCC to permit it to handle commercial traffic and thus be eligible to receive licenses for stations in the war zone. Hearings were held in November, 1943.

While the matter was still under consideration by the commission, James L. Fly, FCC chairman, told the senate interstate commerce committee that he was opposed to having "new companies" enter the commercial communications field because of a pending unification of international communications companies. Fly did not participate in today's action of the commission.

Correspondents Hampered.

Press Wireless was organized in 1929 for the independent transmission of foreign news to the American press. Its stock is owned by various newspapers and press associations.

Officials of the company testified before the FCC that American correspondents in the Mediterranean zone had been hampered by the lack of direction communications facilities with the United States, while British correspondents had ample facilities.

In addition to applications pending for transmitting stations in North Africa and Italy, Press Wireless has applied for the right to transmit from eight points in France and the Low Countries in the event allied forces land there.

BUILDER CALLS HIGHLAND PARK SUIT 'REVENGE'

E. O. Ek, builder of a large house at 917 South St. Johns avenue, Highland Park, charged yesterday that an injunction suit filed Saturday in the Lake county Circuit court by the city of Highland Park is "political blackmail and an act of revenge" by city officials. He said the city's action was taken because he filed a mandamus suit to gain permission to remodel another building at 623 South St. Johns avenue into four flats.

The city's injunction suit, which has been set for hearing Feb. 1, charges Ek violated the zoning law at 917 South St. Johns by making a multi-family dwelling in an area zoned for single family homes. In reply, Ek asserted that the law as applied to his house is invalid because next door is the Home for Aged and Disabled Railroad Employes of America, which was built before the area was designated for single family dwellings.

JUDGE APPEARS BEFORE JURY IN CHAPLIN INQUIRY

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 19 [Special].—Police Judge Charles Griffin of Beverly Hills appeared at his own request today before the federal grand jury which is investigating a possible violation of the civil liberty rights of Joan Berry, young film aspirant who has accused Comedian Charlie Chaplin of being the father of her baby.

Judge Griffin imposed a 90 day sentence on Miss Berry a year ago when she pleaded guilty to vagrancy but suspended it on condition she leave Beverly Hills. She was rearrested later when she assertedly created a disturbance at Chaplin's home and, upon removal to a sanitarium, was found to be pregnant.

Before Judge Griffin entered the grand jury room, where he was closeted for two hours, he said Miss Berry's attorney had commented in court that he "thought the case could not have been handled in any other way." Miss Berry, former protegee of Chaplin, was expected to appear before the jury tomorrow.

CHICAGO UNIONS WILL PAY FOR BRITON'S FEAST

Chicago labor unionists will wine and dine a British war worker, recently arrived in this country to tour war plants and confer with American workers. W. H. Whetro, regional chief of the office of labor production for the war production board, announced yesterday that Chicago's guest would be entertained at a banquet attended by the high dignitaries of the city, army, navy, and air forces, as well as leading officials of the American Federation of Labor and the CIO.

The banquet expense is to be taken out of union coffers or met by union members in attendance. It is scheduled for the period between Feb. 2 and Feb. 5, at which time the guest is to make a whirlwind study of plants in this area.

The British delegate expected is James Henry Ward, branch secretary of the Amalgamated Engineering union and representative of the Coventry [England] aircraft factories.

"We might present Ward with something at the banquet," said Whetro. "It's going to be a fine party. I have already invited the mayor, Col. A. H. Brauner of the 6th service command; Lt. Comdr. W. L. Nunn of the navy, and Capt. Cumminskey of the air force."

CHICAGO REGION LEADING NATION IN WAR OUTPUT

recently have placed capacity orders for a dozen types of landing and escort craft, and every shipyard on Lake Michigan and the Illinois river has been given more contracts than it can fill. All are rush contracts, given in the hope that many vessels will be completed in time to help in the European invasion.

Man power, it is admitted, is the major problem of increasing production. Except for New York, a smaller percentage of employes in the so-called trades and services—stores, laundries, offices and other nonproduction businesses—has gone to work in war plants here than in any other major area. By late last year, according to Lester Brown, area WMC director, only 1.4 per cent of such workers in Chicago had transferred to war plants, and within the last two months hundreds of these have gone back to their old jobs.

WMC officials said added impetus to the plans to pour all possible contracts into Chicago plants was given at a conference of regional directors with McNutt last week. Heads of the 11 other regions reported their areas could not handle any more work, and the decision was made that more contracts must go to the Chicago area, it is reported.

Plan Instruction Courses.

The heads of the war procurement agencies told McNutt and William H. Spencer, director of the Chicago regional WMC office, they would have to "teach Chicago manufacturers how to help themselves," and demanded that the city be made a No. 1 area Feb. 1 so that added controls, such as priorities in hiring and forced interplant transfers, could be imposed.

They said they will have the power to place contracts in Chicago plants of their own choosing, even if Chicago is a No. 1 area, and that "Chicago has the experience and facilities to give us what we have to have." They are reported to have suggested plant training courses, vocational education, incentive, and other speed up plans, "selling" jobs as a patriotic duty to women, improvement of transportation and housing, and other stimulants to upgrading and production as a means of getting more work out of the community.

Medical Journal Attacks Sale of Cold Vaccines

Strong disapproval of the practice of prescribing and selling cold vaccines was expressed by the Journal of the American Medical Association yesterday. "The scientific evidence against the value of oral cold vaccines is overwhelming," the Journal said. "Consequently, individual physicians and firms who deal in pharmaceuticals and who lend themselves to wholesale uncontroled distribution of such preparations are perpetrating an unwarranted commercial assault on the public pocketbook."

TRIBUNE TO FILE APPEAL AGAINST AP CASE RULING

Plans Fight on Blows to Press Freedom.

Field Seeks Office

Riverhead, N. Y., Jan. 10 [Special.—Marshall Field of Lloyd's Neck, Huntington, L. I., has accepted the candidacy for delegate from Suffolk county to the Democratic national convention this year, it was announced today. Robert H. Hairston, Democratic commissioner of the county's board of elections, said petitions bearing Field's name will go out several weeks before the March 28 primary.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 19.—Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, said here today THE TRIBUNE will file an appeal to the United States Supreme court from the New York federal court judgment against the Associated Press in the government's anti-trust suit. The Associated Press board of directors on Tuesday voted unanimously to appeal to the highest court.

THE TRIBUNE is able to appeal in its own name because Col. McCormick, a director of the AP, was named individually in the anti-trust action as was THE TRIBUNE. Seventeen other directors and their newspapers also were named individually. The judgment would restrain the members of the AP from considering competitive situations when voting on the eligibility of any applicant for the association's news service.

Parallels Scroggs Decision.

Col. McCormick said THE TRIBUNE will appeal the 2 to 1 decision of the lower court because "it believes it to be the worst decision ever made in the history of the fight for freedom of speech and of the press," one that "paralleled the reasoning of Justice Scroggs of England, who held in 1679 that the crown had the power, under its prerogative, to censor the press."

The statement contended that, "no newspaper institution can be free when operating under a permanent injunction," and declared that the "opinion, if allowed to stand, would be the opening wedge for a complete revision of the 1st amendment to the Constitution." A revival of the doctrine of constructive treason by taking jurisdiction over the thoughts of citizens was also seen in the decision.

The statement also sets out that the decision will affect newspapers physically, in that it will make their operation more expensive "by allowing a court to compel a newspaper to share its news service with a newspaper set up by the government to injure it."

Campaign Against AP.

This was a reference to the Chicago Sun, whose application for merbership was voted down 684 to 287 in April, 1942, in the face of government threats. When the AP members and later the board of directors refused to be buffaloed by the FBI and two assistant attorneys general the prosecution was launched.

The government campaign against the AP began in September, 1941, when Marshall Field III. applied for membership. There were reports even then that the administration wanted the new Chicago paper to have AP service and was prepared to exert pressure in its behalf. In January, 1942, the anti-trust division of the department of justice made its first open move.

The AP directorate was notified by letter that the association would be subject to prosecution unless it set up "proper" standards of membership. The standards desired would, of course, be such as to admit the Field paper to membership. The warning was followed by action.

FBI Visited Publishers.

During February and March more than 100 midwestern newspaper publishers were visited by FBI agents who made it clear the government was interested in the AP meeting. They intimated federal prosecution was in the offing if certain changes in the by-laws were not made. In its sworn answer to the government complaint, filed subsequently, the AP states:

"Between the time Field filed his application and the date of the annual meeting of the AP at which action was taken thereon, many members of the AP were interrogated by agents of the anti-trust division of the department of justice concerning their attitude toward the application of Field. The scope and character of the interrogations by these agents caused many members to believe that the anti-trust division intended thereby to intimidate members into voting in favor of Field's application."

Indicated U. S. Wishes.

In its sworn answer, THE TRIBUNE stated:

"The department of justice sent its detectives or operatives thruout the country to call on AP members. These agents of the department of justice approached a great many AP members and asked questions and made statements which, it was thought, were designed to indicate the government's wishes and demands that Field be admitted."

When the AP meeting was held in New York in April, certain of the by-laws were modified and liberalized in line with government suggestions. Nevertheless, Field's application was voted down as were two applications filed by Mrs. Eleanor Patterson in behalf of the morning and evening editions of the Washington Times-Herald. On the day following, Col. McCormick said in an address to the membership:

"I hope the overwhelming vote of yesterday means that the Gestapo is out of American newspaper offices forever. Some of the members were so apprehensive they asked that the ballots be burned so they would not fall into the hands of the FBI. It is to the eternal honor of American publishers that they will not stand for that coercion."

Government Strikes Again.

The rejection of the three applications meant, however, only that the government would strike with another weapon. This it did on June 13 when Assistant Attorneys General Thurman Arnold and John Henry Lewin appeared before a meeting of the AP directors and threatened them with criminal prosecution unless Field's paper and the Times-Herald were granted franchises at once. In its sworn answer to the government complaint, THE TRIBUNE states:

"The government thereupon threatened AP that, unless AP should immediately furnish service pendente lite [for the duration of the litigation] to the Chicago Sun and the Times-Herald, the government would forthwith launch criminal proceedings against AP, its officers, directors, and certain members; but that if AP would immediately furnish its service pendente lite to the Chicago Sun and the Times-Herald the government would not launch the criminal proceedings aforesaid, but on the contrary, would merely begin civil action."

The board refused to be coerced and refused. But it was obvious now to all the directors that a powerful hand was guiding the assault against the AP. It was obvious also that the Times-Herald was being used only as camouflage for the real attack, since a complaint made by Mrs. Patterson two years previously had been ignored by the department of justice.

F. D. R. Interest Noted.

The directors knew the administration was in grave need of support in the patriotic middle west. President Roosevelt's espousal of the Sun was a matter of record. His friendship for the Sun's owner was well known. It soon became an open secret in Washington that the President ordered the prosecution.

The government filed its suit in August, 1943. When the case went to trial the government demanded summary judgment by the three judge court on the mass of affidavits and other evidence the prosecution had submitted. This deprived the defense of its right to introduce witnesses and cross-examine the government's witnesses. It handicapped the counsel for the defense. The result was the judgment entered last week.

List of Directors Named.

The directors and their papers named individually in the anti-trust suit and who could not be buffaloed by Arnold's threats are:

Chicagoan Sketched at War Front

Sketch of Staff Sgt. Arthur J. Mark by Tribune Staff Artist Gary Sheahan in New Guinea.

The Tribune Begins Sketches of Chicago Heroes at Front

Staff Sgt. Arthur J. Mark, 25 years old, whose sketch drawn in New Guinea by Tribune Staff Artist Sheahan appears today on this page, is a flying hero who takes every effort to keep his folks back home from worrying.

The sketch, which he autographed, is the first of a series made of fighting Chicagoans in the Southwest Pacific by Sheahan. Another will be published in tomorrow's TRIBUNE.

Mark's father, Joseph, and his mother, Helen, told last night at their home, 5108 Drummond place, of their son's efforts to keep them from knowing his real dangers.

Commander Discloses Facts.

"He writes regularly," his father said, "and he always says the same things. Something like this: 'Don't worry. All I'm doing is washing clothes. Nothing of importance ever happens.'"

Disclosure of his real activities as a radioman in the transport division of the air forces came in a letter from his commanding officer after Sgt. Mark had been awarded the distinguished flying cross about Christmas time.

It brought the news that he had taken part in more than 50 missions, dropping supplies and transporting troops over territory that was continually patroled by enemy aircraft. Landings often were made on fields only a few miles from Japanese bases.

Citation Praises Heroism.

His award carried a citation for "heroism in flight and exceptional and outstanding accomplishment in the face of great danger above and beyond the line of duty in the Southwest Pacific."

Sgt. Mark, a graduate of Foreman High school, was employed by the Barnes Metal Products company when he enlisted 20 months ago. He tried to become a pilot, but his eyes didn't pass the tests and he became a radio crewman. He has been overseas eight months.

One reason his letters avoided mention of his exploits is that he is engaged to Miss Phyllis Gunther, 23, of 4536 North Melvina street. He wanted to spare her anxiety.

LANCE WADE, TEXAN ACE IN R.A.F., KILLED IN FLYING ACCIDENT

ALLIED HDQ., Algiers, Jan. 19 (AP).—Wing Commander Lance C. Wade, regarded in the Mediterranean theater as the greatest fighter pilot of the war, was killed on Jan. 12 in an air accident in Italy, it was announced today.

Wing Comdr. Lance C. Wade.

The 28 year old American ace of the British royal air force, who shot down 25 enemy planes confirmed and many probables before being relieved of combat flying two months ago, crashed to his death when his small communications plane went into an unexplained spin many miles behind his own lines. He was buried with full honors in a British war cemetery in Italy. He was born at Reklaw, Tex.

Wade went to Canada in the first year of the war and enlisted in the air force. He fought in the "battle of Britain" and in 1941 was transferred to the middle east. He fought across the desert with the 8th army and later in Tunisia, Sicily, and Italy.

COL. M'CORMICK GIVES REASONS FOR HIS APPEAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 19.—The text of Col. McCormick's statement on THE TRIBUNE'S separate appeal from the government's anti-trust judgment against the Associated Press follows:

"THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE will appeal this decision because it believes it to be the worst decision that has ever been made in the history of the fight for freedom of speech and the press.

"For hundreds of years it has been recognized that the press was entitled to trial by jury when sued by the government under such laws as were in existence affecting the freedom of the press. After the star chamber and censorship were abolished these were limited to libel upon government and scandalum magnatum.

Avoidance of Trial Cited.

"The government avoids the right to trial by jury by bringing an equity action for violation of the Sherman anti-trust law which enabled the court to render summary judgment mostly on affidavits with no chance to determine the truth of the allegations therein by cross-examination and to reach decisions of fact in what was really a freedom of the press case, which decision violates the first amendment to the Constitution and deprived the defendants of their right to trial by jury.

"The hearing on the motion for summary judgment furthermore unduly restricted counsel for the defense in time to present their argument and further curtailed this time by interruptions from the presiding judge.

"The opinion of the majority paralleled the reasoning of Justice Scroggs of England who held in 1679 that the crown had the power under its prerogative to censor the press. In this case the court arrogates to itself this power by judicial legislation which it claims similarly to have had conferred upon it by the anti-trust law. This opinion, in opinion of all our counsel, would grow into complete censorship.

Contrary to Missouri Ruling.

"The opinion fails to consider the opinions of the Supreme court of Missouri, which said:

"'Anything which makes the exercise of a right more expensive or less convenient, more difficult or less effective, impairs that right."

"'Impair' means to make worse; to lessen the power; to weaken; to enfeeble; to deteriorate.

"The court said further:

"'The right to speak freely is necessarily attended by the correlative right to remain silent.'

"'Liberty of speech and of writing is secured by the Constitution, and incident thereto is the correlative liberty of silence, not less important nor less sacred. Statements or communications, oral or written, wanted for private information, cannot be coerced by mere legislative mandate at the will of one of the parties and against the will of the other. Compulsory private discovery, even from corporations, enforced, not by suit or action, but by statutory terror, is not allowable where rights are under the guardianship of due process of law.'

Right to Remain Silent.

"Under this decision the exercise of the right of the freedom of the press is made more expensive and less convenient by allowing a court to compel a newspaper to share its news service with a newspaper set up by the government to injure it; it makes worse, it lessens the power; it weakens; it enfeebles; it deteriorates; it impairs the right of freedom of the press.

"The right to speak freely is necessarily attended by the correlative right to remain silent. This decision denying the Associated Press the right to remain silent in not furnishing its news service to any one violates the first amendment if it does not want to furnish it.

"Statements or communications under this decision are coerced by the court, wanted for private information at the will of one party against the will of the Associated Press. Compulsory private discovery from corporations enforced by legislative terror of the interstate commerce act is not allowable where rights are under the guardianship of due process of law.

Ignores Supreme Court.

"This decision ignores the opinions of the Supreme court of the United States which have consistently held that the first amendment to the Constitution can be disregarded only in cases where its observance would create a clear and present danger to the country which the by-laws of the Associated Press could not be held to do by any stretch of the imagination.

"No newspaper institution can be free when operating under a permanent injunction as pointed out by the Supreme court in the case of Near vs. Minnesota. This opinion if allowed to stand would be the opening wedge for a complete evasion of the first amendment to the Constitution. Furthermore, the court revives the doctrine of constructive treason in that it proposes to take jurisdiction over the thoughts of citizens."

GOUGING OF U. S. EMPLOYES LAID TO LAW FIRM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—A bar association investigation of a Washington law firm which allegedly attempted to gouge former federal workers for a 20 per cent fee in obtaining refunds of their retirement fund contributons has been requested by the United States civil service commission, it was announced today. Discussing the source of the names of the 20,183 former government workers who are entitled to refunds, the commission said a list was released to several congressmen who had asked for it but to no one else. It said it did not know how the law firm obtained the list.

ASKS USE OF IDLE PLANT TO BOOST OIL, GAS SUPPLY

Majewski Points Way to Ease Shortages.

At least 2,400,000 gallons of motor gasoline and 1,500,000 gallons of fuel oil can be added to daily supplies in the middle west if federal burocrats will allow it, B. L. Majewski, Chicago oil expert, said yesterday.

Majewski spoke as chairman of the petroleum industry marketing committee for district No. 2, charged by the government with responsibility for distributing available gasoline and fuel oil to the consuming public in 15 midwestern states.

Majewski pointed out that a crude oil refining capacity of 205,000 barrels a day stands idle and has stood idle for nine months in this area, and that this easily can and should be put to work at once.

Further Slash Unnecessary.

"If the government will act to remove barriers against bringing more crude oil into this region," he added, "provide workable incentives to increase crude oil production in district No. 2, to operate refining capacity now long idle, there will be no necessity to insist on a more rigid curtailment policy."

The oil expert, vice president of Deep Rock Oil corporation, indicated he was impelled to make public the facts by a statement of Col. Bryan Houston, deputy administrator of the office of price administration, in charge of rationing.

Houston was quoted Tuesday as predicting that middlewestern motorists who hold only A books and no supplementary rations face the loss of their fuel supplies if the European war lasts until fall. Houston said that both fuel oil production and refinery output of motor fuel had reached capacity.

Refiners Seek More Crude.

It was suggested that Houston apparently didn't know about the refining capacity of 205,000 barrels which had been standing idle for at least 9 months in the middle west—a fact well known to all oil men— and that the 50 midwestern refiners having this idle capacity only last week were in Washington seeking means for obtaining crude oil to put it to work.

Informed oil men say that crude oil to supply the idle capacity, most of it in the Chicago area, could be obtained from Louisiana, Texas, New Mexico, Wyoming and Arkansas. The petroleum administration for war could bring it in thru pipe lines, or Mobilization Director Fred M. Vinson could authorize the Defense Supplies corporation to have it brought in by tank car and reimburse the refiners the difference between pipe line and railroad costs, Majewski said.

No Relaxation in Sight.

"Latest figures compiled by the industry indicate shortages," he continued. "In view of the indicated shortages and the desirability of rebuilding present depleted stocks to adequate working levels, it is not believed that any expectation of relaxing restrictions on civilian consumption is warranted during 1944.

"In any case, there should be no relaxation in intensive efforts to make maximum supplies available by keeping refinery output of gasoline, fuel oil, and other needed products at the highest possible levels, and also encouraging crude oil exploration and development.

"Because of more effective utilization of all allied sources and new high levels of domestic production, the overall supply situation appears in balance during the first half of 1944.

Must Stay Within Rations.

"But the civilian consuming public must stay within its rationed allotment and continue to practice voluntary conservation of gasoline and domestic heating oils.

"Increased production in this country, however, is particularly desirable in that it would [1] decrease the burden on tankers and other forms of transportation, by relieving the present necessity of having to take crude oil and products from distant sources; [2] make it possible to utilize the idle refining capacity in the middle west, for which the present crude oil supply is inadequate; [3] give a desired factor of safety in meeting military and civilian demand, and [4] avoid the possibility of more severe rationing which otherwise might become necessary toward the end of this year."

BRITISH DESTROY NAZI FLYING BOAT AT NORSE BASE

LONDON, Jan. 19 (AP).—Several large German flying boats were discovered sitting like ducks at a base at Stavanger, Norway, and one was destroyed today by British Mosquito bombers on an offensive patrol. The first report of aerial activity from Britain in three days added that the patrol shot down another enemy aircraft before coming home unscathed.

An informant reaching Britain recently from Germany reported the manufacturing city of Hanover had been "practically destroyed" and that the ball bearing industry at Schweinfurt had been thoroly smashed by recent American and British bombings. This traveler's account, distributed by the Belgian news agency, said Schweinfurt's three most important plants have been destroyed.

The last American raid on Schweinfurt, Oct. 14, cost 60 bombers, but 186 enemy fighters were destroyed.

U. S. BOMBS CUT RAILWAY LINES NORTH OF ROME

Flow of Supplies to Capital Blocked.

A U. S. 15TH AIR FORCE BOMBER STATION IN ITALY, Jan. 19 (AP).—Heavy bombers of the 15th air force and medium bombers of the 12th have cut and blocked at least temporarily all the railways carrying the bulk of supplies into Rome from the north, air force experts said today after examining reconnaissance photos of the area.

Supplies still may be brought in over bomb scarred highways, but Rome's major supply arteries are virtually useless.

[London reported a Rome radio broadcast saying that the capital's waterworks were "destroyed" in an allied air attack yesterday on the outskirts of the city. Residents were urged to use water sparingly.]

Of the three major rail lines down the Italian peninsula only one is open at present. This is the east coast line from Ancona to Pescara, which supplies the Germans opposing the British 8th army. The route from just north of Ancona to the Rome area also is cut.

Forts Put Out Central Line.

Flying Fortresses, in their recent raids, put out of commission the central line from Florence to Rome by their raids at Pistoia, Prato, and Pontassieve, all near Florence.

The bridge at Cecina, south of Pisa on the west coast line, has been cut for several weeks and the railroad yards at Pisa were hit by Wellingtons and Liberators Monday night and Tuesday. South of Orbetello the bridge at Montalto di Castro was attacked by Marauders at the same time, but results were not yet certain.

An alternate line also has been cut, according to photo interpretation, at Pontedera, Certaldo, and Poggibonsi which were attacked by flying Fortresses yesterday.

Three Bridgeheads Across River.

ALLIED HDQ., Algiers, Jan. 19 (AP).—Loosing a strong new offensive along the ancient Appian way to Rome, British troops have smashed across the lower Garigliano river and established bridgeheads at three points, allied headquarters announced today. American artillery rained shells into Cassino preparatory to an assault on that Nazi stronghold.

Latest reports said the British were holding to their footholds on the western bank of the Garigliano despite repeated German counterattacks supported by tanks and heavy artillery fire.

An official German broadcast heard here said the 5th army had thrown "several divisions" against Nazi positions east of the Gulf of Gaeta, and that "fighting is in full swing." The Garigliano empties into the Gulf of Gaeta 80 miles southeast of Rome.

Three Assault Forces Strike.

Three British assault forces struck early Monday night and met a curtain of fire from the strongly entrenched enemy. The right wing fought its way across the river near the village of Suio, seven miles inland from the coast, where it still is in hard combat.

A second force hit at a point about four miles from the sea, where a railroad from Capua to Rome reaches the Garigliano and turns southward for an easy crossing of the stream. A third bridgehead was established at the village of Argento, almost on the coast.

Canadian troops who opened an attack along a 1,000 yard front near the Adriatic two days ago were reported by the Cairo radio to have captured a hill a mile northwest of San Tommaso. Allied headquarters, however, said the Canadians had been forced to withdraw before Nazi counter-attacks after taking limited objectives.

AID FROM COAST GIVEN JAPS 'TIL EXODUS: DEWITT

General Reports on Evacuation.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19 (AP).—Signals from the shore aided the Japanese in attacks on the west coast early in the war, but after the evacuation of Japanese from the area the trouble was "virtually eliminated," Lt. Gen. John L. De Witt says in a report issued today.

In three cases specifically cited in the report to Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, De Witt said all three attacks by airplane or submarines were aimed at spots where there were no defenses.

Cessation of the signaling, De Witt said, also brought a reduction in the number of submarine attacks on ships sailing from west coast ports.

600 Page Final Report.

De Witt gave the account of the ship to shore communications in a 600 page final report on the evacuation of the Jap residents, a movement he supervised as commanding general of the western defense command and 4th army in 1942.

De Witt said the decision to evacuate all persons of Japanese ancestry was not taken immediately but grew out of a series of intermediate steps to cope with expected sabotage and known instances of communication with enemy ships.

Signaling was observed from buildings that could not be entered without obtaining a search warrant, radio messages were intercepted, and a "fix" obtained on the sending station within an area of a city block, but the justice department was not willing to make "mass raids" and the army still lacked jurisdiction, De Witt said.

Every Ship Attacked.

For several weeks after Pearl Harbor, he reported, every ship leaving a west coast port was attacked by an enemy submarine.

"This seemed conclusively to point to the existence of hostile shore-to-ship communication," he said, and later added in a footnote, "It is interesting to note that following the evacuation, interception of suspicious or unidentified radio signals and shore-to-ship signal lights were virtually eliminated and attacks on outbound shipping from west coast ports appreciably reduced."

De Witt's report asserts that, "whether by design or accident," Jap communities on the west coast invariably flanked strategic installations. While it was believed some were loyal, it was believed also that others were not and a positive determination could not be made."

RAID LOSSES GETTING TOO MUCH EMPHASIS, GEN. SPAATZ ASSERTS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19 (AP).—Lt. Gen. Carl Spaatz, commander of all American strategic bombing of Europe, says too much emphasis is being given to losses in raids on Germany.

In a statement made public by the war department today, Spaatz said:

"I believe too much emphasis is being given to reporting losses and that this sometimes helps the enemy more than it aids understanding by our people. I suggest we start teaching the public to consider air operations of this magnitude in the same light as major ground and sea operations which, tho land operations take longer, are essentially very similar.

"Because of the large forces involved, constantly increasing difficulty is being experienced in assessing individual plane results against individual losses, instead of dealing with units carrying out assigned missions. Forces employed now approximate 100,000 men of whom 7,000 participate in direct combat and this number will increase materially."

ALIENS RULE U. S. FOREIGN POLICY, LANGER CHARGES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—Charging that key positions in agencies controling American foreign affairs are being held by British subjects and minions of other foreign nations, Sen. Langer [R., N. D.] today introduced a resolution calling for a senate investigation.

Langer said information had been given to him which, if true, "seems dangerous to the war effort, fraught with peril to the American people, and sinister in its implications, involving men high in this government."

"I believe that several hundred persons, many of whom are British subjects, others of whom have only taken out their first naturalization papers, and others deliberately planted here by other foreign governments, are holding key positions in agencies controling American foreign affairs, and that many of them are furthering British aims at American expense," he said.

Ethiopian Deal Charged.

"I realize the seriousness of these charges and would not make them unless I was satisfied that they are true.

"It is my understanding that international financiers have formed a British syndicate which has taken over the entire mineral rights of Ethiopia and that this syndicate has become so powerful that it prevented the American mission to Ethiopia.

"I am told the American mission has not been started because a British subject high in the councils of this government has stopped the processing of the proper papers for the personnel of the mission and that this high official has stated he would see that members of the American mission never would be granted necessary passports."

Langer said the American mission, appointed by the state department, was set up to investigate the potentialities of Ethiopia. Engineers have been named to the mission, he said, but no one has yet been sent to Ethiopia.

Fears Day of Disillusion.

"These facts are either true or untrue," Langer said. "They are, however, of such tremendous importance that in my opinion they merit the most careful and fullest consideration by the proper committee. Unless we do something here soon the American people are going to wake up some day terribly disillusioned."

Langer's resolution, referred to the senate foreign relations committee, proposes an investigation to ascertain:

1. To what extent important American foreign affairs are being directed by self-admitted "international officials."

2. How many key positions in agencies supported by American taxpayers are occupied by British subjects who never have become naturalized citizens of the United States or have taken out only first papers.

Probe on "Plants" Sought.

3. Whether English-Americans deliberately have been planted in those agencies, not to further American interest, but to safeguard and enhance British interests at American expense.

4. Whether Lauchlin Currie, one of the executive assistants to the President and recently appointed acting deputy administrator of the foreign economic administration, is a British subject.

5. Whether it is true that competent American engineers have been ignored while persons who owe allegiance to Great Britain have been hired.

BRITAIN WARNS FRANCO OVER HELP TO NAZIS

LONDON, Jan. 19 (AP).—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden warned Generalissimo Francisco Franco today of "the most serious effect" which the presence of Spanish troops fighting alongside the Germans on the Russian front "must have on Anglo-Spanish relations now and in the future." The warning was voiced in the house of commons in the presence of Prime Minister Churchill.

London newspapers gave prominent display to the foreign secretary's warning. The Star said editorially:

"At last we are beginning to get to grips with the dictator, Franco. The crisis in Anglo-Spanish affairs arises out of the farce of the so-called 'withdrawal' of the Spanish Blue division from the Russian front. . . . Moscow's precise information of Spanish troops still fighting on the Leningrad front effectively exposed Franco's duplicity.

"This barefaced breach of neutrality has to stop. Either Franco asserts his authority . . . or else the British and American governments must take really effective steps against him."

CHICAGO FLYER LISTED AS ONE OF CRASH VICTIMS

Sgt. H. J. Manasse of Chicago and seven other persons were killed when a flaming army transport plane crashed into a small house in Oakland, Cal., Tuesday. Sgt. Manasse was a son of Harold J. Manasse Sr., 227 East Delaware place, and Mrs. Lee Davis, 40 East Oak street. He was 24 years old. He was graduated from Elgin academy in 1941 and enlisted in the air forces for radio training in 1942. He was stationed at Maxton field, N. C., and was on a routine training flight to the west coast.

PURPLE HEART IS AWARDED TO SLAIN CHAPLAIN

The Order of the Purple Heart was awarded posthumously to the Rev. James M. Liston, first Catholic chaplain from the Chicago archdiocese to be killed in action, in a ceremony at the Stevens hotel last night.

The medal was presented to the slain chaplain's father, James J. Liston, 6613 South Honore street, by Henry F. Marquand, senior vice commander of the department of Illinois of the Military Order of the Purple Heart. The Rev. Mr. Liston lost his life when a convoy he was with in the North Atlantic was attacked by the enemy Feb. 7, 1943.

The presentation, under the auspices of the Abraham Lincoln chapter of the order, took place at a banquet of the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable association.

FRESH CONCERN RISES OVER RED PEACE RUMOR

British Await Official Acceptance of Denial.

Report New Feeler

New York, Jan. 19 (AP).—David Anderson, NBC reporter in Stockholm, said today that Stockholm newspapers are publishing a story to the effect that Adolf Hitler had dispatched semi-official representatives to Ankara to discuss separate peace terms with Russia. The story was credited to the Geneva newspaper La Suisse.

According to this story, Anderson said, a conference was held in Berlin to consider a possible change in Nazi alliances.

"The report further states," Anderson said, "that the German diplomatic plan for 1944 calls for a separation between Russia and the western powers. It ends by saying that 'the 1939 alliance with Russia can be repeated.'"

MOSCOW, Jan. 19 (AP).—British and American diplomats in Moscow showed fresh concern today over the latest turn of events in the case of Pravda's peace rumor story. The Russians remained officially silent.

The soviet press gave the Russian people news of the British foreign office denial of the rumor that the British had been discussing peace with German Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop, but it carried only a brief news dispatch on the denial and it made no comment, editorial or otherwise.

Failure to publish the text of the British denial gave some worry to British authorities who had hoped for official acceptance of their explanation. The Russian press printed only the following item under the heading, "Declaration of the English Foreign Office:

"LONDON, Jan. 17 [Tass].—According to Reuters, the British foreign office denies rumors reproduced by the Cairo correspondent of Pravda's telegram alleging that a meeting of two prominent Englishmen with Ribbentrop has taken place."

Print London Story, Too.

The first news of this denial was broadcast by the Moscow radio last night in dictating stories to provincial newspapers.

At the same time the soviet press printed the story from London quoting the Ankara correspondent of the Sunday Times of London as saying that, while it was true that the German ambassador to Turkey, Franz Von Papen, had not made peace proposals, it was not true that peace proposals had not been made recently by the Germans.

The Sunday Times dispatch was printed along with the British foreign office denial on the back page—the foreign page—of both the government newspaper Izvestia and the Communist party paper Pravda.

Pravda, which appeared today for the first time since original publication of its Cairo correspondent's story, had no follow-up article, and it did not make any editorial comment.

Something Up, Say Reds.

The first reaction of the ordinary Russian to publication of the Sunday Times story was, "You see, something is up." Many Russians who may have discounted to some extent the original story now are convinced that the British have been listening, if nothing else, to peace proposals from Germany.

The story said that Hitler introduced this peace maneuver in an effort to separate the soviet union, Britain, and the United States.

United States Ambassador W. Averell Harriman worked thru most of yesterday and his lights at Spasso house burned far into the night. American correspondents who have been trying to see him since Monday, when the Pravda story appeared, were told that the ambassador would like to receive them, but that he "just doesn't have the time right now."

Hull, Halifax Confer.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19 (AP).—British Ambassador Halifax conferred with Secretary of State Hull today concerning Pravda's publication of rumors of a "separate peace" talk between two Britons and Nazi Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop.

PARTISANS FACE GERMANS IN 4 MAJOR BATTLES

LONDON, Jan. 19 (AP).—The Jugo-Slav Partisan army, still lacking heavy armament for a decisive campaign, fought on desperately in four major land engagements in Jugo-Slavia today. The heaviest fighting centered at Lipovac in western Bosnia, where a German motorized division of some 400 vehicles was surrounded and then relieved by a second division which broke thru on the road to JaJce.

Jugo-Slav units took the offensive in eastern Bosnia with a main thrust toward Tuzla, a Partisan bulletin said, and heavy fighting continued in Herzegovina and Croatia.

Allied headquarters in Algiers disclosed that British destroyers during the week shelled ports from Durazzo northward including Korcula and Rovigno on the Istrian peninsula. British coastal forces, dashing in near the coast of Brac Island, torpedoed a small enemy ship and attacked a Siebel ferry.

RED-POLISH FEUD PERIL TO ALLIES, EDEN DECLARES

Parliament Cautioned to Go Easy.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 19.—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden today urged in the house of commons that "the utmost reserve be practiced" in discussion of the soviet-Polish border dispute.

"I do not think it would be a good thing for you [members of parliament] to try to discuss all these extremely difficult and delicate matters at this time," he said. He added that the question was receiving "the constant thoughts of the government, particularly the foreign office," and that the British government was attempting to impress upon both Poland and Russia that continuance of the quarrel would endanger the allied cause.

Churchill Studies Question.

Prime Minister Churchill was said to have examined all papers dealing with the dispute today. It was further reported that the British government had no desire or intention to dictate to Poland in the matter.

It was emphasized here that Moscow has done many things to make solution of the dispute extremely difficult. Furthermore, it was pointed out, if the Polish government in exile, which both America and Britain have recognized, were revamped according to Russian wishes, the very fact that the change took place under duress would make the new regime unrepresentative of the Polish people and therefore unqualified either to accept or reject soviet dictation.

German propaganda cites all Moscow outbursts as proof that Stalin will permit no interference by either Churchill or President Roosevelt in the mapping of post-war Europe. Moreover, a Moscow broadcast which asserted that the voice of the allied nations at the peace table will be in direct proportion to the contribution of each nation toward victory, seemed to confirm Moscow's apparent bid for a dominating seat.

Fuel for Propaganda.

Meanwhile the allies' psychological war department is being embarrassed by the Germans' propaganda which asserts the Reds already have begun the bolshevization of Europe. The Germans cite in support of their contention the Polish border dispute, the Moscow broadcast of the fake British peace negotiations story, Russia's denunciation of the Polish government in exile, the appointment of Marshal Josip [Tito] Broz of Jugo-Slavia as an allied field marshal, and appointment of Communists to important posts in the allied military government in southern Italy.

At the same time the Communist party in Britain has become more and more vociferous in demanding equal status with the three major parties of the coalition government. Its most recent action was a warning that unless the party receives a voice in the selection of candidates for by-elections it will reserve "freedom of action." Since the start of the war the Communists have been criticizing every critic of the government.

A report that the French had asked the allies for a number of surrendered Italian warships was confirmed.

POLISH CABINET PLANNED TO HELP HITLER, RED SAYS

Hint Call to Stalin

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 20 [Thursday].—Prime Minister Churchill may get into direct telephone contact with Marshal Stalin to solve the Russo-Polish deadlock, it was reported here today. President Roosevelt also may play a part in the peace efforts, said the Daily Express, "on the basis of the personal friendship he established with Stalin at Teheran."

MOSCOW, Jan. 19 (AP).—A charge that the Polish government in London "and its sympathizers" do not want friendly relations between Russia and Poland was made in the magazine War and the Working Class today.

The accusation was made by Nikolai Baltisky.

The article accused the Polish government of favoring Hitler before the war and even of preparing "to go to war on the side of Hitlerite Germany."

Was Made a "Victim."

"This became difficult because Hitler decided to make a victim of Poland instead of an ally," it said. Baltisky wrote:

"The soviet government aims to establish friendship between the U. S. S. R. and Poland on the basis of good neighborly relations and mutual respect. This aim was once more clearly expressed in a declaration of the soviet government—not only expressed, but confirmed by the magnanimous offer of the soviet government regarding solution of the border question."

"Peaceful Loving Peoples."

"Meanwhile, the emigre government of Poland and its sympathizers don't want to establish good neighborly relations with the soviet union, forgetting that first of all such relations are in the interest of Poland itself, as well as in the common interests of the firm and long coöperation of the peaceful loving peoples of Europe."

Poland's attitude toward Russia before the war was antagonistic, the article claimed, saying trade with Russia dropped to half of 1 per cent of all Polish foreign trade.

GERMANS' HOPE OF ALLIED SPLIT DEAD, SAY REDS

LONDON, Jan. 19 (AP).—The Moscow magazine War and the Working Class said today that Hitler's hopes of splitting the allies were buried forever by the decisions of the Moscow and Teheran conferences. It added that "the peoples of the countries allied with us and their responsible leaders must understand the efforts being made by Nazi elements."

However, a Reuters dispatch from Moscow reported the magazine denounced "underground activity of defeatists in the United States and Britain" and called for "cleansing of the political atmosphere from poisonous gases."

In another article the magazine also denounced Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio, declaring that he was doing "practically nothing" to purge southern Italy of Fascists.

Ponape, strong enemy base and administration center of the eastern Carolines. Kusaie, hilly and broken and one of the most beautiful islands in the South seas, is six miles wide and nine miles long, with at least three good harbors. There are several high peaks on the island, the loftiest being Mount Crozer, 2,064 feet above sea level.

Kusaie, also known as Ualan Island, is the easternmost of the Carolines, which were former German possessions mandated to Japan by the league of nations.

It is fringed by a reef which extends to one mile off shore. The lagoon formed by this reef permits small ships to circle the island, except at the northeast end, and even there a canal has been cut to allow passage at high water. In peace time the island served as a port of communication and had a population in 1933 of 1,103. The natives are Micronesians, who ar gentle and comparatively civilized.

MURPHY DENIES U. S. SLIGHT TO ANY FRENCHMAN

New York, Jan. 19 (AP).—Robert D. Murphy, American member of the allied control commission for Italy and former counselor of the American embassy at Vichy, France, said tonight the American government "has no desire to engage in the internal political disputes of France."

"The charge that we have supported and dealt with one Frenchman at the expense of another is not true," the American diplomat declared in an address to the Association of Members of the American Chamber of Commerce in France.

He said the state department is now studying the problem of post-war economic relations between France and the United States, the first phase of which he said would be the problem of providing immediate relief for the French population.

EVATT AND FRASER WANT AIR RULED BY A WORLD AUTHORITY

Canberra, Australia, Jan. 19 (AP).—The Australian-New Zealand conference agreed today to support the principle that ownership and operation of international civil air routes be vested in an international air authority.

Atty. Gen. Herbert V. Evatt of Australia and Prime Minister Fraser of New Zealand announced support of the proposal, subject to two conditions. 1. That international trunk routes should be specified as part of any international agreement. 2. That the right of each country to conduct all services within its own territorial jurisdiction should be recognized.

CHURCHILL PENS HIGH PRAISE FOR ARMOR FROM U. S.

LONDON, Jan. 19 (AP).—Prime Minister Churchill said today that Britain, reinforced by supplies from the United States, is amassing adequate armored equipment. In a written reply to a question in commons Churchill declared: "I am not anxious at the present time about our tank production and equipment. We are receiving excellent supplies from the United States. Our own production now is on satisfactory lines in quality and character and I've no doubt our forces will be well equipped."

FBI FINDS ICKES' AID, ACCUSED IN LETTER INQUIRY

Briggs 'Available,' May Be Grand Jury Witness.

BY JOHNSON KANADY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—Secrecy surrounding the whereabout of George N. Briggs, suspended confidential aid to Interior Secretary Ickes and central figure in the "Hopkins letter" case, was partially lifted tonight when the justice department announced that he is in the District of Columbia and available to the department at any time.

Henry F. Schweinhaut, special assistant attorney general, said the justice department "hopes" to have Briggs as a grand jury witness some time in the future.

Ickes earlier had declared that Briggs was missing. The secretary made the assertion to reporters as he left the courthouse here after a 45 minute session with the grand jury which is probing charges made by Harry Hopkins, Presidential adviser, that a letter bearing his name and predicting the Republican party's nomination of Wendell Willkie this year, is a forgery.

Accused by Senator.

Briggs was injected into the case by Sen. Langer [R., N. D.] who accused him of being the man who procured the "Hopkins letter" for C. Nelson Sparks who in turn inserted it into his book "One Man—Wendell Willkie."

Meantime a story became current today in Washington that there was another "Hopkins letter," written on Hopkins' personal stationery instead of on White House stationery. The wording was said to be identical with the copy of the letter written on White House stationery, which Sparks produced as the original "Hopkins letter" and which has been characterized by Schweinhaut as "obviously" a forgery.

A reproduction of the alleged second Hopkins letter was printed in a Washington paper today.

All of it was typed, including the signature and the heading "Harry Hopkins." According to the story in Washington, this copy of the Hopkins letter was the one sent first to Sparks. Then, when he insisted on seeing the original, the letter written on White House stationery was sent to him.

Letters Have Similarity.

One similar characteristic in the typewriting of the "Hopkins" letter on White House stationery and in the first copy of the letter which Sparks received was observed in photostatic copies which have been published. This similarity is a close spacing of commas after words. The same similarity applied to eight letters which purportedly were written by Briggs to Sparks in connection with the matter and which were made public by Sen. Langer Monday in the senate.

Sparks in his book, in quoting the Hopkins letter, does not say what stationery it was written on. He says "I have a copy" of the letter and adds "the original is available."

Schweinhaut would not comment today on the new letter nor on the similarity in typing. Briggs' typewriters have been seized for investigation, and a witness before the grand jury today, identified as an agent of the FBI, carried a large map case of what appeared to be enlargements such as those used in comparing handwriting and typing.

Sparks Recalled.

This witness and Ickes were the only ones to testify today. Schweinhaut said he has asked Sparks, who has already testified twice, to appear again, possibly tomorrow.

Ickes talked freely to reporters about Briggs, whom he suspended without pay when Sen. Langer revealed Briggs' connection with the Hopkins letter case. Ickes first met Briggs in 1940 in Chicago, he said, but does not know what job Briggs had at that time. Briggs, said Ickes, was "never a policy man," but was handy because of his knowledge of English, in seeing that the secretary's correspondence went out in good shape.

Ickes Sees President.

It was considered significant here that Ickes, before visiting the grand jury, had one of his rare conferences with President Roosevelt. While Hopkins, because of his residence until a few weeks ago, was in almost daily contact with the President, Ickes' visits to the White House have been spaced by several months.

Ickes denied that his visit to the President had anything to do with the testimony he was about to give concerning the Hopkins letter.

He would not comment on the disappearance of Briggs' typewriters from the department of interior. He said no one from the department of interior is looking for Briggs.

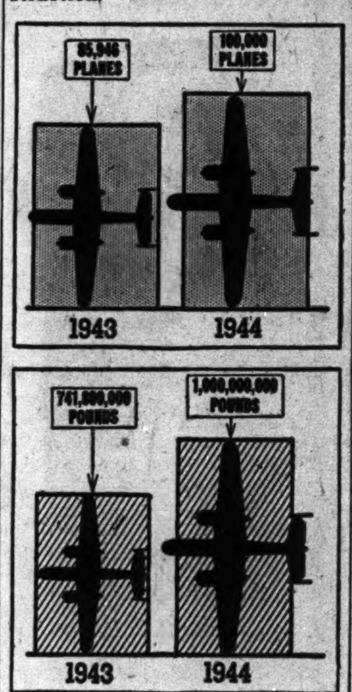
U. S. Plane Plans

Comparison of United States war plane construction in 1943 with projected plans for 1944 construction.



BIGGER COMBAT PLANES WILL BE BUILT FOR 1944

And 15,000 More of Them Scheduled.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19 (AP).—Combat aircraft "very substantially larger than the models they supplant," are given "tremendous emphasis" in the 100,000-plus plane construction program announced today for 1944 by Charles E. Wilson, chairman of the aircraft production board.

Wilson said 50 per cent more combat-type planes are scheduled for 1944 than were turned out by United States plane factories last year.

Unit production of aircraft will not increase as sharply in 1944 as in 1942-'43, Wilson said, but the average weight will be boosted again, illustrating the trend toward larger planes able to pack heavier guns and bigger bomb loads farther.

15,000 More Than 1943.

The scheduled total production of 100,000-plus aircraft will be approximately 15,000 more than the 85,946 planes of all types produced in 1943, when production exceeded 1942 totals by 40,000 planes.

The "tremendous emphasis" on new combat type planes in 1944 scheduling will be accompanied by notable decreases in construction of trainer planes, obsolete combat ships, and noncombat craft, the plane production boss reported.

In terms of airframe weight, a 26 per cent increase in total aircraft output is planned for 1944, Wilson's production blueprint explained. Gross weight of 1943 airframes was 741,800,000 pounds, and will be at least a billion pounds in 1944 if the present program is completed.

Average 10,000 Pounds.

In 1942, the average airframe weight was 6,110 pounds. This increased to 8,630 pounds in 1943, and will be 10,000 pounds or more in 1944. Airframes are planes complete with wiring but lacking engines, propellers, landing gear, tires, and other equipment such as instruments, radio, oxygen apparatus, and armament.

"Weight is the true measure of production effort," Wilson said in explaining the trend toward increased average weight-of-plane and the leveling off of unit output.

Factory space made available by discontinuance of trainers, noncombat craft, and smaller tactical planes will be converted "to the maximum extent practicable" to construction of component parts to be used in the assembly lines building the bigger aircraft needed in 1944, Wilson said.

WIFE IS JAILED SECOND TIME IN $35,000 DISPUTE

Mrs. Rae Mesirow, 50 years old, a telephone operator, who lives at 4935 North Whipple street, was in the county jail last night for the second time in three months because of a dispute with her estranged husband, Samuel, 57, over ownership of securities worth $35,000. She was arrested on a writ of ne exeat issued by Judge Joseph A. Graber in Superior court at the request of Atty. Benjamin H. Ehrlich and ordered held until she posts $12,500 bond. After one night in jail Oct. 27 she posted $15,000 bond for her release on the writ issued at that time by Judge Graber.

LABOR ANARCHY PERILS VICTORY! STIMSON WARNS

Army Bitter, He Says, in Plea for Draft.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—Secretary of War Stimson today told congress that "anarchy" on the labor front at home was inspiring bitterness and resentment among Americans in uniform which was likely to prolong the war and endanger hopes of victory.

The 76 year old secretary's appearance before the senate military affairs committee launched the administration's battle for passage of the Austin-Wadsworth national service bill, which would give President Roosevelt supreme control over the working destinies of all male civilians between the ages of 18 and 65, and all women between the ages of 18 and 50.

Intended as a Scare.

In the strongest of language, which senators afterward said was obviously intended to frighten congress and the country, Stimson warned of the blows to morale in the army and navy caused by strikes at home.

He became particularly vehement when engaged in verbal tilts with committee members after reading a prepared statement and thrice used the word "anarchy" as descriptive of conditions in the nation which permit a worker to walk off a war job.

"We now have a system of anarchy," he asserted, "and this measure will cure that system of anarchy."

Recall "Marshall Statement."

His testimony, senators noted, was an elaboration on the now famous statement on the perils of strikes in war time which is credited to Gen. George C. Marshall, first given to a selected audience of publicists for attribution to "a high government source" and later indorsed by President Roosevelt.

Questioning by committee members disclosed no change in the majority opposition to the measure nor any disposition to hasten its consideration. The hearing was adjourned for a week when Stimson will again appear.

The war secretary parried all questions about the probable efficiency of the vast administrative machine which would have to be set up under the proposed law. Pressed by Sen. Gurney [R., S. D.], who cited OPA bungling, Stimson asserted:

"The fact that the law was in existence would have an electrifying effect. It would be a psychology builder. Labor and management, if wise, would watch very closely the hand of steel in the velvet glove."

"You want to use the bill as a club," commented Sen. Kilgore [D., W. Va.].

"Suddenly, What Happened?"

Stimson began his statement with a glowing picture of allied successes in 1943 which appeared to presage climatic victories in 1944.

"Suddenly, what happened?" he told the committee. "To our troops looking over their shoulders from the battlefields of the Mediterranean and the steaming jungles of the South seas, the American front at home suddenly seemed to be on the point of going sour.

"A host of what seemed to our soldiers petty controversies in industry and labor, each one of which threatened to put a check on the production of priceless weapons, arose thruout our land.

Vital Industries Threatened.

"The three vital industries of the home front, upon which basically all our production of weapons and transportation depend, were threatened with, or actually experienced, nation-wide strikes—coal, steel, and the railroads.

"If such a situation had arisen in Germany we should all have thought we were on the point of winning the war hands down."

Merely making strikes criminal will not suffice, Stimson contended. Men not in service must be taught that they owe a patriotic duty to their jobs comparable to that which the infantryman owes to his rifle, the artilleryman to his gun, or the pilot to his plane, he added.

CITY TO ISSUE DAILY REPORTS ON ITS WATER

Acts After Bacteria Set New Record.

Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, announced yesterday that coliform bacteria counts are being made every six hours at the Dunne crib on Chicago's far south side, and that the public will be informed daily of the condition of the drinking water.

On Jan. 3 a report submitted to Commissioner Hewitt revealed that the count was 5,400 per 100 cubic centimeters of water—an all-time winter high. Heavy dosages of chlorine were added to the customary amount at that time in order to safeguard the 1,400,000 persons served by the intake.

United States public health authorities have said water containing more than 50 coliform bacteria per 100 cubic centimeters is unsafe for drinking.

Since Jan. 3 the count has dropped on some days to as low as zero, with the highest being 130 on Jan. 4. The last official count was on Jan. 17, when the count was 11.

Hewitt Sounds Warning.

Commissioner Hewitt said yesterday that pollution of the south end of Lake Michigan at unpredictable periods constitutes a definite menace to the 1,400,000 residents of that area.

"The menace is ever present, and may materialize into an epidemic at any time," he said.

"The city cannot expect to safeguard adequately this raw water with present facilities—chlorination or any other method obtainable—without priorities, nor can the city expect to safeguard adequately this water by coagulation and sedimentation plus post-chlorination," he said in urging that the war production board grant priorities to permit completion of the filtration plant at 79th street and Lake Michigan.

Charts Sent to U. S. Daily.

Charts outlining the polluted condition of the water are sent to Washington daily. Fred G. Gordon, senior filtration engineer of Chicago, will appear before the WPB today to urge that the city's priority application be approved.

Dr. Irving S. Cutter, health editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, said that coliform bacteria come from human waste and in them typhoid germs may be found. He advised the boiling of all drinking water.

VETERAN PILOT OF WAR ON JAPS VISITS PARENTS

Capt. John Hardy Griffith, 22 years old, a fighter plane pilot in Gen. McArthur's air force since September, 1942, and survivor of four crash landings after air battles, has returned to Chicago to visit his parents, Atty. and Mrs. Melvin L. Griffith, 8553 South Carpenter street.

Capt. J. H. Griffith.

Over Oro bay last May Capt. Griffith took part in a battle against 18 Japanese bombers and 25 Zeros. He was officially credited with downing one Zero, altho observers in his group believed he destroyed three other enemy planes.

The battle was one of 190 combat flights Capt. Griffith was on, totaling more than 400 hours. He has been decorated with the air medal and the distinguished flying cross. Capt. Griffith has been flying for the army since he was graduated from Thornton Junior college, Harvey, in 1941.

DRAFT EVASIONS SOAR TO NEARLY 500 MONTH HERE

A steady increase in the number of draft evasion cases was reported yesterday by Spencer J. Drayton, head of the federal bureau of investigation in Chicago, who disclosed that 5,800 dodgers were arrested in this area in 1943. Chicago cases totaled 3,500.

The number of arrests mounted to 477 in December, compared with 260 in February. If the incidence of draft delinquency continues, Drayton estimated his office will handle 500 cases this month.

Drayton said that 274,000 investigations of draft violations made over the country by FBI agents had produced 131,000 delinquents for induction.

NEW DEAL DOOM READ IN LATEST G.O.P. TRIUMPHS

People Voting to Win War Quickly, Says Halleck.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19 [Special].—Proof that the "New Deal is withering at the grass roots" was seen today by Rep. Halleck [R., Ind.], chairman of the Republican congressional committee, in the two smashing G. O. P. congressional victories in Pennsylvania.

The twin victories were jubilantly hailed by Pennsylvania Republicans in congress as "further indications that this is a Republican year."

"The people are determined to kill its roots in Washington," declared Halleck in reference to the New Deal, "altho its leaders have endeavored to graft a new limb on the plant.

"Voting to Win War Quickly."

"It proves also that the Republican march to victory, which began a few years back, is picking up speed as the time grows near when a great national test of free enterprise under representative government versus New Deal burocratic domination will be made. We believe the people are voting now to win the war quickly and to bring the boys back home and to preserve the American way of life."

Rep. Scott, Philadelphia Republican, announced to the house the elections yesterday of Joseph M. Pratt from the 2d [Philadelphia] district, and Samuel K. McConnell from the 17th [Montgomery county] district.

The elections make it evident, Scott said, "that the Santa Claus type of Democrat" was absent from the voting, and added:

"Thruout the campaign the New Deal candidate stressed the national character of the contest and asked for a vote of confidence in the Roosevelt administration. The result speaks for itself."

Republican Wins by 6 to 1.

In winning by 5,000 votes in the 2d district, Pratt criticized New Deal domestic issues while his Democratic opponent, William A. Barrett, campaigned vigorously as an all out supporter of the Roosevelt foreign and domestic program. The seat for which they contested was vacated by a Democrat who had held it for four terms.

McConnell ran up a margin of more than 6 to 1 over his Democratic opponent, Marvin B. Brunner, in the 17th district.

The victories raised the Republican membership in the house to 209 and reduced the Democratic membership to 217, the slimmest margin since the Republicans lost control of the house in 1933.

The Democrats have less than a majority of the 435 seats but maintain a working majority by virtue of five vacancies. There are four minor party members.

CANADA MAYORS PRAISE CENTERS OF SERVICE MEN

Canadian mayors attending the three day conference of American mayors in Chicago took time out to visit the Chicago service men's centers yesterday to see for themselves the recreational facilities and hospitality offered by the citizens and enthusiastically praised by Canadian and British service men.

Mrs. Edward J. Kelly escorted the group of her husband's conferees on a tour of Center No. 2, 430 South Michigan avenue, where they saw well equipped bowling alleys, music appreciation room, game rooms, well stocked and ever filled canteens, library, lounge rooms, and spacious ballroom.

George S. Mooney of Montreal, Quebec, executive director of the Federation of Mayors and Municipalities of Canada, said, "The centers are ideal in that they offer everything a service man would hope for and just a little more."

Accompanying Mooney were Mayors Edward Wilson, Verdon, Que.; Gornet Coulter, Winnipeg, Man.; J. W. Cornett, Vancouver, B. C.; A. C. Ross, Sherbrooke, Que.; George C. MacLean, St. Boniface, Que.; W. J. Heaman, London, Ont.; and City Clerks K. G. Crawford, London, Ont., and Antonin Deslauriers, Sherbrooke, Que.

CROONER LEADS IN LOUISIANA'S GOVERNOR RACE

New Orleans, La., Jan. 19 (AP).—Hillbilly Crooner-Actor Jimmie H. Davis leaped into the lead of the Louisiana gubernatorial primary late today but seemed faced with the possibility of a hostile "cabinet" of most other state officials.

In a Democratic primary equivalent to election if there is no run-off, Davis found himself passing Lewis L. Morgan, candidate of the old Huey Long faction which might ask him to withdraw to permit their capture of lieutenant governor and possibly a majority of other state posts by simple pluralities.

The unofficial count tonight gave Davis 92,026 votes to 85,928 for Morgan in 988 of the state's 1,867 precincts.

The vote for other gubernatorial candidates in 847 precincts was: Rep. Morrison, 27,191; Mayor Sam Caldwell of Shreveport, 15,767; State Sen. Dudley J. Leblanc, 10,335; Vincent Moseley, 3,149, and Lee Lanier, 1,227.

Burglar Gets 60 Days; Four Put on Probation

KAISER RALLIES MAYORS TO OWN POST-WAR TASK

Henry J. Kaiser, builder of ships and dams, predicted last night that post-war years may see a 100 per cent increase in city traffic and urged that cities get ready to handle the load. Kaiser spoke at the annual dinner session of the United States Conference of Mayors in the Stevens hotel

Henry J. Kaiser.

He recommended superhighways thru the heart of metropolitan areas, vast parking facilities under ground, wider streets, clearance of slum areas, and improvement of school and hospital facilities—all as a part of a gigantic program for full employment after the war.

Planning for such a program would give strength and encouragement to win the war, Kaiser said.

Debt May Be Destructive.

"Men, materials, machines, power, initiative, and 'know how' all will be available," he said. "The big question is how such development can be financed. I cannot agree with those who say that the size of our public debt is of no consequence. Debt is a device that can destroy, as well as quicken.

"But it is of the utmost importance to note that industry and transportation, and a very large number of our citizens, have been getting out of debt. There is an immense factor of safety in this situation."

Recommends a Sales Tax.

Kaiser noted that, altho the total public debt rose from approximately 33 billion in 1931 to 110 billion in 1942, state and local government debt showed virtually no change in the same period. After the war, when there will be a limited supply of tax exempt securities on the market, there is certain to be a large demand for municipal obligations, he said.

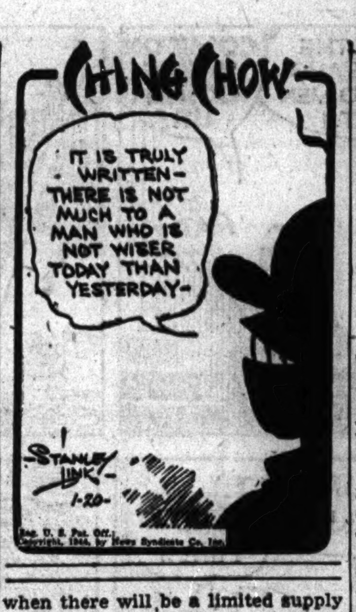
On the question of financing such new city debts, Kaiser said he was aware that the tax burdens on real estate in some cities are now intolerable, confiscatory, and he recommended instead a sales tax.

Fleming Also Rallies Cities.

At an earlier session of the conference Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, federal works administrator, said plans for post-war improvements are still in the after-dinner speech making phase and urged the cities to get busy.

President Roosevelt, in a message of greeting read to the conference, said the federal government can and will plan great programs to aid veterans, to create employment for those leaving war industries, and to meet the new problems of the post-war world.

Among today's speakers will be Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the war man power commission; Dr. Thomas Parran, surgeon general of the United States; Sam Rayburn, speaker of the house of representatives; Bernard M. Baruch of the office of war mobilization; Chester Bowles, office of price administration administrator, and Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation.



HUGHES SLATED FOR DEMOCRATS' GOVERNOR RACE

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Important developments came in both the Democratic and Republican camps yesterday, to wit:

1. Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes, recuperating from illness in Arizona, was reported to have decided to accept the Democratic nomination for governor when it is offered in proper form by the state central committee.

2. Democratic leaders were said to have decided to indorse Sveinbjorn Johnson for attorney general against Atty. Gen. Barrett on the issue of Barrett's attacks upon some phases of the administration of the University of Illinois.

3. Republican organization support for state's attorney was reported to be hovering above Judge John A. Sbarbaro of Superior court or former Judge Edgar A. Jonas in a field of 14 contenders.

Hughes Favorite Downstate.

The Hughes report was the main surprise because many politicians had counted him out of the gubernatorial contest on grounds of poor health. Only Democrat to survive the G. O. P. sweep of the state offices in 1940, Hughes has been the unanimous No. 1 choice of downstaters for governor in recent party conclaves.

State's Atty. Thomas J. Courtney is the No. 2 choice of downstaters for governor. Even Courtney's chief political antagonist, Mayor Kelly, was said to be ready to give him full backing.

Johnson Back with University.

Sveinbjorn Johnson lost his job as counsel for the state unvriesity at $9,000 a year as the result of action by Barrett. Evidence showed that while on the state pay roll Johnson had been drawing $6,500 a year as director of a New Deal agency. A few months after his separation from both pay rolls, Johnson was rehired by the university as a professor of law at his former salary.

Republican efforts to find a strong candidate for state's attorney brought the name of former Judge Jonas to the front. Judge Sbarbaro reportedly had held a lead. Jonas is 48th ward committeeman. He served 13 years in Municipal court, a year and a half in Superior court, and was assistant state's attorney for three years.

Jonas Is Willing.

"If the organization wants me to run, I'll do it, because I'm a good soldier," Jonas said yesterday.

Speculation as to a deadlock between Sbarbaro and Jonas led to mention of Chairman John T. Dempsey of the county central committee. It is said that Gov. Green would welcome Dempsey as a candidate.

Liquor Dealer Is Held on Sales Record Charge

Bertrand Appleby, 50 years old, a wholesale liquor dealer at 3109½ Cermak road, pleaded not guilty before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker yesterday to a charge of failing to keep proper records of his business transactions, specifically a record of the disposition of 719 cases of liquor delivered to him Jan. 10. He was arrested by agents of the alcohol tax unit. His hearing was deferred until Feb. 1.

KELLY DEMANDS VOTE FOR YOUNG HEROES OF WAR

Mayor Kelly, welcoming the United States conference of mayors in the Stevens hotel yesterday, urged the visitors to use their influence so the right to vote will not be denied America's fighting men. "It is my conviction that the voting age generally should be lowered to 18," he said. "Thousands of our young men have been cited for bravery against the enemy. And if a boy is old enough to be a hero, he is old enough to have a voice in the running of the country and in the choice of those public officials who will represent him."

COUNCIL BOOSTS MORE SALARIES; PASSES BUDGET

Raise Total by $720,000 at Final Session.

The city council approved a 1944 budget of $164,658,059 last night. Included were two last minute increases totaling $720,000. The grand total is $3,486,432 in excess of the 1943 budget.

The late increases were an addition of $600,000 to the three million dollar appropriation previously scheduled for the policemen's annuity and benefit fund and an addition of $120,000 [estimated by finance committee staff members] to the corporate purposes [operating] fund. The operating fund total thus was brought to approximately $61,475,694.

Some Higher Salaries Boosted.

The budget provides raises in pay of approximately 20 per cent for all employes earning less than $3,000 a year and salary increases for some who are in the upper pay brackets.

Among these and the amounts of their increases are William McKenna, assistant to Mayor Kelly, $7,500 to $8,500; Miss Bess O'Neill, the mayor's secretary, $7,000 to $8,000; Edwin Daly, police inspector, $4,842 to $5,300, and Edward Padden, chief clerk in the city clerk's office and the council parliamentarian, $7,278 to $7,778.

The exact total of the budget will not be available for at least another week, Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], chairman of the finance committee, said, because of the work necessary in inserting the last minute changes made in many departments.

Waller Casts Only "No" Vote.

At final passage the vote of the council was 45 to 1 in favor of the budget as read off by Frank Cenfield, a member of the finance committee staff, with the amendments added. The lone dissenting vote was cast by Ald. James B. Waller [43d], a Republican.

Suggestions by Waller to reduce a car allowance for aldermen from $55 a month to $33 and his motions to reduce amounts set up for the expenses of various council committees were voted down, with Waller casting the lone affirmative vote in each case.

The council also voted down a motion by Waller that all department heads be required to submit to the council reports giving the names of all employes who are not working in the positions for which they are paid. He explained that his motion was directed at the office of civilian defense, which he said is staffed in the main with city workers whose salaries are paid by other departments, even tho the OCD has been given an appropriation of $250,000 for this year.

COUNTY INTENDS TO PAY MOST OF OLD DEBTS SOON

Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board, announced yesterday that most of the old debts of the county, contracted prior to Dec. 1, 1942, would be paid next week from the proceeds of a bond issue.

The state legislature at its 1943 session authorized the issuance of $8,346,000 in bonds for this purpose. The bonds were sold in October to Seipp, Princell & Co., but completion of the transaction was delayed until the firm could get a legal opinion as to the validity of the bonds.

Richard J. Daley, deputy county controler, said that about $7,500,000 of the bonds, which bear interest at an average rate of 2½ per cent, would be taken up by the Seipp, Princell firm on Monday.

WARNS PEOPLE MUST FIGHT TO REGAIN RIGHTS

A plea to Americans to prepare to demand prompt surrender of war powers by the federal government when the fighting ends was made yesterday by Harold O. McLain, former president of the Executives' Club of Chicago. He spoke at the annual meeting of the Arden Shore association in the Woman's Athletic club.

"When we have won the war abroad, we will have a battle at home to protect our American structure," McLain said. "The checks and balances of the Constitution have been tossed aside by the war emergency in favor of federal power. The Constitution's antipathy to burocracy has been lost in the tide of necessary war time regulations. The Bill of Rights has been so constantly disregarded by the war time emergency that we have become callous. We are properly patriotic in this concentration of federal powers, but there are those in administrative power who would stealthily seize and keep those cessions.

"When the war is over, we must see to it that there is a demand for the restoration of the traditional liberties which we have surrendered for war."

After his talk, Mrs. Proehl H. Jaklon, president of the association, relinquished her office to her successor, Mrs. George W. Traver.

DISCHARGE PAPERS FOUND.

The American Legion's service department at 205 Wacker drive began a search yesterday for Thomas L. Hughes, Victor A. Burgoon, and Frank C. Zahn, addresses unknown, to return to them army discharge papers found recently.

WAC OFFICER'S ATTORNEY IRKED BY U. S. GUARDS

Charges Detention on Leaving Her Trial.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19 [Special].—The secret "jealousy" trial of Lt. Virginia Wight, attractive red haired Philadelphia WAC accused of wearing a sweater and slacks and of fraternizing with enlisted personnel, was enlivened today by charges of her attorney that he was detained by a uniformed guard at the trial scene.

James J. Laughlin, Washington criminal attorney, complained he was held for 20 minutes after he emerged at noon from the army reclassification board hearing in the huge Pentagon building.

By the time he was able to return to his law office, he said, he learned that a military court-martial, in which he also was scheduled to appear as defense counsel for a soldier, had been held in his absence and his client convicted.

Gets Unwanted Escort.

"I had asked for a continuance when I learned the Pentagon case was to continue today," Laughlin said, "but the army went ahead without me."

Defendant in the court-martial was Sgt. Joseph Ramm, Buffalo, N. Y., on duty at Bolling field, who was charged with selling tax free cigarets.

The attorney said the Pentagon building guard took him to a public bank on the third floor of the building, detained him while a telephone call was made to army officials, and that a corporal then escorted him to a cafeteria, watched him eat and then accompanied him back to the hearing.

Had the Wrong Badge.

The explanation for this action appeared to be that the badge Laughlin wore, the type given to infrequent visitors in the world's biggest office building, did not entitle him to move about the building without an escort.

Army authorities, meantime, continued their silence on the progress of the WAC's trial, from which spectators are barred. The defendant's father, Lawrence Wight, a teacher at Penn Charter school in Philadelphia, again was denied entrance, but it is expected he will be called for the defense.

Lt. Wight is charged with being unfit to hold her commission because, according to her attorney, she made her superior officer jealous by fraternizing with enlisted personnel. She also is accused of insubordination, of being "unsocial" to her fellow officers, with leaving her quarters at near-by Fort Meyer without permission, and, it was reported today, of wearing a sweater and slacks when she should have been in uniform.

LLOYD GEORGE'S SON QUITS ARMY.

DENIES WEDDING TO WOMAN WHO GOT A DIVORCE

"We were never married," said Frank Kissill, 37 years old, a war plant worker, when he was asked yesterday by Judge Robert J. Dunne in Circuit court why he was $140 in arrears in child support payments to his ex-wife, Mrs. Bess S. Kissill, 35, of 15628 Marshfield avenue, Harvey.

Kissill's statement upset the hearing momentarily. Mrs. Kissill got a divorce in Will county Sept. 28, 1943, and at that time was awarded $10 a week for support of Frank Jr., 6. The divorce, said Kissill, was meaningless, adding:

"At the time she says we were married [Feb. 28, 1937] I actually was married to another woman, who divorced me in 1939. I'm now married to another woman." Mrs. Kissill's lawyers, Norman and Joseph H. Becker, said they would prove the marriage, and the case was continued to Feb. 11 for further hearing.

X-RAY MARKS SPOT OF SHRAPNEL PIECES IN WOUNDED YANKS

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 19 (AP).—An X-ray super-sleuth designed to expedite and simplify removal of bullets and shrapnel from the wounded was displayed here today with the prediction it would play an important part in reducing the army's mortality rate. The instrument was explained today by Col. Alfred A. De Lorimer, for 17 years an army doctor.

The device locates within 60 seconds all the fragments in a man's body and marks him for the surgeon's incision—one of the most difficult and painful of operations.

With the device the wounded soldier is examined by fluoroscopy in a few seconds. The fragment is localized in both the horizontal and vertical planes, the depth of the fragment ascertained, and the skin marked with iodine for surgery. Triangular charting also is possible, permitting the surgeon to enter from a third point.

Naples Typhus Cases Rise at Rate of 30 to 40 a Day

ALGIERS, Jan. 19 (AP).—Four hundred sixty-four cases of typhus had been discovered in Naples up until Jan. 10 and new cases are occurring among the civilian population at the rate of 30 to 40 a day, allied headquarters announced today.

COURT PERMITS VENUE CHANGE IN BALM SUIT

Judge Frank M. Padden of Superior court yesterday granted a change of venue to Harry Dobry, 42 years old, 1332 Estes avenue, an insurance broker, in the $50,000 breach of promise suit filed against him by Miss Marguerite Teehee Cunningham, 25. She alleged that he promised to marry her, that he is the father of her 5 year old son, and that he already was married, unbeknown to her. Dobry denies ever having seen the woman.

The suit was filed despite a statute barring such litigation. After arguments by Miss Cunningham's lawyers, Sol R. Friedman and Thomas J. Cavanagh, Judge Padden held the statute unconstitutional and the suit permissible.

The next action followed when Dobry's lawyer, Julius L. Kabaker, moved for a change of venue, asserting Judge Padden was prejudiced. Atty. Friedman charged the motion was legal camouflage to get another judge to review Padden's decision. The case was transferred to Judge Donald S. McKinlay, who will hear Kabaker's motion to dismiss today.

North Chicago Gunner Missing in German Raid

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Ornatek, 1432 Victoria street, North Chicago, were informed yesterday that their son, Sgt. Anthony Ornatek, 23, an assistant engineer-gunner on a B-25, has been missing since his Mitchell bomber was shot down in a raid over Germany on Dec. 30, Ornatek was stationed in England. He attended Waukegan High school and worked for the Oakes Products company in North Chicago before his enlistment in the army two years ago.

ARMY WILL STAR IN TODAY'S WAR BOND CAMPAIGN

In its stellar role on the third day of the campaign here, the army will parade fully equipped troops and motor vehicles down State street and stage a 90 minute show at Treasury center, 72 West Adams street.

The program will begin about 11:15 a. m., when 300 fully equipped men and 35 motor vehicles of the 740th military police battalion draw up at Wacker drive and State street in a demonstration of fast unloading of men and material.

Armored Cars in Parade.

At 11:30 a. m. the parade of foot soldiers and vehicles, including scout and armored cars, jeeps, and trucks and the 40 piece battalion band, will proceed down State street and over to Treasury center for a demonstration of loading men and material. The main group will depart, while the band and entertainers remain to provide music and songs from noon until 1 p. m., and then participate in a 30 minute radio show afterward.

Pvt. Bob Eberly, formerly a singer with Jimmy Dorsey's band; Pct. William H. Hodgson, composer of "The Music Goes Round and Round," and Pvt. Harry Mumma, known on the radio as Michael Stewart, will be featured on the show.

Buy Bonds in Service.

Fort Sheridan's record has been nearly $2,000 a day in war bonds since the drive began, with Corp. William Bertram of Detroit top buyer with the purchase of a $1,000 bond.

In two WAC companies on the station, 96 per cent have asked pay roll bond deductions, and 98 per cent of civilian personnel is buying bonds thru pay roll deductions.

Jinx Falkenburg, Hollywood actress in Chicago to assist with the bond drive, will share in a rally under direction of the Negro division of the treasury department at Wendell Phillips High school at 1 p. m. today. Cab Calloway will appear also.

Miss Falkenburg appeared on a treasury center show yesterday and paid off a bet to Quiz Kid Harve Fishman, 13, of 7924 Kingston avenue. The actress kissed the quiz kid after he'd boasted he would kiss the first pin-up girl he met in Hollywood. Jinx was the victim, and she, in turn, said she'd kiss the first quiz kid she met in Chicago.

WHICH TAX FORM TO USE? STUDY THIS ANALYSIS

1040A Shorter, Simpler Than 1040.

This is the second of a series of articles on the individual income tax. The Tribune Investors' Guide will answer by mail specific tax questions accompanied by stamped, self-addressed return envelopes.

Many taxpayers can save time and trouble by using the optional tax form 1040A, if they are eligible to do so. It is termed the short form, and is considerably simpler than the regular 1040 form.

The only persons permitted to use the 1040A form are those whose total income for 1943 was not more than $3,000, and was entirely from wages, salary, dividends, interest, and annuities. Those receiving income in the form of rent, or from a partnership or business, or the sale of securities and other property, may not use this form even tho total income did not exceed $3,000.

There is an additional restriction on the choice of forms. If husband and wife file separate returns, both must use the same type of form.

Persons ineligible to use the 1040A form or who do not choose to use it, must file on the regular 1040 form. Farmers who report income on the cash basis and who do not keep books of account must attach a special schedule, 1040F, to their return.

When the 1040A form is used, the taxpayer's marital and dependency status as of July 1, 1943, is treated as his status for the entire year. This may be an important consideration in deciding whether to use the optional or regular form. For example, a couple who married late in June would be entitled to the larger personal exemption of married couples for only six months of the year if the 1040 form were used, whereas the exemption on 1040A would be that of a couple married for the entire year.

The only dependents for whom credit may be claimed on the short form are those who were dependents on July 1.

No reductions or credits of any kind may be taken by the user of the 1040A form except a credit for dependents. After this credit has been deducted, the amount of income tax for the year is determined by reference to a tax table printed on the form. A separate calculation is required to determine the victory tax.

The tax table, included only in the 1040A form, makes allowance for personal exemption and earned income credit, plus an additional 6 per cent of total income to cover all other deductions.

In addition to being less complicated, use of the 1040A form instead of 1040 may result in a smaller tax if one or more of the following circumstances apply:

1. Your total deductions for interest, contributions, taxes, alimony, theft, casualty, etc., are less than 6 per cent of total 1943 income.
2. You were a married person on July 1 but not for the full year.
3. You were the head of a family on July 1, but not for the full year.
4. Medical and dental expenses in 1943 were not extraordinarily large.
5. You had dependents on July 1 who were not dependents for the entire year, such as a child born in May or June, or a child that became 18 years of age shortly after July 1 and thereupon ceased to be a dependent.

The only sure way to determine which form offers the most economy is, of course, to compute the tax by both methods.

[Friday's article will discuss the personal exemption.]

W. J. STEBBINS NAMED TO CITY LIBRARY BOARD

Appointment of Wallace J. Stebbins of the Stebbins Hardware company, 15 West Van Buren street, as a member of the Chicago public library board, was approved yesterday by the city council.

Stebbins was appointed by Mayor Kelly to fill the vacancy created more than a year ago by the resignation of Leo A. Lerner, north side community newspaper publisher, who spends much of his time promoting internationalism.

Stebbins' term will run to July 1, 1945. He is a member of a pioneer Chicago family who established the hardware business, one of the largest in Chicago.

Miss Kellems' Tax Strike Hit; She's Bewildered by the Furor

It's 'Disloyal'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau declared tonight that to advise citizens of the United States to refuse to pay their taxes in time of war "smacks of disloyalty."

He made this charge in a public statement which did not mention, but was considered a reply to a plea voiced yesterday by Miss Vivien Kellems, Westport, Conn., war materials manufacturer, to business "both big and small, to follow my example and put aside post-war reserves out of their taxes."

Miss Kellems told a Kansas City, Mo., luncheon meeting of civic and service clubs that she had not paid her Dec. 15 income tax instalment. She said she needed the money to continue to produce war materials and to build a post-war reserve for use in conversion of her plant to peace time production.

Blames Taxes on Congress.

Secretary Morgenthau declared in his statement that "most Americans are proud to pay their taxes to help win the war." He said the treasury, "which deals with millions and millions of tax payers" has constant evidence of this patriotic spirit.

Taking cognizance of Miss Kellems' charge that tax rates are so high that when coupled with the government's war contract renegotiation law they jeopardize the future of business, Morgenthau said:

"As it should be in a democracy, taxes are levied by a congress elected by the people. We in the treasury are charged by law with collecting these taxes, and we must fulfill that duty.

"Smacks of Disloyalty."

"Any one or every one has a right to advocate changes in the law by due legislative process.

"However, to advise citizens to refuse to pay taxes—particularly in time of war—smacks of disloyalty.

"Such an attitude is especially unworthy of persons profiting from war contracts."

Rep. Coffee [D., Wash.], upon learning of Miss Kellem's plans, asked the justice department to take immediate action against her, asserting that her statement "constitutes a violation of the law."

The bureau of internal revenue, meanwhile, made the brief but all-inclusive statement that "we intend to collect her taxes."

'No Blood in Turnip'

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 19 (AP).—Bewildered by the furor caused by her speech advocating a post war reserve "out of taxes" delivered yesterday in Kansas City, Miss Vivien Kellems, tonight asserted that Secretary Morgenthau's charges were "too serious," to answer at once but declared she would answer them, "and in full."

"Why, he's practically accusing me of treason," she commented.

She said she was advocating the use of money normally paid into income taxes for a post-war reserve, but she said the reserves should be "put into war bonds."

When she received the news that Morgenthau had made a statement assailing remarks made by a woman industrialist, Miss Kellems had just finished a formal answer to Rep. Coffee's [D., Wash.] request earlier today asking the department of justice to institute proceedings against her because of a statement made by her and termed by Coffee "a violation of the law."

Plans a Reply Later.

She was asked if she would change her statement in order to answer the treasury secretary's charges also, but she declined, stating the latter's accusation was too serious to be answered at once. She said she hoped to answer Morgenthau in "the next several days."

Of the congressman's charges she wrote:

"Please tell Rep. Coffee I will welcome an investigation by the department of justice, and while he is about it, why doesn't he investigate the fantastic, ridiculous, distorted tax laws of this country which will ultimately bankrupt all business.

"O, yes, perhaps the gentleman would be kind enough to explain the March 15 tax blank to me."

No Blood in Turnip.

Of the announcement by the revenue bureau, "there's no question but that we are going to collect her taxes, as required by law," she replied spiritedly:

"They can't get blood out of a turnip."

She said that her company is a partnership and there are no corporate profits, but that any profits are considered income of her and her brother. However, because of government contracts requiring large amounts of material not normally used by the company, they have sunk the profit in new materials and tools.

SABATH CALLS HOUSE GROUP ON SOLDIER VOTING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—Rep. Sabath [D., Ill.] announced late today that the house rules committee, which he heads, will hold a hearing Friday on the pending service men's voting bill with a view to reporting it to the house for floor action next week.

The bill, approved by the house elections committee last Friday, retains supervision of service balloting in the states and directs the states to revise absentee voting laws to permit all service personnel to vote in this year's election.

Sabath was charged by house Democrats and Republicans yesterday and again earlier today with stalling off a hearing by his committee on the measure in an effort to force house acceptance of the administration's plan for federal control of service balloting. House Democratic leaders asked Sabath to call the hearing when members' protests against any delay increased.

NORTH CHICAGO HERO TELLS OF NAZI STRAFING

Frank Loquidis, 21 years old petty officer 3d class home on leave, last night described how he and his mates hid under lifeboats when German planes strafed them after their destroyer had been sunk by aerial torpedoes.

Frank Loquidis.

Loquidis, who is visiting his mother, Rose, at 400 11th street, North Chicago, said the incident occurred in November. He and four mates were in the control tower, he said, and could hear but could not see the attacking planes. Suddenly, he said, there was a heavy explosion amidships and the destroyer sank. A few minutes later, he said, the planes began strafing the wreckage.

After 14 hours at sea, the survivors were picked up by a British corvette. Loquidis said about 80 per cent of the personnel was saved. He was hospitalized three weeks because of exposure.

FORT TAKES OFF WITH BLOOD FOR STRICKEN CHILD

Chanute Field, Ill., Jan. 19 (AP).—A flying Fortress carrying 200 pints of blood took off this evening for Dallas, Tex., where the vital fluid will be used to prolong the life of 4 year old Billy Meers.

The blood was donated by 200 soldiers and WACs at this army air force training post. It will be processed into plasma at Baylor hospital in Dallas, and transfused periodically into the veins of the young victim of chronic nephritis.

Maj. Gaillard R. Peck, director of flying at the four engine school here, piloted the plane. Maj. O. D. Odom was co-pilot.

BOMBER CRASH KILLS 9 ABOARD; ONE SURVIVES

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 19 (AP).—The Birmingham News and Age-Herald announced preparation of a formal protest to the war department and the office of censorship over alleged interference by army officers with a staff photographer assigned to take pictures of a bomber crash. The plane crashed after taking off from the Birmingham base last night. Nine men were killed and a tenth was critically injured. Among those killed were Sgt. Dennis Ryan Jr., Mason City, Ia., and Staff Sgt. Joseph H. Pietsker, Pontiac, Mich.

LAWYER WEEPS DEFENDING SON IN POLICE TRIAL

Five patrolmen of the Summerdale station yesterday defended themselves before the civil service commission against charges that they made out false reports of raids on gambling houses and then lied about the reports when called before a grand jury.

Four of the men, William A. Rittenhouse Jr., William Shaw, James Aman, and John Burke, testified the reports were made out under the dates of the raids and that they were talking about the original reports when they testified before the grand jury. Patrolman John Linderman said he did not sign the report to which his name was attached.

Rittenhouse was defended by his father, William A. Rittenhouse, a 75 year old retired attorney who wept while questioning Patrolman Harry Stollary.

Stollary, formerly secretary to Capt. Thomas Connelly at the Summerdale station before the captain was suspended, took the blame for having the duplicate reports made. He said the other records had been lost or mislaid.

'CAPTAIN' WINS A FIANCEE, THEN TAKES HER $300

Miss Hilda Merta, 1876 Maud avenue, a war plant worker, asked the police to look for a handsome young man wearing the uniform of a captain in the United States army air forces, who, she complained, talks as fast as he roller skates. They met in the skating rink a week ago and the "captain," who said he was Kit Eugene Taylor, about 21 years, and a wounded veteran, wooed her until she promised to marry him. After he disappeared she found that $300 and $500 worth of jewelry and clothing had been stolen from her home.

AMERICA'S youth has fared forth to challenge Fate, willingly facing a future that stretches no farther than the grim question-mark of uncertainty.

Can we, at home, equal the sacrifices our boys are making?

Can we match the courage and spirit we read between the lines of their brief but welcome letters?

Can we who yet enjoy the comforts and luxuries of a land still very much as we have always known it —and still protected from the ravages of war— measure up to the fine American traditions which our boys are fighting and dying to preserve?

Yes, we can—in a way. And we will, with no urging, without a single command.

That curly-headed boy who used to live next door— the whistling lad from down the street—those loved ones who have left our homes so empty—all must know that more and more American dollars... our dollars... are marching side by side with them to Victory.

Can we match their effort? No! But when we're asked to buy an extra War Bond this month, over and above what we'd been planning to buy, it is our opportunity to reenlist with them in the greatest cause the world has ever known.

Can we find it in our hearts to say we've done all we could? Can we?

THE LESSON OF THE ELECTIONS.

Republicans can take the greatest satisfaction from the returns of Tuesday's by-elections, and particularly from the outcome in Pennsylvania's 2d congressional district. This Philadelphia district is typically urban and has been Democratic for four successive terms. The Democrats won it, 3 to 2, with a margin of 25,000 votes in 1940 and barely squeezed by with a majority of fewer than 1,000 votes in 1942. This time the Republicans won it by 5,000 votes and came in with a 5 to 4 lead.

A similar outcome was recorded in Pennsylvania's 17th district, which for a good many years was represented by the late J. William Ditter, a Republican. Mr. Ditter was better than a 2 to 1 winner in 1942. His successor, Samuel K. McConnell, won it on Tuesday in the proportion of 6 votes to 1.

On the same day eight members of the Iowa legislature were chosen, and all eight winners were Republicans. This result was gratifying but hardly unexpected in view of the fact that all of the midwestern states west of the Mississippi, which played so large a part in the early successes of the New Deal, are now and for some years have been safely within the Republican fold. All of them have Republican state administrations and none of them has even one Democratic representative in congress.

Two points regarding these elections deserve emphasis. The first is that these returns are not samplings of public opinion by some self-constituted agency which fancies itself expert in such matters. This is the people themselves saying their say. It is their expression of their utter dissatisfaction with the New Deal and its policies. No other interpretation of the outcome is conceivable.

The second and, for practical purposes, the much more important point is that Republican candidates now know, if they didn't know it before, that they have nothing to fear from a forthright declaration of their Republican faith. The people are eager to vote for men and women whose loyalty is to their own country, first and last; whose greatest pride is in the institutions of freedom that have made it strong; who despise servility toward foreign potentates and propose to maintain America's independence against every challenge, open or covert.

The efforts of the colonial minded to defeat honest and forthright exponents of this creed never were successful even in the days when the New Deal was at its strongest. The New Deal smear campaign, which has enlisted the nastiest pens and vilest tongues, has proved equally ineffective. The plain fact today is that the New Deal foreign policy of truckling and entanglements is thoroly unpopular. It becomes more apparent every day that Republicans who embrace it are dooming themselves to humiliating defeat.

STAKING OUR CLAIMS.

Sen. Chandler of Kentucky, speaking in Los Angeles the other day, insisted that the United States retain the mandated islands in the Pacific that it has won at heavy cost in this war. He said it would be a cruel folly to relinquish them only to face the necessity of taking them again in another war.

At Teheran Mr. Churchill and Mr. Stalin are said to have approved America's claim to those islands which had been held under mandate by Japan. It is to be hoped that this report is true. More than that, it is to be hoped that our government insists on obtaining possession of any other bases in any of the oceans that our naval strategists believe we should have to secure our communications with the Philippines, Australia, and the Asiatic mainland and to safeguard our continent from overseas attack.

Americans do not wish to rule vast numbers of alien peoples. We don't want any Indias or Chinas or Javas. We do want to have the islands which will give us effective control of the Pacific in peace and war. And we do want and must have the bases off our Atlantic coast and in the Caribbean that will assure our security.

Among them is Greenland. It need not be ceded to us, but we must be allowed to establish air bases and weather stations there and must be accorded the right to fly over it. Likewise, arrangements must be made with Canada to permit our planes to fly freely over Canadian territory, for without that right we can be blocked from the short polar route to Europe and Asia.

WORDS VS. DEEDS.

In his recent annual message to congress, the President called for "a realistic tax law which will tax all unreasonable profits, both individual and corporate, and reduce the ultimate cost of the war to our sons and daughters." Mr. Roosevelt went on to say that the tax bill under consideration in the senate "does not begin to meet this test."

Mr. Roosevelt's following in the senate voted only a few days later against increasing the taxes on wealthy playboys who have been operating their newspapers and racing stables at the expense of the federal treasury.

Fortunately, the amendment was adopted in spite of 24 Democratic votes against it. The conclusion is warranted that Mr. Roosevelt uses the word "realistic" in a special sense. A realistic tax to him means a tax that will grind his political opponents and leave his friends unscathed.

WRA AND THE ARMY.

The army has turned back to the war relocation authority control of the Tule Lake camp where the Japanese who have avowed their lack of loyalty to the United States are interned. WRA had to call in the military a few weeks ago after its staff of social workers succeeded in destroying what little discipline had been exerted over the Japs and riots ensued.

The people who live in the northern end of California near Tule Lake, and their neighbors in southern Oregon, are talking about arming themselves against future riots and the danger of the Japanese in the camp taking control again from the WRA.

No one can blame people for feeling apprehension when the troops withdraw, but the army itself has far from a perfect record in the administration of internment camps. At Concordia, Kas., where the army is guarding German prisoners of war, prisoner suicides have come to light, together with a disgraceful incident in which an army officer winged the colonel's wife with his pistol in what apparently was a drunken quarrel. He had selected another lady as his target, but missed her. A court martial has ordered his dismissal from the service, and that and nothing more.

If Tule Lake was a lesson in WRA mismanagement, Concordia only goes to show that even the army isn't too competent as a penologist. One way to keep the administration of all of these camps in line is to remove them from military or New Deal censorship and allow competent newspaper reporters to inform the public of what is going on.

ENEMIES OF CHICAGO'S HEALTH.

During the first week of January the coliform bacteria count at the Dunne intake crib, thru which water is drawn for 1,400,000 south side Chicagoans, rose as high as 5,400 to 100 cubic centimeters of water. These bacteria evidence pollution. Where they are found there is ever present danger of epidemics of typhoid fever, dysentery, and other intestinal ailments. The United States public health service says that any water that contains more than 50 coliform bacilli to 100 centimeters is unsafe for drinking.

The source of this pollution is well known. It is the sewage dumped into the lake by the municipalities and industrial plants on the Indiana shore line just east of Chicago. The prevention is equally well understood by engineers. Eventually these Indiana communities must be required to treat their sewage, but for the war period the immediate cure is to permit a larger diversion from Lake Michigan thru the Calumet river, to the Sag and sanitary canals. This, engineers know, would set up currents that would draw off the sewage instead of allowing it to move northward toward the crib as a constant threat of disease to hundreds of thousands of Chicagoans.

The procrastination and evasion being indulged in by the federal administration in regard to the city's diversion plea is as shameful as it is dangerous. Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Stimson, who contend that there is virtually no limit to their war time emergency powers when it suits their purposes to use them, were asked to authorize the diversion increase, but refused. Yet they had, by the use of the same powers, allowed Canadian power interests at Niagara Falls to increase their diversion there beyond the limits fixed by treaty.

An appeal to authorize the diversion is pending in congress, but there again the administration has used its power to procrastinate and deny Chicago a remedy. Last fall a delegation of Chicago officials was starting for Washington to testify before the house rivers and harbors committee, only to be stopped by a notice that the hearing had been postponed until this month. Until now, however, they have received no notice of the resumption of the postponed hearing.

Mr. Roosevelt, of course, is playing the game of the Canadian power interests. He is quite willing to risk the health of more than a million citizens of Chicago in order to gratify their prejudices.

The present situation is intolerable. If the city administration had any influence with the administration in Washington that it supports so slavishly, it would do something to relieve the situation. Apparently, however, Mr. Kelly's New Deal allegiance is strictly a one way street. He does his best to get the people of Chicago to back his friends in Washington, but his friends in Washington delight in kicking the people of Chicago in the face.

Editorial of the Day

WHAT IS THERE TO COPY?

[Toronto Globe and Mail.]

President Roosevelt appealed to congress for a "national service law which, for the duration of the war, will prevent strikes and, with certain appropriate exceptions, will make available for war production every able bodied adult in the nation."

In reporting the President's message the Toronto Star headlined it thus: "Need Selective Service as in Canada—F. D. R.; National Service on Canada Plan for All." The inference is plain. By this deception it was made to appear that the United States is lagging behind this country in the mobilization of man power. There could be no worse slur on the American people, and especially on the millions of men in the uniform of the United States forces.

It is a fact that the United States government has not the unlimited power to mobilize its people which the Canadian government possesses and so badly failed to use. But there was no suggestion in the President's message that what he sought was a duplicate of our selective service system. The fact is that the United States is well ahead of us in the mobilization of man power for military service, and has done as much, if not more, thru industrial measures. And certainly what has been done far surpasses Ottawa's methods in the practical application of the selective principle.

PUNCHING THE BAG.

The correct interpretation of the Pravda rumor from Cairo, which is now agitating the world, may be found in the Linebook of 1943. If you can borrow a copy, turn to page 28 and enjoy Moscow's favorite joke. Pravda means "truth," and Izvestia, Moscow's other great paper, means "news." Therefore all good Muscovites say to one another at breakfast:

"There is no Pravda in Izvestia, and no Izvestia in Pravda."

* * *

The revelation that mince pie contains beef, which falls under the heading, "what every woman knows," has shocked this column almost as deeply as the Pravda rumor. We had always regarded mince pie as a gastronomic crime, but had thought that it contained sugar of lead and croutons of old overshoes. A dash of ptomaines too, eh? Well, the Americans are a hardy race, parlez-vous.

* * *

After all this time, almost two years, that American troops have been fighting and dying on Guadalcanal, Bougainville, etc., a soldier's relatives can ask in vain, at bookshops and libraries, for a readable work on the animals, vegetables, dickybirds, and scenery of the Solomon Islands. Queer, isn't it? And yet American publishers are said to be smart in anticipating trends in readers' desires.

Such a book could easily be dug out of the numerous scientific pamphlets that clutter the archives of museums and universities. The learned lingo would have to be translated, of course; it would be a rewriting job. A stylist in natural history would be required, and they are rare. Alan Devoe or Donald Culross Peattie would be our choice.

THE PUNK OF CONDITION.

How I dislike to contemplate
The man whose health is always great,
Who never feels the least infirm,
Nor stands much nonsense from a germ;
Who's troubled less by—say—a sinus
Than any man since Thom Aquinas;
Who in the face of flu begins
To exude clouds of vitamins.

I love to see, and always will,
The man whose health is nearly nil,
And who, when whacked by sickness' club,
Howls for pills and what-a-rub;
Whom the mildest of bacilli numbs
And who, when pounded, just succumbs;
Whose varied ills and ailments cause
His doc's belief in Santa Claus.

The latter often live their days, despite their plain defects,
And he-men often slip on ice and die of broken necks.

History of the Gold Coast—LVII.

[When its boys went Over There.]

Overseas in 1917 and 1918 there was little that was emotional and much that was very, very real. There the throbbing of the war drums mounted to the crescendo of the fury of the cyclone attack of July 18, 1918. At 4:30 a. m. the poilus and the doughboys jumped off from the Marne to Soissons after a furious, ripping bombardment lasting but five minutes. They quickly overran the enemy front lines and surprised the iron heads in their deep dugouts farther back. When the sun of victory rose that morning the tide had been turned. There is nothing like the thrill of victory—elation, release from tension, and a feeling of awe.

Then followed the steady advance over hill and dale, thru the barrages, thru the clouds of fog and gas swirling heavily in the early hours of the cold dawn in the ravines and valleys of the Ourcquois and Soissonnois. Then over the flat hilltops and on to the Vesle. In the evenings these battlefields of France were lit up by a brilliant moon rising in golden magnificence, ruddied at times by the smoke of burning farms and villages.

Along the far horizon could be seen the almost continual line of flashes of the enemy guns deluging the troops with high explosives, shrapnel, and gas as he attempted to stem the relentless advance. On the roads were long lines of cowed and hungry prisoners moving westward. Then the shift to St. Mihiel and the Meuse-Argonne with the same result. The much vaunted German military machine had been given a decisive beating.

Then the 11th hour of the 11th day of November. Over here, a delirious celebration; over there, the uncanny silence of the front as the white flags were raised above the German trenches and the war drums abruptly ceased their throbbing, and for a short time the peace that knoweth no understanding.

She met Life gaily, with a joyous smile
And eager, outstretched hands. She had no fears
Her buoyant step might falter after while,
Nor that her eyes might dim with bitter tears.
Each day was an adventure. Her stout heart
Faced with an equal relish joy or sorrow.
It was her creed that each one played a part
In shaping souls that could endure tomorrow.
And where she passed, the weaker hearts took grace,
Remembering that battles can be won
If men, instead of cringing in their place,
Will lift their heads to greet the morning sun.
She never knew the courage she was giving.
She only knew she found life worth the living.

MOLD REMEDY FOR COLDS.

ALTHO penicillin [from penicillium notatum] has not yet been made available for general use, evidence of its power is mounting. With our armed forces it appears to answer, more than any other drug thus far devised, to the term a "miracle working compound." As was pointed out in one of our earlier discussions, there are many other molds which no doubt will yield potent, antiseptic agents.

Our British colleagues are pursuing the trail of these plant parasites and a recent announcement in the London Lancet sets forth the effect of penicillium patulum [called "patulin"] on the common cold. An extended trial was made by Hopkins of the royal navy, subsequent to preliminary tests which demonstrated the safety of the remedy.

Several cases responded about as follows: One of the staff doctors suffered severe and frequent bouts with respiratory infections. One forenoon, a profuse nasal secretion developed, accompanied by neuralgia-like pains within the bones of the skull. At noon he used a solution of patulin for a gargle, as well as a nasal wash. The air passages cleared almost immediately. The program was repeated two or three times before he retired and he slept thru the night without interruption. The next morning he awoke with no sign of discomfort.

Commander Hopkins tested the substance against the organisms inhabiting the airways. Half of his patients served as controls and were treated with commonly accepted methods. The other half were given supplies of patulin and asked to keep careful notes of their progress. It was found that a 1 in 20,000 solution was effective in several instances, while a stronger percentage was required in others.

The preparation was applied by means of an atomizer to both the nose and throat. A few chose a pipette, introducing the material into the nostrils; while others gargled in addition. Some were "dosed" every four hours; others, every two hours. Little more than a teaspoonful of the diluted product was used at each session. Fifty-eight per cent of the treated group recovered promptly while only 9 per cent of those who had employed routine plans were convalescent.

One patient stated that he had been subject to periodic attacks and that the acute symptoms would usually persist for four or five days. The succeeding nasal flow would hang on for an additional week. At the beginning of one of his bouts he employed a 1 in 10,000 solution of patulin every four hours. Twenty hours later, he awoke without a trace of discharge or blocking of the passages.

Apparently the new extract prevents the growth of ordinary bacteria which accompany acute coryzas and it seems to make little difference whether a large amount of pus is being thrown off or not. Organisms such as pneumococci and streptococci are obliged to cease their attacks. They are no longer able to produce toxins.

It is, of course, too early to claim a universal panacea but—with more study and investigation — it should not be difficult to synthesize the antidote in the chemical laboratory. If the régime is successful, millions of days lost from work will be saved, in addition to an astronomical number of complications which are likely to follow.

Altho the endocrine glands [including the thyroid] are interrelated, the absence of pregnancy is not responsible for bad behavior on the part of this structure.

Not Packaged Yet.

The company of American boys, weary, tattered, and beaten down after a month's fierce battle against the Japs on a South Pacific island, had been shipped behind the lines to a rest camp. As they flocked off the transport a U. S. O. worker stopped them. "We are making a survey," she began, a touch pompously. "Can you tell me if you are being supplied everything necessary for your comfort?" One stalwart lad stopped and glowered at her. "No, ma'am," he said. "We are not. Our supply of dehydrated foods has not so far contained any dehydrated blondes."

Reconsideration.

Laurence Todd, a tall, lean, lanky American, is Washington correspondent for the Tass news agency [soviet], and, as such, part of his duties, self-inspired or officially inspired, consist of praising soviet accomplishments. Several weeks ago he marched into the state department's division of information and tossed upon a desk a copy of the New York Times Sunday magazine section containing Wendell Willkie's article on soviet-Polish relations.

"Now there," quoth Mr. Todd, "is a man. There is a brain. This is the most marvelously lucid explanation of the whole situation ever written. I want you to read this."

Two days later Mr. Todd was in the same place when the news ticker bubbled out the official soviet castigation of Willkie, as printed in Pravda, for the article. His face paled, and he galloped back to the man with whom he had left the newspaper.

"Would you mind if I took that piece back?" he asked. "I want to reread it."

Modern Prose.

An 8 year old Minneapolis boy expropriated the family typewriter recently and produced a composition entitled "Susie Boat." It is terse narrative, neither embellishing nor omitting any essential detail. The signature, a trifle confusing, is "denikted and ritin by Dean W. Alexander," and the text is:

"Once upon a time there was a boat called Susie. Susie was a life boat, and she was on a steamer. The captain of the boat was named Capt. Bakin but the sailers called him Ruf and Tumble. One day in Dec.-$4,1942, a Gurman submarine torpedo the steamer and it sank but Capt. Bakin escaped in Susielifebote and two other hi officers to.

"Susie was avery happy little boat and was proud of herself besides, but sudenly a storm came up and little Susie tossed and turned in the big waves and once she almost tipped over, but shedident and sune the storm stoped and sune thay were drifting south and they were very hunger and thurste. Now they werevery ner an island but they didn't now it, they had ben on the water for -1$-14 days now and were almost dead but then a boat came in site. It was a good old Ameracen destroer and boy was it good to see. The destroer sou the lifebote and risquid it with the captain and two other officers. After the officers were risquid they said that Susie out to have a metal."

Possessions Are a Burden.

A member of a Chicago local OPA board reported for work one day last week and announced that some one would have to lend him some money, that he left home without any. "The penalty of having two suits," a fellow worker commented. "No," he snapped back, "The penalty of having two pairs of pants on one suit."

GASOLINE ON THE FARM.

Jacksonville, Ill., Jan. 15.—W. R. Washburn's letter of Jan. 14, accusing farmers of wasting more than 100 gallons of gas a month, deserves more than passing notice. Such use of gas on the farm is impossible under present regulations. The writer also suggests that the farmers use horses instead of tractors. Here also he gives evidence of his ignorance of farm conditions. Man power is the outstanding factor in present day farming. Farmers are paying $5 and $6 a day for farm help. They can't afford to put this high priced labor behind a slow going farm team of horses. If he does his own work, the farmer is obliged of necessity to make every minute count. The city man does not realize that compared with the farmer he is not entitled to any gas at all. The average city man has everything he can desire within walking distance of his home. The average farmer must travel five to 20 miles to get an even start with his city brother.

Few of our American people realize that with just the slightest mishap in crop conditions in '44, the American people would face a semi-starvation situation. We have already partly experienced it. What would happen if the great majority of farmers would lean back a little and take it easier—say eight hours a day's work—then add to this situation a good old fashioned dry year, which we may reasonably expect during '44? This drouth is now becoming apparent in the midwest.

Official Washington has worried its fool head about ceilings on farm products. What benefit is it to the consumer to have a ceiling on butter, cheese and other farm products, and not be able to get any of them? The consumer will be far better off to pay a reasonable price and get his butter and eggs and ham for breakfast, than to have his ceilings, and go without.

LINES WRITTEN ON THE CONCAVE SIDE OF A BARREL STAVE.

I didn't blame Chamberlain
For trying to tame Berlin
With the only weapon he had—
But you can't negotiate with a gorilla,
So we abandoned the silk umbrella

We learned at Munich,

WANTS A LABOR DRAFT.

Great Lakes, Ill., Jan. 13.—Your editorial, "And Now Slavery," in Thursday's edition of THE TRIBUNE was the climax of your paper's policy of untruth. The labor draft is as democratic as the drafting of civilians in the armed forces. If our armed forces are "slave labor" as it surely must be according to your article, then I think we are doing a pretty good job as "slaves." The sailor and the soldier is obliged "to work where he doesn't want to work" and at wages that are much lower than those earned at home by the civilian population.

G. T. CAREY.

NOT EVEN A SUIT AND $10.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—It seems to me that the forgotten man of this war is the man who was honorably discharged from the United States army for being over 38 years of age. The army inducted him, broke up his home, took him away from his job and family, and six months or a year later sent him home with only his railroad fare. A discharged convict from a penal institution is at least given a new suit and $10, but an honorably discharged soldier isn't even given the new suit and must wear his old ones if he can still fit into them.

If the draft boards and the army thought the man was good enough for the service, then he should also be entitled to the discharge pay. H. B. H.

SALES TAX CHISELING.

Chicago, Jan. 14.—Can't something be done to stop these 1 cent chiselers? My wife and I stopped at a loop drug store and each had a piece of pie and coffee. The clerk gave us each a check for 16 cents.

I protested to the cashier and he refused to accept 31 cents, the correct change, and I had to see the manager before I got out of the store.

The manager said it was my fault as I should have asked for one check, even tho my wife and I were the only two sitting at the table.

What a beating the public is taking on this sales tax. A. J. HOGUE.

GREENLAND, TOO.

Chicago, Jan. 10.—That was a splendid editorial in Thursday's issue of THE TRIBUNE entitled, "The Tribune and the Islands."

I am sorry you only included the Dutch and the French islands in the Atlantic. We should not forget the Danish possession, Greenland. Greenland, in my opinion, is the most strategic piece of land, so far as we are concerned, which we do not own in the western hemisphere.

650 TECHNICAL EXPERTS STRIKE IN FORD PLANTS

Threaten Tieup of Willow Run Bombers.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 19 [Special].—A new threat to war production arose today when 650 technical men at Ford's Rouge plant went on strike, interrupting contract negotiations in progress since last June.

The scientists, including chemists, metallurgists, and physicists who test metal and supervise the treatment, alloying, heating and machining of metals used in virtually every division of the Ford Motor company output at the Rouge and Willow Run plants, are members of the Fraternity of Laboratory Workers, chapter 1, an independent union. They are specifically excluded from the Ford company's contract with the United Automobile Workers [CIO].

The fraternity was designed as the bargaining agent for the technicians in a National Labor Relations board election last June. Its demands include proposals that all research work be done by union members, wage increases, and a demand for pay for their half-hour lunch period, retroactive to last June.

Open Way to Peace.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 19 (AP).—A war department offer to ask the national war labor board to hold a public hearing on the wage dispute that has closed approximately 80 Oregon and Washington foundries brought an agreement tonight for a vote by the 6,000 striking AFL members.

The agreement was announced by the regional war labor board after a five hour conference between WLB officials, representatives of the army and navy, and an eight man negotiating committee of the molders and foundry workers' union.

The negotiating committee agreed to call union locals together Friday to consider ending the walkout on the basis of the proposal submitted by Maj. Arthur B. Krim, special labor representative of undersecretary of war.

WAUKEGAN SUED BY TAXI OWNER FOR COLLISION

After a taxicab and a fire truck collided in Waukegan last Dec. 20, Linwood Porter, 40 years old, of 124 Washington street, Waukegan, the cab driver, was charged with reckless driving, speeding, and failing to observe the right of way of an emergency vehicle. Witnesses told police he was driving about 50 miles an hour.

Yesterday Frank Ketter, owner of the Pontiac Cab company, which operated the cab, filed suit in Lake county Circuit court for $1,000 against the city of Waukegan for damage to the cab. The suit quoted state laws which provide that fire trucks should be operated in a "careful and prudent manner so as not to injure or damage persons or vehicles."

Porter will be arraigned tomorrow in police court. He, a fireman, and two passengers in the cab were injured in the crash at Washington and Utica streets.

He worked about a year as a reporter in THE TRIBUNE'S Metropolitan section before entering service on April 17, 1942. He was commissioned a second lieutenant on Dec. 9, 1942, at Miami Beach, Fla. In addition to his parents, Lt. Fisher is survived by a brother, Aviation Cadet William B. Fisher.

FIREMEN DRENCH TAXI AS DRIVER HUNTS WET RAG

The Yellow cab swung slowly onto Michigan avenue from Wacker drive and halted. A thin trickle of smoke curled out of the hood. A few people glanced at it curiously.

The driver slid out from behind the wheel, moved to the hood, and lifted it. A puff or smoke rolled up. He cursed mildly at two crossed wires sputtering with a blue flame. Then he entered a near-by dress shop.

Pedestrians began to gather. One went to an alarm box and yanked at the lever.

Soon 10 fire engines were at the scene.

The cab driver stepped from the dress shop with a damp rag in his hand. He saw 10 firemen surrounding his car, squirting at the drenched engine with a variety of pumps.

The driver forced his way thru the crowd to the cab and climbed slowly behind the wheel. He muttered brokenly:

"Just a little damp rag was all it needed. Just a little damp rag."

The return estimates the hospital's share at $940,700 and the college share at $109,892. The Lake Forest hospital will get $25,000.

WANTS GERMANY TO WIN; STRIPPED OF CITIZENSHIP

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan yesterday canceled the citizenship of Bruno Mahlke, 46 years old, of Aurora, a German born $105 a week engineer in a war plant who asserted he hoped his fatherland would win the war. Judge Sullivan commented to Mahlke that he and others of his kind should be shipped back home on a raft.

Mahlke, a German soldier in the last war, admitted that he had been a "half and half citizen" since his naturalization in 1928. He drew his certificate from his pocket when Francis J. McGreal, assistant United States attorney, asked him if he were willing to give up citizenship. McGreal charged that Mahlke committed a fraud by retaining allegiance to Germany when he swore fealty to this nation.

Mahlke invested $4,000 in German real estate bonds after selling property in Wisconsin. He faces internment as an enemy alien. His wife, Emmy, was seized as an enemy alien several weeks ago.

GREATER PERILS THAN WAR FOUND ON HOME FRONT

In an effort to prove that accidents have wasted man power, the National Safety council yesterday disclosed that 190,000 persons have been killed and 18,500,000 injured in home front mishaps since the attack on Pearl Harbor, compared with a total of 139,858 casualties and missing and captured fighters as a result of the war.

The council said the enormous accidental total has caused a loss of 800,000,000 man days of war work—enough to have build 38,000 bombers. It urged greater effort to prevent accidents.

Up to Jan. 1, 54,000 had been killed and 1,900,000 injured in automobile accidents. Accidents in homes killed 63,500 and injured 9,500,000, and other accidents claimed the lives of 94,000 and injured 8,800,000.

LAUNDRY TRUCK STOLEN.

A delivery truck owned by the Safety Wet Wash laundry, 2931 Van Buren street, loaded with $1,200 worth of parcels, was stolen yesterday after the driver, Albert Salzman, 4423 North Central Park avenue, left it a few doors from the laundry.

PLAN TO START LOW PRICED AUTO MAKING IN YEAR

Nothing Fancy and They Will Be Rationed.

BY LLOYD NORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—The first new automobiles, which probably will start rolling from assembly lines early in 1945, will be low priced models fashioned on 1942 patterns, it was learned at the war production board today.

Production is expected to be concentrated in the three most popular models selling for approximately $1,000 and the limited output probably will be rationed, experts said. The cars will have no de luxe trimmings, radios, or chromium "brightwork," but will be designed for durability, they said.

Preliminaries Discussed.

Altho WPB officials said they had no specific plans for resumption of automobile manufacturing, they said preliminary outlines of the program have been discussed. They said Donald M. Nelson, WPB chairman, already has recognized the need of inexpensive cars for war workers and other essential motorists.

The current reserve supply of 60,000 new cars in the hands of dealers will be exhausted by July 1, automobile rationing officials in the office of price administration said. These remain from the pre-war output halted by WPB almost two years ago.

May Ration Used Cars.

After July 1, no new automobiles will be available to replace vehicles which wear out, OPA officials said. The rationing of used cars may be necessary, they said.

Altho there will be a need for new cars by mid-1944, WPB officials asserted it is unlikely automobile manufacturing can be resumed by that time. Resumption of automobile production will depend upon materialization of military predictions that Germany will be defeated this year, WPB officials said.

No Provision for 1944.

At WPB's office of civilian requirements a spokesman said the civilian requirements program for the second quarter of 1944 has been completed, and that there is no likelihood that any provisions for new automobiles in the third or fourth quarters will be made.

Obsolescence of passenger cars has taken a heavy toll of this type of rolling stock, according to automotive experts in the office of defense transportation. They said that approximately 2½ million cars have been junked in the last two years and that another million will disappear from the highways this year.

There are now about 24½ million cars in use by private motorists, and another million in the hands of dealers and in storage, ODT said.

2 IN KENTUCKY SEIZE FUGITIVE WAR PRISONER

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 19 (AP).—A school bus driver and a farmer today captured a German prisoner of war who escaped yesterday from Camp Breckinridge, Ky.

Herbert K. Moss, agent in charge of the federal bureau of investigation here, announced the recapture of Helmut Von Der Aue, 24 year old English speaking German war prisoner, but withheld names of the captors. Moss said the bus driver recognized the prisoner from a description given in a radio broadcast when he saw him walking along a highway near Smith Mills, Ky.

The driver enlisted the aid of a farmer and the two captured the fugitive and turned him over to the state highway patrol.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by William Staker, 6147 Komensky avenue.]

THE QUESTION.

What advantages have you found in being tall?

WHERE ASKED.

The Tall Girls' club of Chicago.

THE ANSWERS.

Jerrie Morgan, signal corps inspector, 1942 North Oakley avenue—The shorter girls probably won't agree with me, but I believe that only a tall girl can have true dignity. I'll admit we can never be cute, but I'd rather strive for the other qualities.

Mrs. Ken W. Ash, accountant, 6108 Patterson avenue—I think tall people make better salespeople because their customers are compelled to look up to them. I think we make good executives for the same reason. We have a head start to begin with because of our added height.

Dorothy Helding, stenographer, 4632 North Keating avenue—The tall girls make the best models for clothes. Tailored and sports clothes are made for us and we really do justice to the long formals. I think fur coats and fur pieces look better on the taller girls.

Louise Thompson, secretary, 5615 Leland avenue—If I hadn't been tall I couldn't have been a member of this club, which I consider quite a social advantage. What's more, it's fun to stand out in a crowd and attract a little special attention without working at it.

Agnes Nierman, office worker, 3306 North California avenue—A tall girl has many more advantages than a short girl when it comes to athletic activities. In whatever game or event we participate, we can do as much in one stroke or stride as she can do in two or three.

Audrey Hayden, secretary, 5819 Augusta boulevard—In these days of traffic congestion, we have it all over the shorter people. We easily reach the straps in public conveyances and we don't get pushed around in the crowds. We reach high places without a stepladder.

AFL EXECUTIVE COUNCIL BLASTS DRAFT OF LABOR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Jan. 19.—The American Federation of Labor will never surrender the basic freedom of American workers, its executive council said today in a statement attacking President Roosevelt's proposal for national service legislation.

William Green, AFL president, at a press conference after the council meeting, said he was aware that congress has pigeonholed the President's proposal, but said the AFL would continue its fight against that and the Austin-Wadsworth bill.

John P. Frey, president of the AFL metal trades department, asserted that the council should advocate an amalgamation of some 25 government agencies, including the war labor board and war man power commission, "to avoid confusion and contradictory decisions on labor matters by these overlapping agencies."

'RAIL COLONELS' READY TO DOFF SILVER EAGLES

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Fourteen silver eagles from seven pairs of shoulders shortly will fold their wings and settle themselves among railroad presidents' souvenirs to mark the end to the 22 day federal control over the railroads put into effect by the President when a strike threat was ended.

As a last step toward giving up their brief military authority, "railroad colonels" in charge of six districts yesterday were engaged in paper work connected with getting out clearances in which the railroads and the government acknowledge that they owe each other nothing as a result of the control. The seventh colonel was adviser to the army.

Return to Civilian Garb.

When all the papers are signed the colonels are expected to be notified by the President that their army tenure is over and they will return to the serges and tweeds of their civilian garb.

It is reported that the procedure in Washington will be to place the seven colonels on the inactive list as soon as their duties are completed. They will be permitted to wear plastic service buttons in their lapels, wear uniforms on parade days, join the American Legion, and share in such bonuses or other benefits as congress may award.

The army took over the railroads at 6 p. m. Dec. 27, 1943, and moved out at midnight on Jan. 18, 1944.

Administration in Charge of Six.

Administration of the army's authority was in the hands of the six "railroad colonels," all chief executives of railroads." Col. M. W. Clement, president of the Pennsylvania, acted as adviser to the army.

Col. Ralph Budd, president of the Burlington, represented the army in the central west. Typical of the activities in the five other districts, Col. Budd's orders were few. He directed some 88 officers put under his command by the army to report to the various roads over which he had jurisdiction and then a few days later recalled some because "there was nothing for them to do."

Railroad operation was continuing as if there wasn't an army officer at railroad executive offices waiting for something to happen. The most exciting thing that happened to the army men was to have lunch with a few railroad "big shots."

Ruled 26 Months in Last War.

There was one big difference between federal control during the 26 months of government operation in World War I, when all the roads were under the jurisdiction of the United States railroad administration and William G. McAdoo was in charge. When that was all over the American taxpayers had a bill of more than 1 billion dollars to foot. In the current control the army will probably have a bill for "seven colonels" for one month—a little more or possibly a little less. And the base pay of a colonel is $511 a month, so, the total shouldn't be much more than $4,000.

As for the colonels, most of the $511 probably will go to pay for the eagles and the extra natty uniforms and hats worn by them.

Meantime Lt. Gen. Brehon Somerville, chief of the army services in Washington, conferred his blessing on the railroads as he said good-by for the army. He acknowledged that they did a fine job and said it was made possible "by the finest kind of coöperation from management and men."

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Earline Luke, 18, as she started meter reading job yesterday.

Meter reading is another man's job to fall into the hands of women in war time. Miss Earline Luke, 18 years old, 3114 Cottage Grove avenue, one of the women employed for this task, is a graduate of Wendell Phillips High school. Her father is dead, and her mother is employed in a war plant.

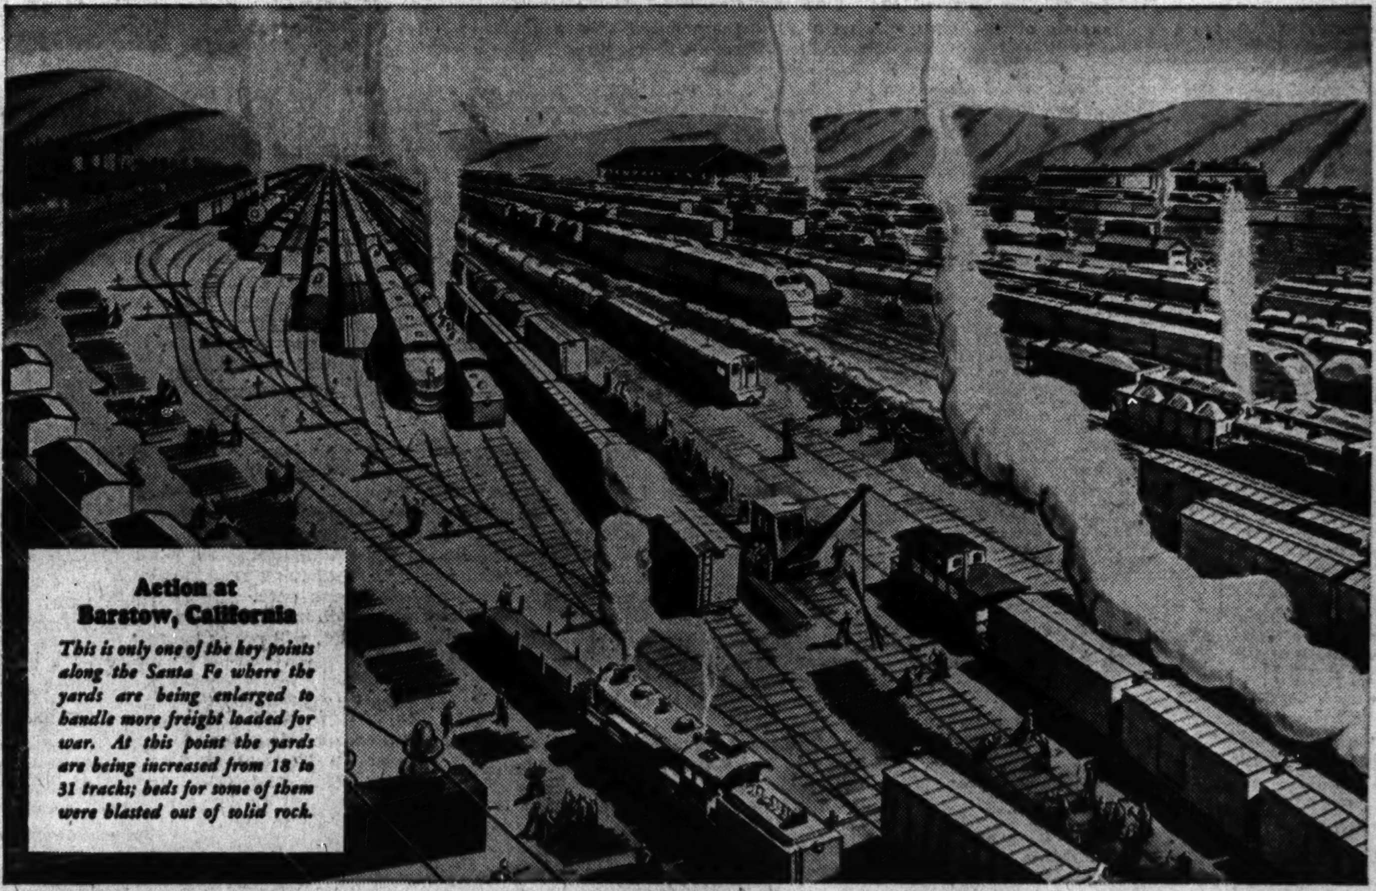
Making room for more FIGHTING FREIGHT along the Santa Fe



Action at Barstow, California

This is only one of the key points along the Santa Fe where the yards are being enlarged to handle more freight loaded for war. At this point the yards are being increased from 18 to 31 tracks; beds for some of them were blasted out of solid rock.

Santa Fe is building for the time when "it's all over" in Europe, so we can do our part in helping our military forces throw a bigger load at the enemy in the Pacific.

Santa Fe yards at many important points in California have been enlarged to handle many more trains, and sidings are being lengthened to handle more cars.

Centralized Traffic Control systems are being installed at congested points to conserve manpower and to speed up vital shipments.

Water towers in the desert have been doubled in capacity to refresh twice as many thirsty locomotives.

Modern cafeterias and dormitories have been built to feed and house Santa Fe's ever-growing army of workmen.

Literally as well as figuratively—when the time comes—The Santa Fe Trail will be the first lap on the Route to Tokyo!

WILD DOGS TAKE HEAVY TOLL OF FARM ANIMALS

Live stock killing dogs in rural areas around Chicago doubled their destructive activities last year, reports of the treasurers of Kane and Lake counties showed yesterday.

A good many dogs in Kane county went wild, Treasurer Marcus Damisch asserted, and set out on a killing spree that included 520 pheasants on the farm of Max McGraw, president of the McGraw Electric company, near Elgin. McGraw entered a claim for $1,170 for the slain pheasants, but was informed that the state law fails to cover wildlife killed by dogs.

Marauding dogs also had a field day among McGraw's turkey flock, killing 46. McGraw will be reimbursed for this loss, which was set at $230.

Other livestock which fell prey to dogs in Kane county included 105 sheep and three hogs. Total claims were $1,653 against $928 for 1942.

The problem was even grimmer in Lake county, where farmers lodged claims amounting to $3,828, compared with the 1942 figure of $1,846. There were 205 sheep killed, Treasurer G. H. Fredbeck said, and 29 injured; four cows, one calf, and three turkeys were killed.

STATE ST. STORE ASKS AIR ROUTE FOR ITS BUNDLES

Filing of a petition with the civil aeronautics board for permission to operate an air carrier service was disclosed yesterday by Mandel brothers. The State street department store plans post-war development of passenger and package service to and from Chicagoland localities, J. Sylvan Kaufman, vice president and general manager, said.

The petition requests authority to operate helicopters and other aircraft that may be suitable for small landing spaces over six routes to 27 cities within a range of approximately 100 miles of Chicago.

Kaufman said the project is a phase of the store's plan for post-war expansion, and would serve the convenience of employes as well as customers in the areas covered.

IF YOU'RE BEHIND ON SLEEP, CATCH UP ON THIS SHOW

Sheep Counting Put on Scientific Basis.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

If you should doze during the broadcast of "The Human Adventure" at 7:30 tonight W-G-N will take no offense. Neither will the University of Chicago, which will coöperate in presenting the program. The broadcast for tonight will concern sleep and how to get it. In dramatized form the program will tell the story of researches in the soporific realm of Prof. Nathaniel Kleitman, physiologist.

Prof. Kleitman has learned a lot about sleep—and its effect on the human body—at the sleep laboratory he set up at the university. He knows something about the effect of lack of it, having remained awake a solid week once.

Walter Yust, editor of the Encyclopedia Britannica, will act as host on the program.

Studio notes: Johnny Duffy, organist, has hopped off the W-G-N Musical Milkwagon. He dropped a chick brooder on his foot at his Elgin poultry farm and crushed several bones. Richard Platt is substituting. . . . "Three Hearts for Father" will replace "The Battle of the Sexes" on the Blue network, effective Feb. 2. . . . Eddie Cantor will head an all star cast presenting an infantile paralysis fund drive show on W-G-N-Mutual from 8 to 9 p. m. Sunday. . . . Ralph Edwards, who has been conducting a paper salvage drive among school children thru his Truth or Consequences show, reports the final score: 1,200 carloads.

Dale Evans, former W-G-N songster and later Charlie McCarthy's chum, will sing with Bing Crosby tonight.

A post-broadcast program of one hour dedicated to the naval aviation cadet program will follow for the studio audience of 4,000 persons.

Miss Claire will be starred as Violet, the heroine; James Gerard, tenor, as Harry; Earle Wilkie as Icabod, and Angelo Raffaelli as Blinky Bill. All will be dressed in costumes appropriate to a gay and naughty Broadway of 1908.

About 2,500 Chicagoland high school seniors who expect to become aviation cadets after being graduated this semester, will be special guests. Both programs will be held under the auspices of the treasury department in the interests of war bond sales.

The hour program of nonbroadcast entertainment will be presented by talent from the Glenview Naval Air station, participating thru the coöperation of Capt. G. C. Montgomery, commanding officer.

"Wildcats" to Play.

Participants will include the 18 piece Glenview Wildcats orchestra. Musician First Class Gus Bivona, formerly a clarinetist with Benny Goodman, is director.

Sol Bobrov, former concertmaster of the Kansas City Symphony orchestra, who will team with pianist Louis Math; Earl Hoffman, trombonist; Harry Kite, song and dance specialist, and Ruth Robin Bivona, WAVE Storekeeper La Verne Birchard, and Cadet David Lloyd Jenkins, vocalists, also are in the cast. Lt. Robert Adams will be master of ceremonies.

FIRM WILL GIVE BONDS TO BOOST PAPER SALVAGE

A $25 war bond for every 1,000 pounds of waste paper salvaged by their employes is being offered by Admiral corporation, manufacturer of radio equipment, to increase waste paper stocks for making vital war materials. This plan was announced yesterday by the board of directors.

Fifteen hundred employes will have an opportunity to share in distribution of the bonds. Their contributions of paper will be collected until Feb. 15, then weighed, and a $25 bond put up by the company for every 1,000 pounds in the bales. Names of the winning employes will be drawn from a box three days later.

Each employe is expected to add 100 pounds of paper to the collection, or a total of 75 tons, for 150 war bonds, directors stated.

'Clock Strikes Twelve'

By Patricia Wentworth

(Copyright: 1944: By Patricia Wentworth Turnbull.)

SYNOPSIS: James Paradine telephones to Elliot Wray to come to River House at once. Blueprints are missing. It is a family affair. The family assembles for New Year's eve dinner—Grace Paradine, sister of James; her adopted daughter, Phyllida Wray; Mark and Dicky Paradine, cousins, and nephews of James Paradine; Frank Ambrose [Paradine's step-son]; his wife, Irene; his sister, Brenda, and Lydia Pennington, Irene's sister. When James Paradine joins the family group with his secretary-cousin, Albert Pearson, he has with him another guest, Elliot Wray, research worker in the family aeroplane works and husband of Phyllida. Phyllida is startled. She hasn't seen Elliot for a year. Before drinking the usual toasts, James Paradine accuses one of the family of disloyalty. He knows who it is. The guilty one will find him in his study until midnight, prepared to make terms. Aunt Grace has a remembrance for each guest, except Elliot, of whom she disapproves. The atmosphere is strained. The party breaks up early, all the guests leaving except Elliot and Albert Pearson. Elliot remains at James Paradine's request, and is confused when Phyllida offers her cheek for a good night kiss. Pearson insists upon staying with Elliot until midnight to establish an alibi. Phyllida, worried over her marriage status, seeks James Paradine's advice.

INSTALMENT X.

JAMES PARADINE'S ADVICE.

Phyllida had turned pale.

"There was a motor accident. Elliot had a girl with him and she was hurt. She was taken into the Cranstons' house—that's how Mrs. Cranston knew about it. Elliot was driving. Of course, they had to give their names and addresses. The girl's name was Maisie Dale. Mrs. Cranston said they'd been staying at a roadhouse.

Mr. Paradine raised his eyebrows.

"I see. Will you go on?"

"Yes. There was a lot more. I didn't see the letter—I didn't want to. I think she's a horrid woman, but I think she just wrote down what people were saying—about Elliot and the girl. Aunt Grace was dreadfully upset. We were married. Mrs. Cranston said that Elliot was keeping up with the girl. I don't know how she knew."

"She's the sort of woman who makes it her business to know," said James Paradine. "By the way, was the girl badly hurt?"

"O, no, Mrs. Cranston said she wasn't—just knocked out."

"I see. Go on."

"Aunt Grace—she wanted to find out—whether it was true. She got some one to make inquiries."

"How extremely—enterprising."

"She—she thought she was doing the right thing. When we came back I saw that she wasn't happy. Then one day she came into my room and told me. She read me Mrs. Cranston's letter, and just as she was finishing it Elliot came in. You see, I hadn't any time to think. Elliot said, 'What's going on?' and Aunt Grace said, 'Phyllida would like to know what you have to say about Maisie Dale.' She didn't even give me time to speak. Aunt Grace said, 'You spent a week-end with her at Pedlar's Halt, in June,' and he said, 'It's none of your business if I did.' Then she said, 'Will you deny that you visited her only last week, on the afternoon of Dec. 26?' and he said, 'I won't deny anything. And now will you get out of here and leave me to talk to my wife!'"

"And did she—get out?"

"She said, 'You think you can talk her round.'"

"And what did you say, Phyllida?"

"I didn't say anything. I just felt as if I had come to the end of everything. It still feels like that when I think about it. And then Elliot said, 'I'm off. Are you coming, Phyllida?' Aunt Grace came and put her arms around me and said, 'No,' and Elliot went out of the room and banged the door, and I fainted. I thought he would come back, but he didn't. Aunt Grace said he had gone to her."

"Are you sure he didn't write?"

"He didn't."

"The whole affair has been a little totalitarian up-to date, hasn't it? The prosecution very ably represented, but no counsel for the defense, and the accused not given a hearing."

Phyllida said, "O!" And then, "Uncle James, let me go on. I want to tell you about tonight."

"By all means."

"I've been very unhappy—I didn't know one could be as unhappy as that—but when Elliot came into the room it all went. As soon as I saw him it all went away. I was frightfully happy."

"So I observed."

She said in a soft, sighing voice, "It didn't seem to matter any more—I just didn't care." Then, very earnestly, "That's why I had to come and talk to you. I don't know whether Elliot cares at all. Perhaps he doesn't know."

"I should ask him," said James Paradine briskly. He leaned forward, pulled out one of the writing table drawers, and produced a tin box with a patriotic design on the lid. James selected a lemon drop and offered the box to Phyllida.

"Have a lollipop, my dear, and stop thinking about yourself. There's Elliot, you know. Even accused persons have rights—and feelings. I should give him a hearing. Some one's been at these sweets of mine—I've been suspecting it for some time. Albert? No, I don't think so—too human a failing. I often have serious doubts as to whether Albert is really human. Whom would you suspect? What's the name of the apple-cheeked child who turns puce when I meet her in a passage?"

"Polly Parsons. She's only 16. I expect she likes sweets."

"I shall have to allowance her. How do you suppose she would react to a two-ounce packet laid in the top of the box and marked 'Polly'?"

Phyllida pushed back her chair and got up.

"I should think she'd be scared to death," she said, and with that the handle of the door behind her moved.

James Paradine's expression changed, sharpened. He called out: "Hold on a minute—I'll open the door!" After which he put a finger on his lips and with the other hand waved Phyllida in the direction of the unoccupied bedroom next door.

The room into which she had come was dark—pitch dark. Phyllida could not remember that she had ever been inside it before. When she was a child it was forbidden ground.

She had to reach the door which opened upon the passage. She thought there was a chest of drawers . . . Yes, that was it—a tall and massive chest of drawers, on the right of where she was standing now. If she took five steps forward and then turned and walked straight ahead, that ought to bring her to the door.

As she moved to take the first step, the sound of voices came to her from the study—James Paradine's voice and another. Both these voices were familiar to her.

Somewhere round about half past eleven Elliot Wray came broad awake. His mood of drifting acquiescence broke. Albert was talking about the migration of eels to the Sargasso sea.

"Let's have a drink."

Albert stared, his mind for the moment infested by eels.

"Come on! Lane used to leave a tray in the dining room. Let's prospect."

ANOTHER JUDGE FAVORS DIVORCE FOR MEN ABROAD

The cleavage in judicial opinion over the question of whether soldiers overseas may divorce erring wives by deposition was widened yesterday when Judge Harry M. Fisher of Circuit court said that he would urge that deposition hearings be recognized.

Judge Robert J. Dunne of Circuit court already has announced he will hear divorce cases in which the plaintiff, absent abroad on military or naval service, cannot be present in person. In such a case the soldier or sailor will be required to make a sworn statement before some competent authority, testifying to what he would say in court if he could be present.

Against Judge Dunne's position, however, the Superior court, headed by Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley, decided not to consider deposition cases.

Rules of the Circuit court on divorce are the same as Superior court rules, but it is Judge Fisher's opinion that the rules are contrary to state law.

"The law," said Judge Fisher, "requires in all default divorce cases that the court shall hear witnesses in open court. It does not exclude depositions in addition to witnesses. Neither does the law require any of the principals to be in open court. It is unthinkable that soldiers overseas can't have the legal remedies they would have under ordinary conditions."

Annual Benefit for Settlement Set for Feb. 29

BY JUDITH CASS.

FEMININE Chicagoans whose customary escorts are serving with the army and navy at distant posts will not let that fact keep them away from the annual benefit given by the combined boards of the Northwestern University settlement, for the date which the organization has selected for its 1944 venture is Tuesday, Feb. 29—"Leap Year night." The boards again are sponsoring a performance of the "Icecapades" at the Chicago Arena, and this year are taking over the opening night.

The date of this year's benefit should present a marked contrast in merriment to that of last year's, which fell on March 15, the income tax deadline. Mrs. Roger Faherty, chairman of the benefit, is calling her committees together for luncheon Jan. 28 at the arena to talk over plans. Miss Harriet Vittum, head resident of the settlement, and Clyde Bedell, chairman of the men's board, will speak.

Mrs. Chester MacChesney, Mrs. Frank Miller, Mrs. Ernst von Ammon, Mrs. Norman Westerhold, and Mrs. William Warfield III. are some of those assisting Mrs. Faherty. Last year's net of $4,400 represented ticket sales for the benefit alone, as the boards have no intake from program or advertising sales.

A Smart Two Piece Costume for Spring

[Acme Photo.]

This two piece suit dress costume of soft spring gray wool, contrasted with precisely striped gray and white taffeta, is as fresh and crisp as the first daffodils. The gloves, the fetching tignon tied hat, the gilet, and the neat lapels and cuffs are all of the blending gray and white striped taffeta. Other spring color contrasts available. It is a Foxbrownie original from the new spring collection.

Stripes Supply the Motif for Spring Outfits

BY REA SEEGER.

Top flight American designers are completely sold on the clear, clean charm of precision stripes. Dresses, blouses, hats, bags, and gloves are made of effective, varying widths of dark and light colored materials. Most popular is white, gray, coral, blue, spring violet, and refreshing green.

Day time and spectator sports dresses of half inch striped silk or cotton men's shirting are the last word in swank; also ideal dresses for high color contrast with long or short wool coats. New short jackets that swing with a wide flare of the backline are special toppers for such dresses when the soft summer material is of red, green, gold, or any other vivid contrast in wool, bengaline, taffeta, or corduroy.

One of the smartest two piece ensembles of the new spring collections is the time tested semi-fitted long wool coat teamed with a dress. Cleverly designed dresses that feature the striped material for contrast trim, and the same material for complete lining of the coat also are popular. Smoke gray models are outstanding, with green, navy, copper, and cherry red, also ideal spring buys.

Slim, distinctive two piece suits and suit dresses have the same crisp stripe contrast. Soft woolens, with either swish taffeta or soft striped crepe, are tremendously high fashion. They are figure flattering, slide under winter coats of fur or fabric, and appear later with fur scarves. The striped contrast is managed with lapel facing, narrow turnover collars, narrow band cuffs, and gilets and vestees.

Thru the Looking Glass

There are women, most of them now tussling with housework while their erstwhile maids do the welding, who think that what this country needs most, aside from victory, is a GOOD hand lotion. The desperate search for preparations that will make a worker's hand look pale, soft, and useless is accepted dinner table conversation nowadays.

One of the great beauty houses has launched a super-dooper that comes in our hour of need. We've had our sample for several weeks and have been praying for its wholesale arrival in the shops so that we could pass the word along, meanwhile keeping our sample under lock and key so our predatory guinea pigs, who fell madly in love with it, wouldn't steal it all.

At first glance it's a little hard to say what's so unusual about this lotion. It's a pretty pink, and has a nice smell, and in texture seems like many other pleasant hand preparations. But the instant you use it you realize it's different; it has a beautiful feel on parched, dry skin, and it disappears like magic.

In the disappearing, tho, it doesn't suggest that it's leaving a thin film that gives you that deceptive but purely temporary feeling of skin softness. This is lapped up by the oil hungry skin. Not a trace of it remains. You can type, draw on your kid gloves, or do whatever manual work you have to do within a minute flat after you apply it.

It has the instantaneous effect of making the skin softer, but what we and our tryer-outers liked best was the cumulative effect. A few days of this, using it faithfully after each hand washing, and you'll be happy about the state of your hands. The skin will be smoother and without the redness that comes of roughness. Your hands, in private, may scrub and scald and take a lot of wear and tear—but in public they'll be presentable as any idle orchid's.

Laughton Plays Notable Role in His New Movie

"THE MAN FROM DOWN UNDER."

A Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, directed by Robert Z. Leonard, starring Charles Laughton with Binnie Barnes, Donna Reed, Richard Carlson, and Clyde Cook, and presented at the Apollo.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

It's been quite some time since the versatile Mr. Laughton has contributed one of his always memorable characterizations to our screen, and I, for one, am very happy to extend him a welcome. Also to greet his picture—a film of arresting "screenality."

What intrigues you most about "The Man from Down Under" is its infinite variety. . . . The rascal has no qualms about going temperamental on you! . . . One moment it's roistering comedy with a slightly bawdy eye. . . . The next—socko—you're in the prize fight ring. . . . Then, blimy! it swings into pathos—suddenly turning tail to suggest that maybe there's a bit of abnormal psychology in the wind! Young love it has—and some tough old affection—and a loidy left waiting at a church! . . . Its action starts in one war and ends in another. . . . Whoops, my dears! But you'll LOVE it!

Now all this ruckus is put over in the most beguiling fashion, from the first scenes—in 1919 at a French embarkation port—to the last—in a shell ridden Australian suburb at the time Japanese invasion was threatening the "down under land."

With unflagging interest you follow the adventures of Soldier Jocko Wilson, once of the prize fight industry, who, after the armistice, adopts two refugee war orphans, whom he believes to be brother and sister, and takes them home to Australia. Here he buys himself a tavern, sends Mary to a select finishing school, and trains "Nipper" to be a champion boxer. . . . He had planned, before leaving the French seaport, to marry them a mother in the person of Aggie Dawlins, a gay—but good!—dance hall show girl. However, being of a forgetful nature . . . ? Well—she catches up with him later. . . .

As Jocko, Mr. Laughton has a high old time and hands you one. . . . All the acting has bite—the players coöperating like a good football team and their roles dovetailing like a nice piece of cabinet work. . . .

Direction—by the veteran, Robert Leonard—could be studied to advantage by many of our later day sprouts. He has a very definite understanding of what constitutes screen entertainment.

See you tomorrow.

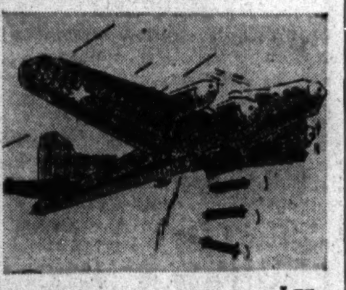
White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Typewriter Drawing.

Would you like a bomber drawn on my typewriter for the fourth war loan drive?



LEE.

Letter to a Swell Guy.

Dear Boss: You know how monotonous it becomes, answering questions day in and day out . . . the same old questions on different lips and in different shapes, perhaps, but seldom a new one even for novelty's sake!

Recently I found myself bored—yes—really bored and becoming, of all things, crabby! [I, who used to wonder why salespersons couldn't be pleasant!]

So, I have invented a game. I call it: "Where's Thisa and Thata." The way to play it, of course, is to see how high a score can be made in a day. Now, when a customer begins playing "Where's Thisa and Thata" with me I smile and jot down one for my side! When I smile at the questions I'm thinking: "That makes 197," while the customer is thinking, "Isn't she gracious?" This way we are both pleased with ourselves, she for meeting some one ready to smile and I for discovering a way to ride with the current—and finding it fun. P. S. No, I haven't forgotten to sell the merchandise! In fact, I'm doing a better job.

DEPARTMENT STORE SAL.

How Come?

Avidly reading the paper each day
To learn what white collar girls have to say,
We encounter the stenos, accountants, and clerks,
Every Mary and Millie and Mazie who works.
But lately the news has a different sound
And masculine names, methinks, do abound.
So don't you suppose that the columnar head
Should be "White Collar Girls AND Boys" instead?

IDEE.

Complaint Dept.

Can you do something about women in business who sign their correspondence with only one initial and the last name? This is annoying because, when some one receives such a letter he is left uncertain whether to address his reply to "Mr. Jones" or "Miss Jones." There is little point in women trying to conceal the fact that they are women. Most men like 'em.

Provided and Providing.

We noticed a recent paragraph carried a word often misused both in conversation and in writing. It is "providing" incorrectly used in this way: "Providing you don't . . ." The correct word is "provided."

A simple rule is to substitute "if" and "supplying." Where "if" is inferred, use "provided." Where "supplying" is intended, use "providing."

Religion May Be Peace Key, Says Hutchins

Dr. Robert Maynard Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, expressed pessimism over prospects of post-war international tranquillity last night, but said that religion might provide the key to lasting peace.

Dr. Hutchins, who spoke at the opening meeting of the new Chicago chapter of the Institute for Religious Study in the lecture room of the Art institute, pointed to current dissensions among allied nations, such as the controversy over Polish boundaries, and asserted, "The prospect for future coöperation, if such dissensions are to continue, is not encouraging."

"There has been much talk about an economical, political, or geographical basis for post-war settlement," Dr. Hutchins added, "but nothing particularly hopeful has evolved. Perhaps religion can offer something more durable."

Last night's meeting, attended by 500 persons, was preliminary to a series of courses on religious study which the institute will sponsor. The courses, to be held weekly from Jan. 25 to Feb. 29, will be open to clergy of all denominations, and to theological students. They will be held at the Art institute.

Three leading theologians addressed last night's gathering. They were Walter M. Horton, professor of theology at Oberlin college; Dr. Gerald B. Phelan, president of the Pontifical Institute of Medieval Studies at Toronto, and Louis Finkelstein, president of the Jewish Seminary of America of New York City.

Dr. Horton stressed the need for a regeneration of religion in the post-war world, terming it a unifying force for the survival of any culture. "If the world is going to get along, it will need a unified core of interest to solidify harmonious relationships," he asserted.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, CAL., Jan. 19.—How long is Hollywood's memory? When "Human Comedy" was released, critics raved, said it was picture of the year. Same thing happened over "The More the Merrier," ditto "Heaven Can Wait." But those pictures came out some months ago. And to prove how short is our memory, you'd think only picture deserving an academy award is "Song of Bernadette," which to me was an hour too long and mighty dull in spots. Unless the epic has been released a couple of weeks before, it's the old Hollywood merry-go-round, and I don't know why this year should be any different from the others. No, we never learn. . . . Leonard Sillman's announcement that he would be backed by a Columbia producer was a little premature. It didn't happen. . . . And Boris Morros was a little premature saying he's bought "Of Thee I Sing" because the late George Gershwin's mother hasn't sold the music rights to it, and she doesn't think she will.

Not in Bag.

When I saw Col. Robert Scott, who wrote "God Is My Co-pilot," dining at Romanoff's with Cary Grant and Hal Wallis, I knew they were trying to persuade Cary to do the picture. And wouldn't he be perfect for it? But whether Cary wants to do another war picture when he's so good in comedy is something else again. . . . Grant's last picture started out as "Curly" then switched to "Yes Sir, That's My Baby," went on to "Once Upon a Time." It's now back to "Curly."

Too Modest Maybe.

Too bad Dr. George Gallup can't take time out to act in "Heavenly Days." He's a right handsome looking gent. But if Bob Fellows can't find anybody who looks like him, why doesn't Bob play it himself? . . . Blanche Yurka and Bela Lugosi are practically cooing at each other in "One Body Too Many." . . . Whenever Edgar Buchanan finds an enthusiastic audience on tour, his opening crack is, "You folks must have been trained by Frank Sinatra!" . . . Myrna Loy quits her Red Cross job in New York long enough to come west for another "Thin Man." She's really coming. . . . That daily huddling of Preston Sturges and Frank Orsatti must mean a deal at Metro is in the offing.

Can't Do All.

'Twas smart of Metro dropping "They Were Expendable." 'Twas a wonderful story. But daily we're getting wonderful stories. That would be mighty old hat by the time it hit the screen. . . . Billy Gilbert, who's back from overseas, swears at a base in Northern Ireland the bugler plays "Murder, He Says" instead of the usual reveille to wake his men. . . . In New York Billy bumped into Slapsie [Maxie] Rosenbloom. They saw "Oklahoma!" and next night "Traviata." At the latter, Billy asked Maxie if he knew difference between the two productions. "Yep," said Maxie, "a musical comedy, I don't understand. An opera, we both don't understand."

Short Snorts.

June Haver plays the lead in "Irish Eyes Are Smiling." Bill Eythe will also be in it. . . . Fefe Ferri is getting himself into plenty of trouble calling his American friends Fascists. To a foreigner any one who doesn't back Roosevelt is a Fascist. . . . If there's a separation in the offing between Jean Arthur and her husband, Frank Ross, they don't know anything about it.

Quite a Team.

W. C. Fields, and Director S. Sylvan Simon are so lovey-dovey that members of "Song of the Open Road" company expect an explosion. Fields is a slow starter, but so speeded up in this, they're working together like a couple of trained seals. To me, Fields is one of the funniest guys in our business. . . . Pat Knowles, flight instructor at Mira Loma, wears a uniform that looks like army but isn't. The other day he stopped in a cafe before 5 p. m. and was refused a drink because of his uniform. A hard bitten Seabee listened to the argument and finally said, "Go ahead, give the guy a drink. He's nothin' but a bloomin' bus driver."

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1944: By Ely Culbertson.]

It is far more practical to defend intelligently against the actual contract than to waste time and energy mourning the fact that you did not outbid the opponents. For example:

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
North-South 40 on score.

NORTH.
♠ J 10 7
♥ 5 3
♦ K 10 9 7 6
♣ A 8 4

West
♠ 8 4 3
♥ Q 9 2
♦ J 5
♣ K 10 7 3 2

EAST.
♠ 2
♥ A K 7 5 4
♦ A Q 8 4 2
♣ Q 6

SOUTH.
♠ A K Q 9 6 5
♥ J 10 6
♦ 3
♣ J 9 5

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	2 spades	2 spades	3 diamonds
Pass	Pass	Double	3 hearts
Pass	Pass	3 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

East's bidding was shrewd. It will be observed that if he first mentioned his lower ranking diamond suit so that if he ran into trouble [as he did] he could bid his hearts at the same level, thus giving his partner the cheapest possible "choice." Actually, due to a perfect lay of cards, East probably could have made four hearts, but neither he nor West could foresee such a happy event.

Against the three spade contract West led the diamond jack. The king and ace covered, and East then cashed the ace and king of hearts, after which he made the good play of the club queen. Dummy's ace won, and the diamond ten was now led thru East. The latter, realizing that if he failed to cover declarer probably would get a valuable discard, properly sacrificed his queen, and declarer ruffed. The ace and a low trump were now led, and the diamond seven was finessed. At this juncture East undid all his good work; he doggedly covered with the eight. Declarer breathed a loud sigh of relief as he ruffed high, reëntered dummy with a trump [simultaneously drawing West's last trump], and made two discards on the nine and six of diamonds.

East's covering of the diamond seven was as bad as his covering of the ten was good. Obviously, declarer could not have let the seven go thru, because West would have ruffed.

Pupils Will Continue to Pay Cent for Milk Despite Rise in Cost

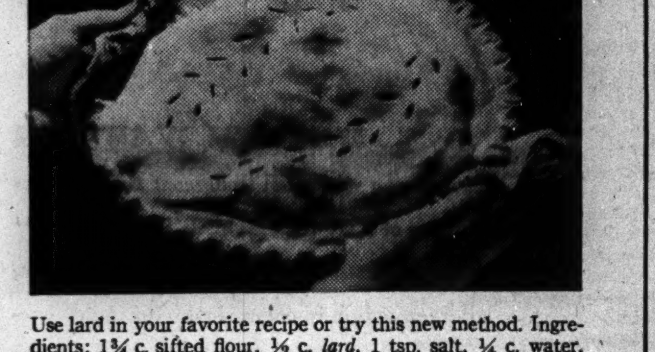
School children will continue to pay only a penny for their one-half pint of milk despite an increase in cost of the milk to the board of education. A boost of ¼ cent a bottle by the dairies, beginning Feb. 1, will bring the board's cost to 4 cents a half pint.

The board is subsidized in the distribution of penny milk, receiving 2 cents from the federal government and 1 cent a bottle from the state. This would enable the board to break even, but more than 7,000 half pints are given away free each day to pupils who cannot afford the penny.

School board officials estimated the pupils consumed approximately 650,000 gallons of penny milk each year. The price of bulk milk used by the schools also will go up the first of next month from 41½ cents a gallon to 44 cents. The new price increases still remain below ceiling prices.

LET'S HAVE THAT KOSTO AGAIN TONIGHT ...IT'S THE BEST BUTTERSCOTCH PUDDING YET

What a Pie Crust!



Use lard in your favorite recipe or try this new method. Ingredients: 1¾ c. sifted flour, ½ c. lard, 1 tsp. salt, ¼ c. water. With spoon, blend lard into about ½ c. of the flour, until dry particles are blended into one ball. Cut in rest of flour and salt, until particles stop getting smaller and start getting larger. Add all water at once and stir only until ball of dough is formed and bowl is clean. Divide into 2 balls. Roll each out separately on lightly floured board to ⅛ to 1/16-inch thickness.

USE LARD—save points, save money. Lard goes further—very high shortening power. Easy to use. Digestible. Pure, wholesome, rich in energy (more than 4000 calories per lb.)

Homemakers have two more little war time jobs to add to the list that includes preparing cans for salvage and turning in waste fats. These are saving waste paper, and saving soap.

Paper used to be a general nuisance around the average home. Newspapers, magazines, sacks, advertisments and other kinds of paper collected so fast that they had to be burned frequently in many homes. Now all of these same kinds of paper are badly needed to make such things as shipping containers for military supplies, targets, war posters, camouflage paper, blood plasma containers. Many of our paper mills are shut down for lack of waste paper, when they should be running at capacity in order to supply overseas and home requirements.

Fold your old newspapers flat to prepare them for salvage, and tie them in bundles about 12 inches high.

Tie magazines and books in bundles about 18 inches high. Flatten cartons and boxes and tie them in 12 inch high bundles. Pack envelopes and wrappers in compressed, easy-to-carry bundles.

And save soap. Use it down to the last scrap. Scraps of soap may be melted in water to be used in liquid form. Bar soap should not be left standing in water. Only enough suds to do a good job of dish or clothes washing should be used. There are many little ways in which a woman can economize on soap without sacrificing cleanliness. Soap scraps aren't going to be collected, but materials which go into soaps are vital and not too plentiful when war time demands upon them are so great.

Increasing thiamin in the diet of a child may increase his learning ability, according to recent experiments with school children. That seems logical, in view of the fact that thiamin is known to have such a great effect upon appetite, growth in children, and general well being. Meats, eggs, whole grains, beans, peas, and peanuts are the best sources of thiamin.

Science has proved that pork yields more thiamin when the pig which produces it has been fed a thiamin rich diet. The problem of producing healthy men and women seems to start with raising healthy pigs, dairy cattle, and chickens.

Women in War Work

By Kate Massee

Capt. Mildred H. McAfee, national director of the WAVES, yesterday formally accepted for the women's reserve, at an outdoor ceremony at 11:15 a. m., the new "walk-in" recruiting quarters at 138 South Michigan avenue. The presentation was made by James Cunningham, vice president of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, which provided the room.

In her dedicatory talk, Capt. McAfee, who is inspecting WAVES activities in the 9th naval district, said: "The navy is coming freely and frankly to the women of Chicago to tell them it needs them. The thousands of WAVES already in service have proved women's efficiency in navy jobs ashore."

Lt. Margaret Harding Cecil, senior WAVES recruiting officer in the district, administered the navy oath to 28 new recruits, who will leave soon for basic training at the WAVES' indoctrination school, Hunter college, New York City.

Another speaker at the dedication ceremonies was Robert Mathias of Decatur, Ill., radio technician 1st class and a veteran of north Atlantic convoy duty, who welcomed the new recruits "aboard" and told them the importance of their navy duty.

Other naval personnel present at the dedication were Capt. E. S. Root, director of officer procurement for the district; Lt. Comdr. John L. Clarkson, executive officer of procurement, and Lt. Comdr. Edison B. Dick, procurement officer. Several WAVES recruiting specialists, headed by Lt. [j. g.] Miriam Ransburg, formed an honor guard for the recruits.

The "walk-in" recruiting and information office is in addition to the permanent headquarters in room 300, Board of Trade building. Prospective enlistees visiting the office at 138 South Michigan may be processed completely there except for physical examinations.

Mrs. Edward J. Kelly, wife of the mayor and most active sponsor of the service men's centers, announced yesterday that sleeping quarters for women in uniform are being installed at center No. 2, 430 South Michigan avenue, and will be ready for occupancy Jan. 29.

"The army and navy have requested us to offer this additional service to women in uniform," Mrs. Kelly said. "Because Chicago is a railroad terminal many service women transferring here are forced to spend the night and have difficulty finding hotel accommodations."

The quarters, on the fifth floor of the former Auditorium hotel, now are being redecorated and equipped with 100 cots, four to a room, complete with bedding. The walls are being painted white and the linoleum floors will be red. A full length mirror in each of the eight washrooms will find favor with uniformed women, who must be meticulous in their grooming.

A feminine room clerk will be in attendance at the quarters at all hours. Valuables will be checked at the desk in sealed envelopes. Soap and towels will be provided, and there will be convenient switchboard service to awaken the women at hours they specify.

Added services for WACs, WAVES, SPARS, and marine corps women will include a self-service laundry and a restful lounge.

A dinner sponsored by the citizens' food committee and the Lake Forest office of civilian defense will be held at 6:30 p. m. next Tuesday in the First Presbyterian church of the suburb. Dr. F. W. Mueller, price coördinator of the Chicago metropolitan office of price administration, will discuss the consumers' role in making price control successful. Mayor Charles F. Clarke will preside.

Dinner arrangements are being made by Mrs. Gordon Kelley. Representatives of various organizations in Lake Forest have been invited to attend.

Actors Group Revives Prize Play Capably

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

The Actors company regained some of its lost stature last night when Minnie Galatzer staged a revival of the late Sidney Howard's Pulitzer prize play, "They Knew What They Wanted." At least, a good play came alive on the Forester stage, and Art Kassel's son, who adds a junior to the name, turned out to be at home behind the footlights, with instinctive qualities of concentration and timing, and with the indefinable gift of interesting an audience which can make him an actor if he cares to work at being one. This was not a bad haul for a local group organized to discover and display local talent.

It would have been a fine thing to discover a local playwright, too, but the company tried that earlier this season with a piece all too candidly called "Out of This World." Considering the results, you can hardly blame Miss Galatzer for soothing burned fingers in the balm of a prize play that won its laurels fairly. She wanted something dependable, and she got it.

For all its dated talk about the "wobblies," the I. W. W. group so much in the news 19 years ago, "They Knew What They Wanted" remains a lusty and sinewy play of precisely that—of an old man who wanted a pretty wife and a baby, a girl who wanted security, and a young man with an itching foot who wanted freedom. Their triangle solves in three equal sides, with cynical simplicity, and with a touch of rue if the romantic insist on taking those backward glances to heart.

If you know the play, you must have spotted this production's weakness in the first paragraph. The central figure ought not to be Joe, the attractive vagabond, but Tony, the kindly old Italian who gets a mail order bride by sending her Joe's picture, and keeps her by claiming Joe's baby. Tony was etched forever in theater memory when Richard Bennett created the role, and I am told Charles Laughton did a brilliant job in the movie, which I missed. But Joseph Mell, with the maladroit aid of Miss Galatzer's direction, makes him a maudlin, almost a slobbering bore, all phony accent and Max Factor suntan.

Yet this major flaw, a veritable chunk out of the play's foundation, can not destroy its strength. It holds up by the skill of a craftsman who had something to say in theater, and should still be saying it, save for the tragedy of a tractor left in gear. It is helped by young Mr. Kassel's conviction, by Ann Benak's crude but honest performance, by Richard Thorne's straightforward doctor, and by Dan Hauf's consistent playing, tho Mr. Hauf looks, speaks, and acts more like a broken down pug than a priest.

Sally Seeks Aid for 3 Families on South Side

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

If any of the south side readers have items of living room furniture, rugs, dishes, or silverware, a social agency would be glad to have them for a young family just attempting to establish a home. The family consists of a young mother, a father in the service, and a baby 6 months old. They are moving from unsuitable quarters to a partly furnished apartment, but have no means of obtaining the above mentioned needs. The baby is also in need of a high chair. The agency will arrange transportation on any offers.

The M. family, also on the south side, needs assistance. The father is working, but his salary is small and does not cover more than rent and food. The mother has been ill, and large expenses were incurred during that period. There are boys, 11, 8, and 3 years and one of 3 months, and a girl 6 years old. All of them are in need of clothing. Mrs. M. is now under clinic care and will appreciate south side offers.

Boys, 11 and 12, in the B. family are in need of clothing. The mother is ill and unable to work. The father's earnings have been insufficient for all needs. This family is also located on the south side.

Segovia Finds the Full Beauty of the Guitar

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG.

Beauty, they say, is where you find it, and it remained for Andres Segovia to discover for this generation beauty in the lowly guitar. Lest this provoke a chorus of complaints, let it be said that we are aware that the guitar has a long and honorable history, that Bach wrote for its equivalent, that Berlioz and Paganini not only composed for the instrument, but the latter even gave up the violin for a time to devote himself to the guitar. Nevertheless, who except Segovia would you care to hear play on a guitar for an entire evening?

The trouble with a Segovia recital, however, is that the evening is not long enough. In the six years that have elapsed since the great Spaniard played here last nothing important about him has changed. He still looks like a successful Schubert, he still comes out carrying a huge square of chamois, he still parks his left foot on a bootblack's rest. Last night at the 8th Street theater it took two entrances and considerable manipulation of the lights to get him going, but once on his way he played like an angel.

Within the narrow limits of the tintinnabulations of Segovia's guitar lies a whole world of music, an exotic dream world that ravages the senses and flatters the intellect. The whole of knighthood and chivalry passes in dreamlike pageant when he plays the 16th and 17th century music of Luis Milan and the two Scarlattis. His Bach is not a sturdy German burgher, but a weaver of spider web tapestries. Incidentally, the Bach Prelude, Fugue, and Gavotte which sounded so unfamiliar described by the program as originally written for the lute turned out to be old friends: the C major Prelude which stands at the portals of the Well Tempered Clavichord, the fugue from the G minor violin sonata, and the gavotte from the sixth violin sonata.

There was an immediate encore, a set of variations by the great Spanish guitarist of the 19th century, Ferdinand Sor, which, one judged, put the instrument thru its classic paces.

But Segovia is too great to stamp himself as of a period and the next two compositions, dedicated to the artist, displayed the guitar in modern dress, evoking subtle colors and disporting itself to insinuating rhythms. Torroba's Sonatina is rather frankly an occasional piece, tho not without interest, and while the same may be said of Castelnuovo-Tedesco's Tarantella, as a bit of elusive virtuosity it lingers long in the ear. But what really haunts us yet was the subsequent unknown encore, a fragment of poetic folklore which glowed and simmered with dark, mysterious beauty.

Just One Adult in Home Should Correct Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

In these days of small families, there's a prevalent problem which, as far as we know, did not exist a generation or two ago. It frequently happens that there will be an only child who is closely surrounded in rather small quarters by a number of grownups. However, the households of two generations ago often were made up of aunts and uncles, grandmother and grandfather. So then, too, there were a lot of adults impinging upon a child's life.

One of the hardest things for a household full of grown people to do is to keep hands off when a child needs correcting. Children are long suffering. Think how often everybody will jump on a child for some offense, a slight mistake or awkwardness.

I can't imagine many adults standing for a calling down from everybody in sight whenever we knocked over a cup of coffee, or interrupted some one who was talking.

If a child has to be corrected, let one person do it. The others should keep still. If a child, be he little or big, has to be directed in his work or play, let one person do it. And not only let that one person start it but let him carry it thru.

When the little girl at the table, for instance, is corrected by first this person and then that about her table manners, all eyes turn to her. This isn't wise or fair. Children have so much to learn that it's hard for them at best.

We shouldn't dream of acting that way with other grownups. If any one at the table spills something on the cloth or knocks over a glass of water we don't notice it, or we pass it over casually. We don't band together to criticize and correct in this or in other ways, either.

I think some of this grownup kind of consideration and courtesy would make children's lives easier.

Convalescent Homes Ask Relief; Say City's Rules Are Oppressive

The building code and other city regulations affecting nursing and convalescent homes are so oppressive that unless relief is obtained they will be forced out of business, Russell McKay, president of the Chicago Foundation of Convalescent and Nursing Homes, said last night.

Mr. McKay presided at a meeting of 20 home owners at Kimball hall at which grievances against regulations were aired. He said that altho the homes have comparatively few patients they are obliged to maintain the same standards as large hospitals and institutions and submit to regular inspections by 8 or 10 agencies.

CHEF'S DELIGHT—BRAISED OXJOINTS

And they were likewise the delight of all who ordered them at Rector's, for our chef took greatest joy in making these simple dishes delectable. Every home in the land should learn how delicious this unpretentious dish can be.

BRAISED OXJOINTS

To braise means simply to brown in a small amount of hot fat, then add a small amount of water or bouillon, cover and simmer until tender, adding more water when needed. You'll get the finest flavor if you brown the oxjoints in drippings from Wilson's Certified Bacon. Season with salt and pepper as desired immediately after browning. If you like, you may add a bay leaf at this point.

Don't rush the cooking. Let the liquid smile—not laugh—for 3 to 3½ hours, and you'll be well rewarded for your patience.

The meat will practically drop off the bone and the flavor will be marvelous. About ½ hour before oxjoints are done, add boiling water to bring amount up to about 2 cups, add vegetables and continue cooking until they are tender. Potatoes, carrots, celery and onion are favorites of mine. Thicken gravy and serve it separately.

One oxjoint, weighing 2 lbs., will serve 3 generously.

• • •

B-V for Extra Meat Flavor

The chef at Rector's always cooked the browned oxjoints in bouillon instead of water. You'll get the same tasty results if you add a teaspoon of Wilson's B-V to the water in which you cook them. As usual, dissolve the B-V in a tablespoon of boiling water before adding.

It's amazing how often Wilson's B-V helps improve the flavor of your main dish! Have you learned to keep it handy . . . right next to your pepper and salt?

There's no more delectable accompaniment to braised oxjoints than good crusty corn bread—baked in a thin sheet in a shallow pan. Here's my favorite recipe:

Corn Bread

1 cup flour
3 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt
1 cup cornmeal
1 cup milk
1 egg, beaten
4 tbsp. Bake-Rite Shortening, melted

Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. Add cornmeal and mix. Combine milk, egg and fat. Pour into well-oiled shallow pan (about 8 by 12 inches) and bake in a hot oven, 425° F., about 20 minutes.

Your reputation as a good cook is made if you serve the corn bread hot out of the oven with generous amounts of Wilson's Certified Margarine. You'll find it so mild and sweet you'll wonder why you haven't been using it all these years!

Sincerely yours,
George Rector

WALLACE PAPER ARTICLE EVOKES KENTUCKY RAGE

Iowa Farm Labor Survey Branded Insult.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 19 (AP).—An article subtitled "Kentuckians or Japs?" from Wallace's Farmer, an Iowa farm magazine formerly edited by Vice President Wallace, was presented today to a joint legislative appropriations committee by an angry group representing vocational agriculture in Kentucky.

J. O. Matlick, editor of the Kentucky Farmers' Home Journal, read passages from the article and declared telegrams of protest were being prepared for dispatch to Wallace, Kentucky senators and representatives in Washington, and to other officials.

The article was published after a survey to determine whether Iowa farmers would want Japanese-Americans brought in from the west and Kentuckians brought in from the hill sections to relieve a labor shortage.

38 Per Cent Reply "No."

Matlick termed the article an insult, referring to a passage in which results of the survey showed 38 per cent of those interviewed answered "No" to the question: "If 40 families from the hill counties of Kentucky could be brought into your county to take jobs, would you favor such action?"

"That means 38 per cent of them don't want Kentuckians in Iowa," Matlick said.

Some typical comments in the article were:

"Let's give our American born Japs a chance. They are more like us."

"If a local committee could pick the Kentucky farmers to do the jobs, they might work out all right."

"Doesn't Like Kentuckians."

"I don't trust the Japs, and I don't like Kentuckians. It seems we can manage if we get a little more machinery."

"Japs couldn't be satisfied here. Our ways are too different. Kentuckians would blend completely with us in another generation."

"With a little more patience on our side we can teach the Kentuckians about Iowa farming. They may be mighty willing to learn."

A tabulation of answers showed 40 per cent of the Iowa farm men would prefer workers from the hill counties of Kentucky to 10 per cent in favor of Japanese-Americans.

Crop Differences Cited.

J. E. Stanford, executive secretary of the Kentucky Farm Bureau federation, observed that "Iowans coming into Kentucky would know no more about raising tobacco than our eastern Kentucky mountain farmers would know about raising their crops."

The article was presented to the appropriations committee in an appeal for more funds to promote vocational education, including vocational agriculture, in Kentucky.

There was no immediate reaction from members of the committee.

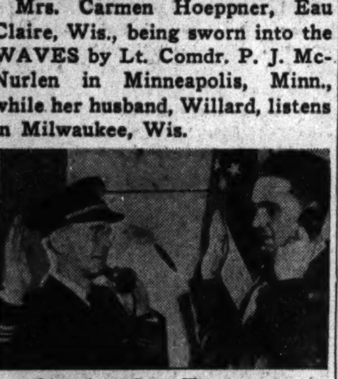
Mrs. Carmen Hoeppner, Eau Claire, Wis., being sworn into the WAVES by Lt. Comdr. P. J. McNurlen in Minneapolis, Minn., while her husband, Willard, listens in Milwaukee, Wis.



[Associated Press Wirephotos.]

Willard Hoeppner, after hearing his wife join WAVES in Minneapolis, takes navy oath in Milwaukee administered by Lt. Comdr. Gerald Ellick. Mrs. Hoeppner listened.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 19 (AP).—Willard Hoeppner, 31 years old, and his wife, Carmen, 26, of Eau Claire, Wis., were sworn into the navy at the same time yesterday but they were 300 miles apart.

Willard took the oath in Milwaukee from Lt. Comdr. Gerald C. Ellick and became a radio technician, first class. Carmen was sworn in at Minneapolis and became a WAVE.

The Minneapolis office of naval officer procurement has jurisdiction over Eau Claire for WAVES and the Milwaukee office naval recruiting service has jurisdiction for men. A long distance telephone hookup enabled the couple to hear each other being sworn in.

ZILLER TO GET NEW TRIAL IN PEORIA COUNTY

Bloomington, Ill., Jan. 19 (AP).—Circuit Judge William C. Radliff today granted big George W. Ziller a venue change to Peoria county for trial in three charges of operating a confidence game. State's Attorney Clifford N. Coolidge said the date of the trial would be decided in the new jurisdiction.

Ziller, of Weston and Springfield, first was indicted in May, 1942, on charges growing out of the alleged sale of ordnance plant jobs in the Joliet region. These charges later were dismissed, and Ziller was indicted again last May.

In court today Ziller asked the venue change on the grounds that McLean county residents had been prejudiced against him by newspaper articles and statements by Atty. Gen. George F. Barrett.

BOY BURNED TO DEATH.

A 3 year old Negro boy was burned to death and his sister, 5 years old, was critically burned yesterday in a fire in the bedroom of their home at 3562 State street. They are the children of Mrs. Juanita Hawkins, who was reported to have been away at work.

COP SUSPENDED AND BOOKED FOR ASSAULTS ON 4

George Peterman, 35 years old, suspended Chicago Lawn policeman, accused of attempting to rape a woman who had accompanied him on a drinking spree and beating three motorists, was booked by South Holland police last night on her complaint and three other charges of assault.

Peterman, who has been a Chicago policeman eight years and who served two months as a county highway policeman in 1929, will be arraigned this morning before Justice of the Peace Jacob P. De Young in Harvey. He was stripped of his shield after Supervising Capt. Andrew Barry completed a preliminary investigation into his alleged reign of terror.

Attacked in Car, She Says.

Miss Rose Reidy, 27, of 6118 Morgan street, who said she met Peterman in a tavern at 61st and Halsted streets in the afternoon and agreed to accompany him, said she was assaulted in Peterman's automobile at 159th street and the Grand Trunk Railway tracks.

She said he became infuriated when she resisted his advances and struck her several times with his revolver. When a freight train blocked the crossing, Miss Reidy jumped out of Peterman's car and ran to a car nearby, beseeching the driver, Kenneth Dailey, 26, of 228 East 157th street, Harvey, to drive her back to Chicago. She said Peterman ran up behind her and struck Dailey with the revolver, smashing his glasses.

Second Man Reported Hit.

The policeman, it was reported, also struck Harry Bolen, also of Harvey, who was with Dailey.

Peterman, it was charged, stopped the next car that appeared and struck Henry Amptmeyer, 1443 Sheffield avenue, Dolton, the driver, before Miss Reidy could ask his help.

Sgt. Hiram Van Der Bilt and Policeman John Moulder of South Holland reached the scene and disarmed Peterman. They said he had threatened them and that they had been told he had fired at several passing cars before they arrived.

Peterman is married. His wife, Eleanor, 27, accompanied him when he appeared before Justice De Young yesterday on a disorderly conduct charge before the other complaints had been signed. The case was continued to permit him to hire an attorney.

Evanston Jury Orders Autoist Held in Death

Mike Michelau, 36 years old, 7226 North Bell avenue, was ordered held to the grand jury yesterday by a coroner's jury in Evanston on a charge of manslaughter. The charge grew out of the death of William Curtin, 65, of 3051 Medill avenue, who was struck by an automobile Tuesday night. Curtin, a watchman at the Main street crossing in Evanston of the Mayfair division of the North Western railroad, was struck as he stood near the tracks. Michelau also faces a charge of leaving the scene of an accident, filed by Evanston police.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with queries.]

G. T. J. writes: "I am a graduate research chemical engineer. Previous to my present employment, I was utilizing my training and skill to the highest degree. However, this firm converted its plant and facilities and there was no place for me in their new activities so I went to work in a defense plant. My new employer filed for my deferment on the basis of my training and experience and deferment was granted. For the last several months, however, I have only been doing semi-skilled work in an assembly line and I am thoroughly disgusted. My employer refuses to grant me a certificate of availability so that I may go elsewhere and really make my services count in the war effort. Further, he has told me that if I quit, he will talk to my draft board and have me put in the army in spite of . . . and high water. Isn't there any way out of this situation?

ANSWER: As long as your employer has refused to release you for other work where your training and experience can be utilized to the highest degree, your next step is to apply to the United States Employment service for a hearing before the war man power commission board and get your certificate of availability that way. Chemists are included in the list of critical occupations, and persons whose skill and training is not being utilized to the highest degree by their present employers always may appeal to the USES and WMC for a "determination." Local board memorandum 115-B provides for referral to the USES and a 30 day period for the USES to place the registrant, during which time the local board may not issue form 150 [order to report for induction]. When the USES succeeds in placing the registrant, the new employer is given 10 days in which to file Form 42-A with the local board for the continued deferment of the registrant.

C. E. S. writes: "I am a Canadian in the United States army and want to transfer to the Canadian forces. I have not been able to find out how a transfer is accomplished or if it is possible. Is it possible?"

ANSWER: A letter from the war department on the subject states: "The United States and Canadian governments have entered into a reciprocal transfer agreement whereby the nationals of one country serving in the armed forces of the other, who desire service with the armed forces of their own country, may apply for transfer to those forces." Application is made thru channels to the Headquarters, Inter-Allied Personnel board, Room 4B-853, Pentagon building, Washington 25, D. C.

G. D. asks: "Will this mustering out pay be taxable and subject to garnishment?"

ANSWER: It is apparent that congress will write into the bill some form of an exclusion clause relieving such money from taxation and attachment.

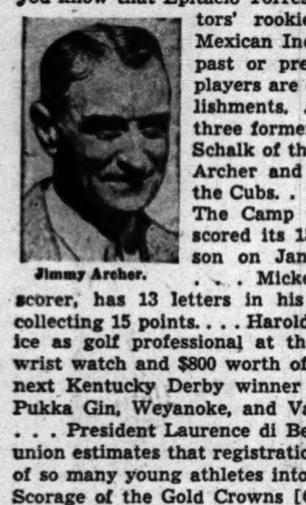
C. Y. O. BOXERS PASS GOLDEN GLOVES TESTS

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

ALTHO all the record books show Fritzie Zivic began his ring career in 1931, the busy Pittsburgher claims it started two years earlier. . . . Lt. Bill Hitchcock, the former Tiger shortstop, has been transferred by the army air force to Greenville, S. C., which is Joe Jackson's home town. . . . Joe Cambria, the Washington scout, will have you know that Epitacio Torres is not a Cuban, like so many of the Senators' rookies. . . . Epitacio is a Mexican Indian. . . . Twenty-eight past or present major league ballplayers are operating bowling establishments. . . . The list includes three former Chicago catchers—Ray Schalk of the White Sox and Jimmy Archer and Bob O'Farrell, both of the Cubs. . . . Add sports oddities: The Camp Grant basketball squad scored its 13th triumph of the season on Jan. 13, using 13 players. . . . Mickey Rottner, the leading scorer, has 13 letters in his name, but Mick spoiled the continuity by collecting 15 points. . . . Harold Lee, who has completed 21 years of service as golf professional at the New Orleans Country club, received a wrist watch and $800 worth of war bonds from the members. . . . The next Kentucky Derby winner might come out of New Orleans, where Pukka Gin, Weyanoke, and Valdina Zenith are in training this winter. . . . President Laurence di Benedetto of the National Amateur Athletic union estimates that registrations have dropped 50,000 due to the entrance of so many young athletes into service since the war started. . . . Mary Scorage of the Gold Crowns [Chicago] softball team pitched four no-hit games in 1943. . . . The report about Marchy Schwartz having left Stanford to accept a position with a Wichita oil concern was premature. . . . Schwartz has decided to stay in Palo Alto and await the return of football. . . .



Jimmy Archer.

Fritzie Zivic.

George Payne, chairman of the California horse racing commission, is the new owner of the Maryville Appeal-Democrat. . . . George McDonald, nationally known blind bowler, has opened a one-man campaign for blood donors in the San Francisco area, his goal 5,000 pints. . . . The Browns are insisting that their pudgy outfielder, Mike Chartak, lop off 37 pounds before allowing him to sign a 1944 contract. . . . That would make Mike an even 200 pounds. . . . Eddie Kolker, trainer of the De Paul basketball team, owns a restaurant near the north side campus. . . . In 1901, its first season, the American league drew 1,658,000 fans and the 1902 guide reports that five clubs made money, two suffered deficits, and one broke even. . . . National league attendance that season was 1,857,000. . . . Officials of the new circuit felt so good over the showing they increased the admission charge to 25 cents for general admission, 50 cents for pavilion seats, and 75 cents for the grandstand. . . . Referring again to the official guide, we find: "The tariff was increased on the grounds that the American league now has more star players and can furnish a better brand of baseball than the National."

STARS OF CLUB TOURNAMENT BID FOR TITLES

Second Exams Set for Monday.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Members of the Catholic Youth organization's boxing squad went thru their preliminary Golden Gloves physical examinations last night for the campaign in which they hope to regain the city team championship in the Chicago finals in Marigold Gardens Feb. 14. Fifty-one C. Y. O. boys, approximately evenly divided between the open and novice classes, successfully passed their exams in the gym at 31 East Congress street.

Other C. Y. O. boxers will report Monday night. More than 250 amateurs have received instructions for these medical tests. Last night's group was divided between the south sectional trials at St. Sabina, 78th street and Racine avenue, and the north side tournament at Loyola university gymnasium. Winners from these tournaments will fight in the Marigold finals.

Former Champions Return.

In last night's group were three 1943 C. Y. O. open division champions who won their titles last November. They are Joe Lindsay, heavyweight; Collins Brown, middleweight; and Jimmy Sarenella, flyweight. Brown lost the Chicago Golden Gloves championship in the south side finals last year when he was beaten by Reedy Evans. Evans went on to win the Tournament of Champions and his intercity match against New York. On this record he naturally is a strong contender for the city title Feb. 14 and must be regarded as a possibility for a diamond studded golden glove in the Tournament of Champions in the Stadium.

Another outstanding C. Y. O. middleweight is Joe Dugo, who, until this year, has fought as welterweight. Pete De Simone is seeking the city Golden Gloves featherweight title. Altho he is 1-A in the draft he believes he still has the opportunity to take a golden glove with him when he enters the service.

Lee to South Side.

Abe Lee, Chinese lightweight who is a student at St. Rita High school, was assigned to the south side tournament at St. Sabina which opens Jan. 31. William Stewart, a rangy welterweight, also qualified last night and then worked out in the gym with Lee.

The medical examinations were conducted by Dr. William Rothman, Dr. Edward Rategan, and Dr. J. Y. Russell. Other members of The Tribune A. A. who handled the candidates were:

Harry Berz, Arthur Dalton, George Schwartz, Ed Schwartz, Bert Cowdrey, Arthur Schroeder, Mike Kraemer, Joe Miller, John Gunderson, Otis Taylor, Joe Beran, Tom Conlin, William Henrichs, Joe Allen, Jimmy Knize, and Jim Toman.

Deadline Is Monday.

The Central association of the A. A. U., which sanctions the Golden Gloves tournaments, was represented by Capt. Roy E. Davis, chairman of the boxing committee, and Edwin Parkes, Paul Staff, Douglas Warnes, and Maurice Wolf.

Amateur boxers may file entry for the Golden Gloves sectional matches until midnight Monday.

Runs Lead Over Cochran to 145 Points.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 19 (AP).—Willie Hoppe, world's three cushion billiards champion, continued the sweep of his Detroit meeting with Welker Cochran, former champion, thru a sixth consecutive block tonight, winning, 50 to 35, in 32 innings.

Hoppe had a high run of 11 and clusters of six in two other innings, winding up the block in 45 minutes. The best previous game of the cross-country, nontitle match was a 38 inning affair in Chicago which Cochran won, 50 to 40.

The champion won this afternoon's block, 50 to 42, in 43 innings. The day's blocks brought the match totals to 1,550 for Hoppe and 1,405 for Cochran.

Jim Bagby.

The tall right handed pitcher, who won 17 games for the Cleveland Indians in 1943, today revived a long-standing tiff with Boudreau, manager of the tempestuous outfit.

"I just don't believe he and I ever can get along on the same ball club," said Bagby in a letter to Ed McAuley, sports writer.

In off season employment as a tool designer for an aircraft plant in Marietta, Ga., Bagby reiterated his hope for a trade to another club.

"Boudreau does not like me and I don't care for him," Bagby wrote. "The best thing Cleveland can do is trade me. Where? Anywhere."

Bagby's feud with Boudreau dates from last September, when he aired his views on an episode which occurred in Washington, and asked his immediate trade.

Jim said Boudreau fined him $100 for not taking a warmup run before a night game, "where, as a matter of fact, I had done my running before Boudreau reached the park."

Boudreau, at the time, said Bagby was out of condition and remarked, "Jim and I don't see eye-to-eye on some things."

Irish Quintet Hopes to Get Even with N.U.

When Marquette university's basketball team whipped Camp Grant Tuesday night it underscored the contention that the double header program in the Stadium tomorrow night will be the best of the season. The Warriors previously had been undefeated and Marquette's 46 to 38 victory stamps the Hilltoppers as a threat tomorrow to De Paul, which won 13 games before losing last week to Valparaiso.

Notre Dame and Northwestern open tomorrow's double header and they always put on a battle. While the Wildcats soundly trounced Notre Dame in the first of the series, a revised Irish lineup is bound by Coach Ed Krause's promise that this return engagement will be more closely fought. Indeed, the Notre Dame boys have high hope of toppling the unbeaten Western conference coleaders.

Irish Hope to Get Even.

Notre Dame has two reasons to believe it will perform better against Northwestern tomorrow night than in the first game. Carl Loyd, a freshman, has won the forward position opposite Leo Klier and Loyd's performance has stimulated the attack. Johnny Lujack, altho he played guard in the first game, has improved in his offensive work and has been averaging three field goals a game. Lujack always was highly regarded for his brilliant defensive play.

Mike Todorovich and Bernie Rutledge complete the Notre Dame starting team, which has won three of its last five games. Wisconsin defeated the Irish, 47 to 45, and Kentucky took the other game, 55 to 54.

Northwestern will start the same five men who have won three conference games. Since the first game with the Irish, Johnny Ward, sophomore forward, has clinched a starting assignment. Capt. Otto Graham lines up at the other forward position, but he actually plays in the center position for Northwestern's floor attack with Center George Felt working from a corner to take passes from the ball handling guards, Bernie Schadler and Jerry Carle.

Scoring Well Distributed.

The Wildcats have had balanced scoring in their conference victories and they also should have an advantage over Notre Dame in reserve material. Among the players who may see action as reserves are Nick Vodick, Ronnie Schumacher, and Duane Sickels. The latter, like Schadler, comes from Benton Harbor, Mich., and they have teamed together in football and basketball since grade school days.

Marquette notched its triumph over Camp Grant's previously unbeaten team without making a substitution. The Hilltopper five is composed of Howard Kallenberger and Ed Sadowski, forwards; Bill Downey, 6 foot 6 inch center, and Charles Polzin and Bill Chandler Jr., guards. Sadowski and Chandler each collected three personal fouls in the game, one short of elimination.

Try New Foul Rule.

Marquette and De Paul will use a new foul rule tomorrow night. In event of a fourth personal, the player will be retired to the bench for three minutes' playing time and then he may be substituted. Each additional foul then will be penalized by a three minute retirement.

WIEBE, ALLEN TO HELP HAWKS IN RED WING GAME

Team at Full Strength for Battle Tonight.

Seek Revenge

CHICAGO.		DETROIT.
Karakas	G	Dion
Seibert	L.D.	Hollett
Wiebe	R. D.	Jackson
Smith	C.	Howe
Mosienko	R.W.	Bruneteau
Bentley	L.W.	Liscombe

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Chicago Blackhawks, penned in fifth place in the National Hockey league, tonight will face the team that recently usurped fourth place—the Detroit Red Wings. And to make the Stanley Cup problem more harrowing, the game will be played on the Detroit rink, where the Hawks haven't won a match since March 15, 1940.

The Hawks figure to be stronger tonight than at any time this season—but the Red Wings came to life last week-end and chilled off the second place Toronto Maple Leafs in two games. So the Hawks were making no claims as they took off on their one game trip last night.

They will be stronger because their cast will include not only Mike Karakas, who has revitalized the team with his goal tending, but because Defenseman Art Wiebe will be playing his first game of the season and the versatile George Allen will be back after being in drydock as a result of injuries suffered Jan. 1.

Connie Is Little, But—.

A stubby gent named Connie Dion, only 5 feet 5 inches tall, is said to be the main reason for the sudden surge of the Red Wings. Dion, recently discharged from the Canadian army, was given a tryout recently as the Wings' road goalie. Known as the "Asbestos Kid," because he hails from Asbestos, Que., Dion became so hot that Manager Jack Adams decided to use him for both road and home games, at least until he cools off.

Making the highly urgent task of beating the Wings more difficult, beyond the spectacular discovery of Dion, is the play of Flash Hollett, obtained from Boston not so long ago. Then there's the return of Murray Armstrong, discharged from the Canadian army two weeks ago. Still another factor is Adam Brown, who made five goals last week in the games in which the Wings tied the Canadiens and beat Toronto twice in a span of four consecutive nights.

It's the Rubber Game.

Tonight's clash will be the fifth between the teams this season. The Hawks have won two games here, 4 to 8, and 7 to 1, and the Wings have taken the two matches in Detroit, 5 to 2, and 4 to 2.

Each team has played 27 games this season, and each has won 11. However, the Wings are two games, or four points, ahead of the Hawks because they have played five ties. The Hawks were involved in their only tie of the season last Sunday night when they held the Canadiens to a 1-all deadlock. The Hawks have scored 100 goals to 97 registered by Detroit. The Chicago line, composed of Bill Mosienko, Clint Smith, and Doug Bently, has scored exactly half the Hawks' goal total.

After tonight's game the Hawks will return to Chicago to prepare for their meeting with the Toronto Maple Leafs in Chicago Stadium Sunday night.

Bob Kidd, with 12 points, and Glenn Neiswander, with 10, led the Tech attack, while Paul Lohr and Howard Schneider headed Concordia's offense with 13 and 12 points, respectively. Tech led at half time, 29 to 24.

AUSTIN DEFEATS MEDILL, 86 TO 52, IN CITY LEAGUE

Mann Tallies 35 Points for Victors.

Bill Mann's 35 points sparked Austin to an 86 to 52 rout of Medill yesterday afternoon in a west section senior basketball game of the City league. This was the third straight conference victory for Austin and kept it in a tie with Wells for first place as Marshall dropped its share of the lead by yielding to Crane, 44 to 32, for its first defeat in three league appearances.

Kelvyn Park, defending City league champion, dealt McKinley its third consecutive defeat, 36 to 25, in the other contest of the section.

Von Steuben Wins Two.

Von Steuben won its customary double header in the north section, the juniors sweeping to their fifth straight triumph, 50 to 25, over Sullivan and the seniors administering the same opponent its fourth loss in a row while gaining a 37 to 13 verdict for its fourth victory in five attempts.

Another junior-senior combination in the same section netted the little men of Lake View their first victory in three starts, 57 to 29, from Roosevelt, altho the latter balanced the account in the senior contest by handing the Ashland avenue five its third straight setback, 46 to 39.

Farragut Beats Phillips.

All activity in the central section concerned the seniors, with Farragut moving out in front with a thrilling 27 to 25 overtime conquest of previously undefeated Phillips as Gage Park was eliminated from the unbeaten by Tilden, 28 to 24, Lindblom remained in the running by winning its second straight, 29 to 25, in slipping Du Sable its third consecutive loss.

The only other game of the day was in the same section and furnished Kelly the opportunity to escape the cellar in winning its first of the year, 42 to 24, from Dunbar.

Joe Pacourek Bowls 300 in Cinderella League

Altho his bowling team is firmly entrenched in the cellar spot in the Cinderella House league, Joe Pacourek, lead-off man for the Hartless Linen Supply team, last night hit the top when he joined Chicagoland's select 300 club. Pacourek started his series in calm enough manner, with 161 in the first game, came back with 201, and then wound up with his perfect score for a 662 total. He carries an average of 176 in the league. Sparked by Pacourek's scoring, the team won three games for the first time in several weeks.

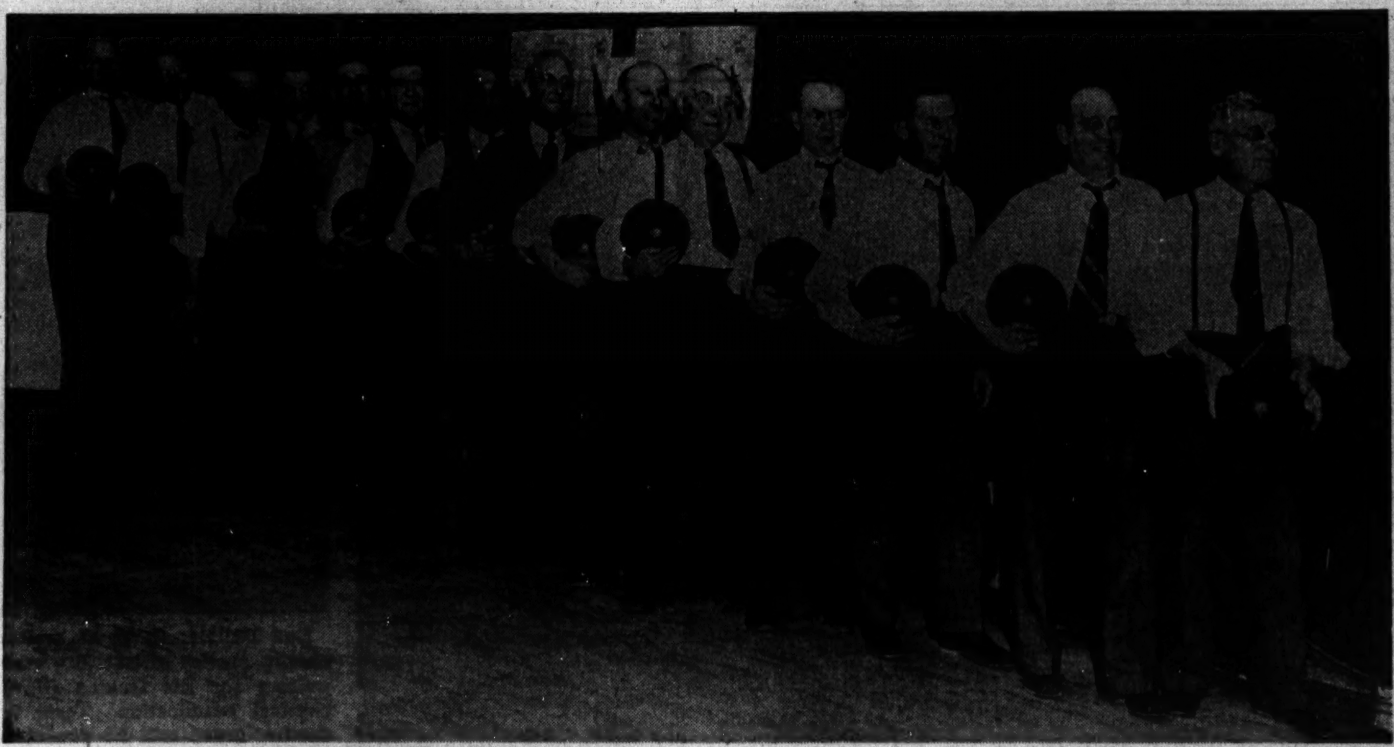
MEET THE INDIANS AT ARCHER AND 35TH



They call themselves the North American Indians and they take the warpath at the 35th-Archer Recreation every Tuesday evening to mow down the pins. They've been doing it for 20 years and they expect to do it for another 20. Left to right: Henry W. Friedrichs, Dan Speidel, John Reuther, Dr. Walter Szok, Leon Glow, Phil Gollner, Barney Hochstadter, Dr. Thomas J. Kaster, Herman Reichert, Charles Friesenecker, Lyle Briggs, A. F. Guenther, Fred Reichert, and Charles Mossberg. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

This League Bowls Strictly for a Good Time and Has It

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Chicago's top flight bowling leagues—the Classic, the Windy City, Randolph, North End Traveling, and Samuelson's Major—are packed with nationally recognized tenpin stars. They play for keeps every time they go to the line, and their scores in the annual rankings bear out that fact. But it is to be doubted that all of them put together enjoy the sport as much as a unique organization known as the North American Indians, which has been gathering every Tuesday eve these 20 years and more on the venerable lanes of the Archer-35th Recreation.

There are no Ned Days nor Connie Schwoeglers in the personnel of the Indians' four teams. If one of the listed artists fails to appear, his current average is used in computing his team's record for the night of his absence. And speaking of averages, 171 is the present top, held by Herman Reichert of the redoubtable Crows, while Barney Hochstadter of the Oneidas is pressing Herman with a speedy 169. Yet, while these figures are not exactly of all-star caliber, they are being registered by men who are extracting the fullest measure of fun and fellowship out of bowling.

They Live Around Here.

None of the North American Indians comes from afar for his Tuesday night tenpin pleasure. All are southwest siders who originated in the twin communities of Brighton Park and Bridgeport, the two sections which sent out a couple of fellows named Ed Kelly and Lou Petersen. Ed is now His Honor, The Mayor, and Lou is the Mr. Big of bowling. The Indians are composed of men whose every activities range from being chief surgeon of a railroad to repairing army jeeps.

The ringleaders and surviving active members of the original Indians are Dr. Thomas J. Kaster, chief surgeon of the Santa Fe and B. & O. railroads for the Chicago area, and Charley Friesenecker, long the village apothecary. Dr. Kaster is president for life, and Mr. Friesenecker is listed as the league advisor. Dr. J. F. Crowley, 76 year old dentist who was forced to give up bowling three years ago, but is still a regular attendant, is the honorary president.

They Have a Dictator.

Adviser Friesenecker is seldom addressed by that title, generally being heckled thruout an evening's bowling as the Dictator. This accusation originates from the quaint system by which he and Dr. Kaster conduct the annual meetings and elections. These find Mr. F. giving a fulsome reading of the minutes of the preceding assembly, in full accord with Roberts' Rules of Order. As it turns out, most of the characters mentioned in his report never were at the said meeting, the minutes being concocted out of Brother Friesenecker's fertile imagination in the back room of the pharmacy across the street from the bowling emporium. All objections to the Friesenecker reports are overruled by President Kaster, who is suspected of being an accomplice in the manufacture of the minutes.

The Indians' ages stretch from Fred Reichert's 43 to the 76 spry summers of Charley Mossberg, the neighborhood tailor. They bowl three games every Tuesday over a 27 week span, each session being followed by a buffet supper, interspersed with frequent draughts from what the league allows is the only community bowling beer can in the town. The cuisine arranged by Manager Hochstadter is criticized weekly with the same gusto as the verbal volleys directed at Adviser Friesenecker.

Even Petersen Bowls.

The league originated in 1912, holding forth at Charley Hechter's place until 20 years ago, when it was transferred to the Archer-35th alleys. It is the only league in which Petersen, who will open his 32d classic, carrying a purse of $32,000, in the same antiquated building Saturday, bowls. Pete, a member of the Crows, generally bowls only two games of the three, working both in his street shoes.

Bank Profits in New York Gain in Year

New York, Jan. 19 [Special].—Increased earnings during 1943 were reported by several banks and investment banking firms at stockholders' meetings held today.

J. P. Morgan & Co., Inc., reported net earnings of $4,332,020 in 1943, compared with $3,251,131 in 1942. Net earnings were credited to undivided profits, from which $1,200,000 has been disbursed to stockholders in dividends and $1,847,904 transferred to general reserve, George Whitney, president, said. This left a net balance of $3,101,624 in undivided profits on Dec. 31, 1943, an increase of $1,284,116 during the year.

Guaranty Trust Earns More.

The Guaranty Trust company reported net operating earnings of $16,617,543 last year, compared with $14,883,835 in 1942. W. Palen Conway, chairman of the board, said 2½ million dollars of current amortization of premiums on securities was charged against the amortization fund in 1942, so that in comparing results for 1943 and 1942 the 2½ millions should be deducted from 1492 earnings.

After the stockholders' meeting Eugene W. Stetson was elected board chairman to succeed Conway, who was elected vice chairman of the executive committee. J. Luther Cleveland was elected president and William C. Potter was reëlected chairman of the executive committee.

Net profit of the Irving Trust company was $4,522,400 in 1943, an increase of $809,449 above that of the preceding year, Harry E. Ward, chairman, and William E. Enstrom, president, reported. This was equal to 90 cents a capital share, compared with 74 cents a share in 1942.

Earnings Total 6.8 Millions.

The Chemical Bank and Trust company reported net operating earnings of $6,836,817 in 1943, equal to $3.42 a share of capital stock. This was exclusive of net profits and recoveries on securities amounting to $622,325 and miscellaneous credits of $140,398, Percy H. Johnston, chairman of the board, said. After dividends for the year and $1,986,253 transferred to reserves for contingencies there was a net addition to undivided profits of $2,013,289.

Net earnings of the Continental Bank and Trust company increased 66 per cent to $856,265 during 1943, Frederick E. Hasler, chairman, reported. Earnings per share amounted to $2.14, compared with $1.29 in 1942.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 [AP].—Slight increases were noted in the allocations of print cloths, sheetings, and related items today. Despite the small amounts involved, the trade looked for further improvement over the recent extreme dullness. Woolen mills produced materials for men's spring wear in limited volume. The rayon trade marked time pending clarification of the recent export set-aside order on production.

POST-WAR ROAD PROGRAM BASED ON NEEDS ASKED

With 86 per cent of all automobile traffic moving over 25 per cent of the roads of the country, post-war highway planning should be based on need rather than geographical considerations, G. Donald Kennedy, vice president of the Automotive Safety Foundation, yesterday told the Associated Equipment Distributors in the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Kennedy's statement was part of a preliminary report made by the foundation, which is headed by Paul G. Hoffman, president of the Studebaker corporation. The foundation has completed a six months' survey of the highway situation.

Bear Bulk of Traffic.

Kennedy also said the roads which carry 86 per cent of the traffic include many which are part of the inter-regional highway system of 33,000 miles that carries the larger part of military and war plant truck and bus traffic. He said the federal government has spent more than 4 billion dollars in federal aid for highways since the inception of the plan whereby it gives aid to the states in highway construction.

Federal aid helped to improve 159,000 miles out of the national system of 231,000 miles, he said. The foundation survey showed that the average life of all pavement is 12 years, so that a large part of the main arteries built during the boom period is worn out.

Must Ease Congestion.

"It is not a matter of getting out of the mud any more but of getting out of the muddle," Kennedy said. "In other words breaking down congestion in the heavy traffic areas is the big post-war problem for highway builders."

An increase in accidents is expected after the war as motorists speed up with aging cars in need of repairs. The survey shows that the passenger car is a utility vehicle rather than a pleasure automobile, because 77 per cent of all trips are for business purposes and 90 per cent of them are of less than 30 miles.

Urges Careful Disposal.

The association passed a resolution urging that after the war surplus heavy construction machinery, such as bulldozers, road equipment, and numerous other items, be disposed of in a way not to disrupt the road machinery industry which has a capital investment of more and 1 billion dollars and many thousand employes.

It was urged that the disposal be handled thru established trade channels, that acquisition of large quantities of such property by speculators not be permitted, that prices should be uniform, selling prices be at a level giving the government a fair return, and that the welfare of small business enterprises be considered.

G. W. Van Keppel, Kansas City, Mo., was elected president of the equipment distributors.

Truck Operators Seek New Pickup Rate Boost

Officials of the Illinois Motor Truck Operators association sought a 20 per cent increase in rates on pickup and delivery service performed for freight forwarders at a meeting with carloading companies in the Morrison hotel yesterday. They said the increase, subject to OPA approval, has been made necessary by higher operating costs. The truckers have been granted higher rates on pickup service performed for the railroads.

TAX FINANCED NEW INDUSTRY TO BE SHELVED

28 Hemp Plants Get One Year Run.

Alfred T. Vollum, vice president of War Hemp Industries, Inc., yesterday confirmed reports that the government would abandon two-thirds of its newly created hemp industry upon completion of the processing of the 1943 crop. The action will consign to idleness 28 of the 42 hemp plants nearing completion at a cost of more than $100,000 each. War Hemp Industries is a subsidiary of the Defense Plants corporation.

Vollum said the war production board has determined there will be no need in 1944 for producing more than one-third the amount of hemp which middle western farmers raised last year to supply the hastily erected plants. Accordingly only 14 plants will be kept in operation, he said.

Keep 4 Illinois Plants.

Plants which will be kept operating for this purpose include four each in Illinois and Iowa and three each in Minnesota and Wisconsin, he said. They are located at Polo, Kirkland, Shabbona, and Earlville, Ill.; Britt, Eagle Grove, Hampton, and Grundy Center, Ia.; New Richmond, Mapleton, and Blooming Prairie, Minn., and Cuba City, Darien, and De Forest, Wis.

Plants where operations will be suspended after the 1943 crop is processed are in the following towns:

Galesburg, Galva, Ladd, Lexington, Minonk, Muncie, and Wyoming, Ill.; Algona, Boone, Humboldt, Iowa Falls, Mason City, Rockford, and Traer, Ia.; Bird Island, Jackson, Montgomery, Sherburn, Wells, Hutchinson, Lake Lillian, and Grove City, Minn.; Hartford, Ripon, and Union Grove, Wis.; Remington and Warren, Ind., and Winchester, Ky.

Land Purchased by U. S.

In all 42 communities, the government purchased land and erected plants this year, it was said. Contracts were entered into with farmers for the raising of approximately 4,000 acres of hemp in each community. The hemp has now been harvested and is being delivered to the plants, which will begin processing as soon as they are completed.

Vollum said the government had started from scratch to create a hemp industry in this country when it appeared that normal sources of rope materials had been cut off by war. Abatement of the submarine menace in the Caribbean and the clearing of the Mediterranean has eased the shortage by permitting imports.

He asserted that farmers who raised hemp in 1943 had made a good thing of it financially, stating that their net yield per acre had been larger than from any other crop in the nation, in some cases reaching $200.

Figures on the cost of the government's hemp raising activities were obtained from Muncie, Ill., where citizens learned this week that the new hemp plant has been slated for abandonment altho it is not yet finished. Here it was said, 50 acres of land were purchased for $9,960, and cost of the buildings was estimated at $100,000.

8,000 Tons Produced.

Harvey Skadden, manager of the Muncie plant, estimated that 8,000 tons of hemp has been produced under contract for this plant and that farmers will receive $350,000 for it. Labor costs of processing will amount to another $350,000, he said, in addition to $25,000 already spent in handling the crop to date.

Using the Muncie figures as a base, it was computed that the entire project would produce about 67,200 tons of hemp fibre this year at a total cost of approximately $35,000,000, including the cost of establishing the plants.

One of the beneficiaries of the hemp project in Muncie was Everett L. Dalbey, an attorney and prominent figure in Democratic politics. He was the owner of the 50 acres bought by the government as a plant site. This was farm land and was selected in preference to the site of an abandoned commercial hemp factory, it was said.

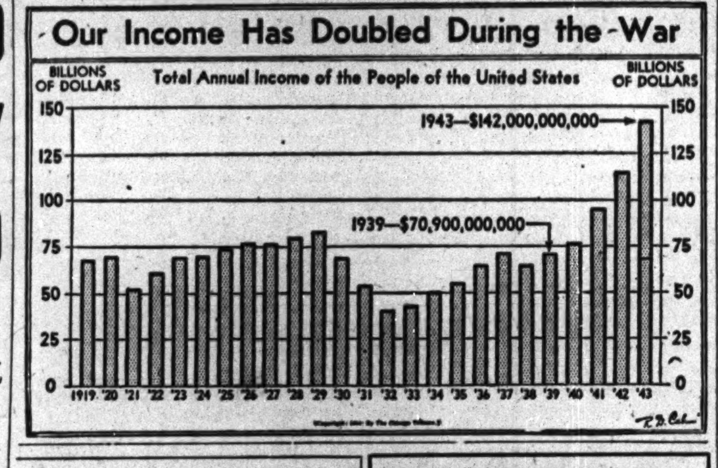
EXPECT LARGE MOVEMENT OF CORN TO MARKET

Movement of cash corn from farms to terminal markets, below normal for several weeks, may assume large proportions shortly, grain traders said yesterday. Chicago interests were estimated to have purchased more than 1½ million bushels of corn in the last three days. Other markets bought a similar amount during the same period, it was said.

The big corn business failed to affect other grains, altho it was believed the trend of wheat and other grain prices will be determined to a large extent by the amount of corn made available for live stock feed. Wheat closed unchanged to ¼ cent a bushel lower. Rye was up 1 cent early but reacted with wheat and finished ⅜ to ¾ cent higher. Oats gained ¼ to ⅜ cent, and barley was ¼ to ⅝ cent higher.

Belmont Radio Trebles Peace Time Production

Production of radio and other electronic equipment for the army and navy by Belmont Radio corporation last year was equivalent to 1,800,000 civilian radios, or three times the peace time level.



Senate Group Rebuffs F.D.R. on Subsidies

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—The Roosevelt administration was given another jolt today when the senate banking and currency committee approved the Bankhead bill to ban consumers' subsidies designed to prevent price increases on food or roll back present prices.

The senate will resume consideration of the entire problem of subsidies as soon as the tax bill is completed, probably on Friday.

Floor Fight Expected.

Administration forces are expected to make a vigorous fight on the floor of the senate for the consumers' subsidies, since President Roosevelt has urged the subsidy program as necessary to prevent inflation.

The banking and currency committee, however, refused to approve the consumers' subsidy program or even to accept a compromise proposal of Sen. Taft [R., O.] which would have provided a limited program of consumers' subsidies.

House Backed Ban.

A ban on consumers' subsidies, commonly called roll back subsidies, has already passed the house over administration protests. Consumers' subsidies have been under fire for some time. Support subsidies intended to keep the prices paid producers up, however, have met far less opposition.

REQUESTS WMC SUPPLY MEN TO CUT PULPWOOD

New York, Jan. 19 (AP).—The American Paper and Pulp association called today for increased man power to cut pulpwood and said the alternative was "a catastrophic shortage of paper." Primary need, the association said in a statement, is for the war man power commission to "act and act with effectiveness."

"Required domestic paper and paperboard production for 1944 is between 16 and 17 million tons," the association said, "and a shortage of some 3 million tons for the year is inevitable unless a broad program of remedial measures is inaugurated."

The association reported 1943 pulpwood cutting "drastically reduced" from 1942 with an average reduction in the northeast of 32 per cent and in the Great Lakes states of 25 per cent.

EAST ST. LOUIS BANKS BROUGHT 'BRANCH' RULING

East St. Louis, Ill., banks, disturbed by invasion of their territory by the trust departments of St. Louis banks, were said in Chicago banking circles yesterday to have backed the campaign which culminated in an opinion by the Illinois Supreme court limiting privileges of out of state banks. The decision denied the Boatman's bank of St. Louis a mandamus to compel Illinois authorization of the bank's proposal to establish a fiduciary office in East St. Louis.

"It's the old question of branch banking in a sense," one bank official said. "The downstaters object to intrusion by out of state banks. Illinois law prohibits branch banking in this state."

He said several eastern banks have been licensed to do trust business in Illinois, which is largely of a corporate nature.

Melville Shoe's Sales Drop 27 Pct. in Month

Melville Shoe corporation yesterday reported December sales of $4,016,918, a drop of 27.2 per cent from sales a year earlier. Sales during 1943 declined 24 per cent to $39,238,085 from the preceding year.

MONETT, CINDERELLA TOWN OF CORN, GOES BACK TO OWN WAYS

Monett, Mo., Jan. 19 [Special].—This small railroad town has suddenly lost its title as the corn trading center of the nation. The OPA threatened heavy fines for persons using the Monett ceiling, a few cents higher than at other markets, for rebilling corn to other destinations.

Before the "boom" ended more than 2 million bushels of corn had been traded thru the Monett "exchange" and farmers and stockmen of the area have more corn than they have had in many years.

TREASURY BROADENS REMOVAL OF DOLLAR LIMITS FOR BONUSES

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19 (AP).—The treasury announced today it will apply retroactively to 1943 a new salary stabilization policy removing dollars and cents limitation on commission and bonuses.

The policy permits employers to pay without the formality of official approval any percentage type compensation earned under a contract or established policy, provided no change has been made in the percentage, method of computation or base salary since the stabilization program began in October, 1942. Previously some payments were limited to the amount paid in 1941-'42.

Robert E. Hannegan, internal revenue commissioner, said today's action would have no effect on salesmen's commissions since the dollar limitation previously had been lifted for them.

In the case, however, of executives, branch managers, and others earning so-called over-riding commissions or percentage bonuses, the ruling will permit employers to adjust 1943 payments upward in cases in which the dollar limit held the payments below the normal percentage figure.

Canol Project Idea of U. S., Says Canada

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 19 [Special].—Some of the details of the arrangement under which the United States army's Canol oil development project was instituted were disclosed today by the war time information board. The United States government asked permission to develop a supplementary oil supply for the army in Alaska in January, 1943, the board said in a review of joint defense projects entered into by Canada and the United States.

The agreement permitted exploratory drilling in the Yukon territory and the western part of the Mackenzie district "by the nominee of the United States government, Imperial Oil company, Ltd."

Forbids Drilling of Others.

Operations by any other persons were forbidden, "because of the desire not to put any obstacle in the way of development of oil resources for vital war needs and because of transportation difficulties in the area," the report said.

"While the original Canol plan was designed to solve the problem of oil supply for Alaska and the Yukon if enemy action should interrupt tanker movement up the coast, the United States government had the more immediate problem of establishing the quickest supply line possible under existing conditions to supplement tank car movement over the [Alaska] highway," it explained in telling why Canada agreed to the Canol project.

Letters Detail Area.

The report included several letters exchanged between the United States legation and the Canadian department of external affairs.

These letters revealed that exploration could be conducted in an area 75 miles each side of the Mackenzie river from the Great Slave lake on the south to the Arctic ocean on the north, and in all of the Yukon territory lying north of the 66th parallel.

NO CERTIFICATES NEEDED TO BUY BATH FIXTURES

Howard Richardson, district deputy director of WPB, yesterday clarified order L-79, as amended last Saturday, which largely removes restrictions on the purchase of plumbing equipment. He said that consumers may purchase bath tubs, lavatories, toilets, laundry trays, sinks, showers, shower stalls, condensation pumps, chemical toilets, drinking fountains, septic tanks, grease interceptors, flush tanks, sinks, and wash fountains without WPB authorization. They need not file a certification of need with their dealer, he said.

Drop Efforts to Increase Liquor Tax

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19 (AP).—A proposal to impose a heavy graduated tax on liquor kept in bonded warehouses longer than four years was dropped today as the senate neared completion of the $2,275,600,000 revenue bill. Only the controversial amendments to the war contracts renegotiation law remained to be ironed out.

Sen. Overton [D., La.], author of the liquor amendment, said he thought the subject needed further study and should be handled as separate legislation. Overton had said it served a double barreled purpose: to force additional whisky into a depleted market and to bring in more revenue for the government.

Excise sections of the pending measure would increase the regular tax on spirits from $6 to $9 a proof gallon.

Subcommittee Is Named.

Other tax developments today included:

1. Appointment of a subcommittee of the senate finance committee to attempt to compose remaining differences on the renegotiation law.

2. Rejection, by a roll call vote of 44 to 26, of an attempt to exclude farm coöperatives from the requirement of providing the treasury with annual financial statements.

3. Rejection of an amendment to retain the present admissions tax rate of 1 per cent for each 10 cents of charge. Under the bill all admission taxes are doubled.

4. Adoption of an amendment by Sen. Murray [D., Mont.] pledging congress to make a direct appropriation when necessary to maintain the integrity of the reserve fund from which social security benefits are paid. This amendment was an aftermath of the senate's vote to freeze social security pay roll taxes at the present 1 per cent rate for the balance of 1944.

Expect Action Today.

The renegotiation subcommittee hoped to be able to present an acceptable compromise plan to the full committee tomorrow for possible senate action later in the day. Senators George [D., Ga.], Walsh [D., Mass.], Taft [R., O.], and La Follette [Prog., Wis.] were named to the group.

Sen. Aiken [R., Vt.] tried to get the farm coöperatives exempted from the house approved requirement that labor unions, coöps, and other organizations not subject to income taxation provide the treasury with annual statements of their income and outlay. An unsuccessful attempt was made yesterday to strike out the entire section.

Aiken said many of the farm coöps didn't have the facilities or personnel to make the reports and also that some coöperative officials regarded the requirement as a step toward taxation.

WLB DEMANDS 1,000 FOREMEN RETURN TO JOBS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19 (AP).—The war labor board today directed that striking foremen at the Chrysler corporation plants in Detroit return to work immediately. Approximately 1,000 foremen in eight plants were reported to be involved.

A telegram sent to Robert H. Keys, president of the Foremen's Association of America at Detroit, by N. P. Feinsinger, director of the WLB disputes division, said the war and navy departments believed the strike is "effecting an appreciable slowdown of production."

"This strike must be ended immediately," the telegram said. "The board will not give further consideration to any of the cases which were the subject of a public hearing Jan. 4 in which your union is vitally interested until the impairment to production has been removed."

LOEW'S, INC., NET PROFIT EQUALS $8.01 PER SHARE

Net income of Loew's, Inc., and subsidiaries for the year ended Aug. 31, 1943, was reported yesterday to be $13,422,853, equal to $8.01 a share, compared with $12,132,606, or $7.02 a share, in 1942. Federal taxes totaled $21,239,870 against $6,932,512 the year before. A total of $1,160,358 was added to surplus from proceeds of foreign currency not heretofore considered income.

Liggett & Myers Tobacco company reported net income, subject to renegotiation, for the year ended Dec. 31 was $15,656,410, compared with $15,754,543 in 1942.

ORDER PERMIT SYSTEM TO CUT HOG MARKETING

New Chicago Plan Effective Monday.

The Chicago hog marketing committee yesterday announced a shipping permit system would be put into effect at the Chicago stock yards next Monday, similar to one used during a market congestion in 1933 when the government was buying and destroying large numbers of small pigs. Live stock other than hogs can be shipped without permits.

It is hoped that the open market in the yards can handle 100,000 hogs next week with less congestion, altho it is not expected that the permit system will completely eliminate the market glut. Last week the open market handled 101,323, but large numbers were unsold at the end of each session.

Based on 1943 Volume.

Each commission firm will be given a weekly sales quota based on the percentage of total volume they handled during the first 11 months of 1943. Commission men already have asked farmers not to ship hogs until they get permission from the firm which represents them in the yards.

A large percentage of yesterday's receipts, at 24,000, including 8,000 direct to packers, sold at steady prices, altho some stock under 200 pounds and over 300 pounds were 5 to 10 cents lower. About 22,000 head within the floor price weight bracket were unsold at the close.

Steady to strong prices were paid for practically all classes of cattle. Top steers reached $17, equaling the highest sale since July. Top grades of lambs were steady, but others lost as much as 25 cents.

Slaughter Sets Record.

Hog slaughter in federally inspected plants last week set an all time record, the war meat board reported. Hogs slaughtered totaled 1,871,000 head, yielding an output of 269 million pounds of pork exclusive of lard.. This represented well over half the total meat production of 437 million pounds which showed an increase of 5 per cent over the preceding week.

This high level of meat production will not result in more meat for civilian consumption, the board emphasized, because larger government requirements will absorb the increase.

Output of beef amounted to 136 million pounds, an increase of nine million; production of veal was 12 million pounds, a decrease of one million, and lamb and mutton production was 20 million pounds, an increase of one million.

Republic Denies Electric Furnaces Will Shut Down

Officials of Republic Steel corporation yesterday spiked reports the company was shutting down its new Chicago plant which contains nine 70 ton electric furnaces. Construction of the new plant, which is in partial operation, is continuing, they said.

Warns End of War in Europe Will Not Aid Civilians Greatly

The end of the war in Europe will not be the signal for a sudden, unlimited output of consumer goods, Henry A. Dinegar, director of durable goods and products division of the office of civilian requirements, war production board, said yesterday. He addressed a breakfast meeting of the National Retail Furniture association in the American Furniture Mart.

Altho metal requirements of the military branches will recede with the defeat of Germany, Dinegar said, it is obvious these needs will hold at a substantial level until Japan is defeated.

To Equip Farms, Industry.

"Tremendous quantities of materials must be used to rebuild and reëquip railroads and material must be found to build large quantities of farm equipment and food processing machinery and to replace worn pieces of equipment in American industrial plants," he said.

Dinegar predicted additional quantities of machinery and other goods requiring metal would be needed for rehabilitation of occupied countries. For these reasons the materials available for consumer durable goods will be limited and production restricted for a much longer period of time then is assumed in some quarters, he warned.

"The outlook for textiles is substantially the same," he said. "While demands of the procurement agencies will fall, the demand of the export and rehabilitation agencies will rise, leaving a not greatly expaned margin for the American consumer. For a time, at least, the same thing will be true of food."

Can Supply Needed Types.

The essential types of wood furniture should continue to be available for civilians, he said, but reduced lumber production will restrict the supply of less needed types. Better grades of upholstered furniture during 1944 will be available because of the additional quantities of steel which will be made available for springs.

Steel household and office furniture will not be produced in any substantial quantities, he said. Altho the steel for such production may be available, it is unlikely that man power facilities will permit the resumption of such production in the near future.

Stock Prices Close Weak; Trade Lighter

New York, Jan. 19 (AP).—For the third successive session the stock market today had difficulty in finding a real trend, but at the close declines exceeded advances by a substantial margin.

Most leaders yielded a little ground in early trading but the selling had small force and a halting and uneven rally marked the final hour.

The government's action in handing back the railroads to their owners as a token of settlement of wage differences with non-operating employes failed to inspire bullish interest in carriers or other groups. In view of recent strength in the rails the Washington news was regarded as already discounted.

The Associated Press 60 stock composite was down .01 of a point at 50.7, the first change since Saturday. Dealings amounted to 639,230 shares compared with 815,180 yesterday.

BOND PRICES LOWER.

New York, Jan. 19 (AP).—Rails, utilities, and foreign issues were reactionary in the bond market today. Losses were generally small, however, and there were scattered firm spots among industrials and miscellaneous issues.

Small but persistent offerings of rail bonds overhung the market and some losses of major fractions to more than a point resulted.

Trading shrank to $11,584,900, compared with $13,599,200 yesterday. It was the smallest sales volume for a full session in about 10 days.

CHICAGO STOCKS MIXED.

Prices on the Chicago Stock exchange were uneven. Most active issues included Chicago corporation, unchanged; Belmont Radio, up ¼; Libby, McNeill, and Libby, down ⅛; Electric Household Utilities, unchanged. General Outdoor Advertising common rose ⅛ to a new 1944 peak of 6⅛.

The mid-winter conference of the National Construction Machinery Credit group, sponsored by the Chicago Association of Credit Men, in the Palmer House, will hold its second and final session today.

CHICAGO PLANT TO MAKE ROLLS ENGINE CASTING

Chicago will have an important part in the building of the Rolls-Royce liquid cooled engines which power fast American and British fighting planes, it became known yesterday. The Howard Foundry company has been awarded a contract running into many millions of dollars for making forgings for the engine. The Packard Motor Car company, Detroit, Mich., is the largest producer of the engines in this country.

Lt. Gen. W. S. Knudsen, former General Motors president, made an inspection trip of the Howard plant yesterday and also visited the Dodge Chicago and Douglas plants.

Frank C. Howard, president, said the Howard company's war plants were officially completed about a month ago. However, a $600,000 expansion program to take care of the new Rolls-Royce engine contract will not be finished until the middle of next month.

The company operates three plants in the Chicago area, one for aluminum castings, a second for magnesium, largest of its kind in the world, and the third for brass, copper, and bronze castings.

SET U. S. STEEL WAGE DEMANDS COST AT $9 TON

WLB Asked to Take Over Dispute.

With the settlement of the stormy railroad wage case not even 24 hours old, the demands of the United Steelworkers of America [CIO] for a 17 cents an hour wage increase in the steel industry was headed for the war labor board yesterday after a breakdown in negotiations. The increase if attained would break the already badly bent "Little Steel" wage formula.

The five major steel producing subsidiaries of the United States Steel corporation yesterday requested the secretary of labor to certify to the WLB several issues growing out of proposals made last Dec. 14 by the union. Collective bargaining conferences held since have not brought any agreement.

Wildcat Strikes Predicted.

The possible recurrence of wildcat strikes was foreseen because of anticipated delay in settlement once the wage question is placed in the hands of the WLB. Less than a month ago production was retarded by widespread work stoppages in independent plants resulting from contract delays.

United States Steel estimated that if all of the union's 43 proposals were granted and applied to all subsidiaries having contracts with the union, its manufacturing costs would be increased about 186 million dollars annually. This would be equivalent to an average increase in cost of $9 a ton of finished steel shipped by the company's units during 1943, it was said, without allowance for a guaranteed minimum weekly wage or for severance pay as requested by the union.

John A. Stephens, vice president in charge of industrial relations for the corporation, said the proposals being referred to the WLB for hearing "are of such a nature as not to permit solution in collective bargaining." He said in his letter to the secretary of labor that further negotiations are considered futile. The union had no comment.

Inland Still Negotiating.

From the time and care the union has taken in its negotiations with the corporation, which produces about one-third of the nation's steel, it has been understood that the case would serve as a test and perhaps a model for the entire industry and its 800,000 workers.

The Inland Steel company, Chicago, said that its wage negotiations have been going on for several weeks and still are pending. The situation among other independent producers was said to be similar.

The WLB certification request was made on behalf of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, American Steel and Wire company, National Tube company, Columbia Steel company, and Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company.

Northwestern Mutual's Business Makes Big Gain

The Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company made a gain of $130,997,000 of insurance during 1943, the total in force standing at $4,257,440,000 at the end of the year, it was announced yesterday. Hobart and Oates, Chicago general agents for the company, led all agencies in business produced, showing a gain of 24 per cent over 1942.

THE CRIPPLE
Among the high crimes and misdemeanors of the Times-Herald is its inability to forget that American Industry is winning the war for the American people.
We don't think that American Industry is at all times above reproach and some of it may even be as venal and corrupt as its enemies in Washington contend.
But you must admit it's doing a grand job for a cripple.
